63% of College Males Pass Draft Examination

Sixty-three per cent of the 339,000 students who took the selective service college qualification tests last spring and summer made a score of 70 or better, as reported by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service.

Another test will be given Dec. 13.

Criteria for deferment as a student, the decision to be made by the local draft board, is either a satisfactory score (70) on the test or satisfactory rank in one's male class.

Required rankings are upper-half of the male freshman class, upper two-thirds of the sophomore class, or upper three-fourths of the junior class. Seniors accepted for admission to a graduate school satisfy the criteria if they stand in the upper half of their class, or make a score of 75 or better on the test. Students already enrolled in graduate schools may be deferred as long as they remain in good standing.

These criteria are guides; the local boards are not required to defer students who meet them, although the criteria are used as a basis for deferments.

Hershey said he believed virtually all opposition to the college deferment plan on the basis that it gives preferred treatment to the young men who can afford to go to college has been dissipated. He said there is now a general understanding that the purpose of the plan is to select those most fitted, to pursue college educations, and that a large proportion of college students are "working their way through college," either partly or wholly.

"We are faced with an emergency that many experts predict will last perhaps 10 to 20 years," Hershey said. "We must, therefore, think in long-range terms, in developing plans to provide an adequate supply of highly skilled manpower. I believe the country is aware that it is logical, in deferring students in the national interest, to defer those with demonstrated ability, instead of gambling on those with lower capacity."

Hershey explained that the intent of Congress was to allow these students to be deferred only until they have completed their college training. It is by no means an outright exemption, he emphasized.

Last Call Issued For AWS Goods

Last call for "white elephants" to be sold at the Associate Women Students' auction has been made by AWS Congress President Sue Lichty. This afternoon and evening AWS committee members will visit the various houses on campus and pick up the collection boxes in order to sort the articles for sale Friday.

Many of the smaller items will be priced and placed on sale. However, the large articles will go on auction, Miss Lichty said. The money will be accepted at the time of the purchase, she explained.

Bob Chambers, senior in liberal arts, will be the auctioneer. Besides auctioning off the contributions he will sell the Alpha Chi Omega pledge class and the Sigma Chi sophomore class to the highest bidders.

Both groups will present a sneak preview, at the auction, of the acts they will give to the highest bidders. Phi Beta Phi and Alpha Delta Pi pledges will also entertain.

Money received at the auction, which will be held on the Student Union porch at 4 p.m. Friday, will be converted into scholarships for deserving women, Miss Lichty stated.

Petitions Due Friday For Red Cross Board

Petitions for offices on the campus Red Cross board were called for Wednesday by Gerry Pearson, acting president of the board.

Positions are open for president, vice president, treasurer, Roseburg trips and special events.

The Roseburg trips are visits to the Roseburg veterans' hospital taken by campus women for the purpose of planning parties for the invalids, Miss Pearson explained.

Petitions should be turned in by 4:30 p.m. Friday, she said.

IFC Meets Tonight

Interfraternity council will meet at 7 p.m. tonight in the Student Union. Vice President Norm Peterson will preside in the absence of President Dick McLaughlin.
