

Charlotte Heup Chosen 'Little Colonel' at Dance

Charlotte Heup, freshman in liberal arts, was named "Little Colonel" by Major-General Thomas E. Rilea, adjutant general of the State of Oregon, Saturday night at the Military Ball.

Audrey Mistretta, Betsy Thayer, Joan Marie Miller and Barbara Keelen were named "Little Captains." Miss Heup was presented with the gold eagle of a colonel by General Rilea and the "Little Captains" were presented gold captains bars by their escorts.

Approximately 450 people danced to the music of King Perry's orchestra under a false ceiling of red, white and blue streamers. The original flag from the battleship "Oregon" covered one end of the ballroom. The flag, which has only 45 stars, is believed to have been through the Spanish-American war.

Eighteen men were tapped for Seaboard and Blade, military honorary, at intermission. These tapped were:

Leo Nuttman, senior in geology and geography; Thomas Whitson, senior in business administration; Don Collip, junior in economics; Dave Karr, junior in business administration.

Bill Tuck, senior in general science; John Fraunfelder, junior in law; Henry Kaiura, sophomore in history; Bill Nicholson, graduate student in mathematics; Gerald Anderson, junior in physics; Harold Neufeld, junior in law; Jack Byers, junior in liberal arts; Alan Bobb, junior in business administration.

Wallace Early, junior in business administration; George Troeh, graduate student in business administration; Roger Reynolds, junior in business administration; Garret Romaine, junior in law; Armand Myers, junior in liberal arts.

Five men who were to be tapped at the dance were not present. They are Rogers Dockstader, junior in business administration; Mike Lally, junior in business; Harlon Mickey, sophomore in business administration; Alan Kershaw, junior in business administration; and John Gill, junior in law.

General Rilea was made an honorary member of the military organization.

Yale Scholarships Open to Students In Education Field

Yale university graduate school is offering scholarships of $450 to $1000 for students who plan to enroll in the fifth year of a five-year program in teaching.

The scholarships are to aid graduates in earning master of arts degrees in teaching.

The scholarships are open to all graduates of colleges of liberal arts or scientific schools who want to teach in secondary schools or junior colleges.

Only prerequisite is an adequate undergraduate preparation in the proposed field of teaching. The graduate must also meet regular requirements for admission to the graduate school, including a qualifying examination and reading knowledge of French or German.

The Yale program emphasizes graduate study in one's proposed teaching field as well as professional courses of liberal and technical content designed to meet certification requirements in the state in which the student desires to teach.

Persons interested may address inquiries to Theodore Andersson, director, master of arts in teaching, Hall of graduate studies, Yale university, New Haