Illegal Parking Fines Doubled; Issue Raised

The fine for parking in Deady-Villard parking lot was doubled by the Student Court in a meeting Wednesday night in an effort to clear the area for loading and unloading and maintain an open lane in case of fire. If the situation is not corrected, the court decided that the fine will be tripled.

The court received a letter of protest from P. L. Risly, head of the Biology department, who contended that tickets were being issued when the person who left his car in the lot was in the line of duty.

A reply is being prepared, stating that any person who feels he received a ticket unjustifiably has the right to appear before the court and appeal his case.

Mike Adams, chairman of the court, reminded students that all cars on the campus must have a parking sticker in the lower right hand corner of the front windshield. The sticker is not for parking privileges alone, but for operating the vehicle anywhere on campus.

The possibility of scheduling court sessions for winter was discussed, but action was deferred until the next meeting, which is planned for Dec. 5.

Dull Wins Grant For Japan Study

Paul S. Dull, associate professor of political science and history, has been granted a leave of absence from the University for a year's research in Japan.

Dull was given a travel grant by the Social Science Research Council to enable him to spend a year in Japan studying the political behavior of the Japanese. He will leave next summer.

The research will be done through translation of the biographies of Japanese politicians as well as field interviews, Dull said. He and his family, who will accompany him on the trip, will live in the Tokyo area where most of the study will be carried out. Dull will travel throughout Japan.

This is Dull's first trip to the Orient since 1938. At that time, he was in Korea and Manchuria in addition to Japan.

Last spring, Dull was given the award for the outstanding professor at Oregon by Friars, senior men's honorary.

Justice to Talk Here Tuesday

Oregon Supreme Court Justice James T. Brand will speak on the Oregon campus at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the music school auditorium under the sponsorship of Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science honorary, and the Atlantic Union committee.

Brand's topic has not been announced.

A member of the Oregon bar since 1914, Brand was appointed judge of the military tribunal for trial of major war criminals in Nuremberg, Germany, in 1947. He was a practicing attorney in Coos Bay from 1914 to 1927, served as a circuit judge from 1927 to 1941 and became an associate supreme court justice in 1941.

Brand was a lecturer on jurisprudence in the University of Oregon law school in 1937.

A graduate of Harvard's law school, the justice has a son, Tom Brand, currently enrolled in Oregon's school of law.

Brand is a trustee of Reed college and a member of the board of governors of the Oregon state bar.

Business Manager Petitions Called

Applicants for Emerald business manager must have their petitions turned in to room M101 in the Student Union by noon today in order to be eligible for consideration by the publications board this evening.

The position, vacated by Abbott Paine, who resigned, involves management of the business side of the paper including classified advertising, display advertising and circulation. The business manager receives $60 a month in addition to sales commissions.

Yeomen Once Powerhouse In Campus Athletic Circles

Saturday was more than just another Homecoming for Yeomen, members of the campus organization for Eugene city male students. Saturday was also the 21st anniversary of the founding of Yeomen.

The constitution of the group was ratified on Nov. 24, 1930, and the stated purpose was the promotion of student activities for independent men.

That first business meeting was followed by a talk by Dr. Mero Sasonn, who discussed "The Teutonic Versus the Romantic European Cultures."

Athletic Powers

Although Yeomen were highly-feared athletic powers during their early years, athletic deemphasis began in May of 1935 when one Esteb, a retiring president (no pun intended), suggested that the Yeomen concentrate upon social activities and no longer stress upon athletics or politics.

Whether intended or not, his suggestions were ultimately carried out. That year the Yeomen were second in the final intramural total-points scoring for the second year in a row. They never again finished among the top three.

The Yeomen were third in the final scoring in 1931, first in 1932, again in 1933, second in 1934 and second again in 1935.

However, by 1938, they had dropped to 10th place, and last year they were 35th. Gone are the days when Yeoman would capture

Career of Senator Douglas Marked By Turns as Educator, Marine

University of Chicago economics professor, participant in and adviser to local, state and national government groups, winner of the Bronze Star and Purple Heart as a marine in World War II, president of the American Economic association and named outstanding senator by a poll of Washington correspondents in the third year of his freshman term.

These have been the major roles of Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), who will discuss "Problems Facing Our Nation Today" in Tuesday's assembly at 1 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

The Washington correspondents named Douglas the outstanding senator in congress in a poll conducted by Time, weekly news-magazine, this year. The 59-year old freshman member of the senate has been prominently mentioned as a possible Democratic nominee in the 1952 presidential election.

Busy Schedule

Douglas, who will speak in Portland prior to his coming to the University, will follow this schedule, according to plans:

Press conference at 11 a.m.

Luncheon at noon with the assembly committee and faculty members of the economics department.

Assembly at 1 p.m.

Informal coffee hour at 4 p.m. in the Student Union. All students and faculty have been invited by the Student Union board and Mortar board, sponsors.

Douglas, who graduated from Bowdoin college in Maine in 1913 and studied at Harvard and Columbia—receiving his Ph.D. degree at Columbia—taught at Chicago from 1920 until he took office in the senate in 1949. He has been professor of economics at that school since 1925.

Served in Marines

The freshman senator served in the United States marines from 1942 to 1946, rising from the rank of private (at the age of 50) to lieutenant colonel.

Requesting overseas duty, he was sent to the South Pacific, where he fought in the campaigns of Pelelieu and Okinawa.

He was wounded twice, the last time severely, and was awarded the Bronze Star for "heroism in action", the Purple Heart and the Theatre Ribbon with two battle stars. He resumed his position on the Chicago faculty in 1946.

In 1947 he was elected president of the American Economics association, the top position in the national economic field, and in 1948 he was elected to the senate, having been defeated for the same position when he ran in 1942.

Eventful Career

The activities of Douglas in the fields of economics and government have included:

Chairman of the Board of Arbitration for Newspaper Publishing Industry from 1925 to 1942, the longest term in this work on record.

Secretary of the New York Committee to Stabilize Employment.

Secretary Named To Phone Group; Others in Offing

Dick Kading, now leading Oregon's stand on the pay phone controversy, named Ann Dielschneider, a sophomore in architecture and allied arts, as secretary of the committee which will represent Oregon students at Tuesday's informal meeting in Salem with Public Utilities commission and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph co. officials.

Kading said he will appoint dormitory and co-op representatives to the group today. Kading was appointed to head the move by ASUO President Bill Carey. Carey plans to appoint a senate member to the committee. The problem will be brought up in senate tonight.

The meeting was called by PUC in an attempt to iron out the problem without resorting to public hearing.

Present at the discussion, slated for 10 a.m. Tuesday in the PUC hearing room of the public service building in Salem, will be PUC officials—headed by Commissioner George Flagg—PT & T representatives and students representing Oregon, Oregon State college, and Willamette university.

J. O. Lindstrom, University business manager, told Kading Wednesday the basis for pay phones should be consistent—in all living organizations or none, in all state colleges or none and finally in all colleges in the nation or none.

One problem complicating the issue, Kading said, is the difference between the situations at OSC and Oregon. The Oregon State business manager requested that the PT & T install new telephones in OSC dormitories; the company planned to install them in all houses.

At Oregon, however, pay phones were installed by the telephone company at its own volition, Kading pointed out.

State dormitories now have pay phones, as do all Oregon living organizations. Basis for the prevention of installing pay telephones in OSC fraternal organizations was their claim that they are private, not semi-public; a PT & T ruling says pay phones may not be installed in private places unless requested.

Another factor mentioned by Lindstrom, Kading said, is that the University is saving nearly $5000 this year on the pay phones—not having to pay wages for personnel.

ASUO Senate Faces Crammed Agenda

First item of business for the ASUO senate meeting at 6:30 p.m. today in the Student Union is a statement by the Honor Code committee.

This will be followed by a report and recommendations from the special committee which has been studying possible amendments to the ASUO Constitution, a discussion of the Rally board constitution and a report on the ASUO budget increase.

Next item on the agenda is a report on action taken and planned on the pay phones situation, followed by reports on the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders state conference and the Willamette assembly presented Tuesday in the Student Union, a discussion of Dads' Day chairmanship, old and new business and adjournment.
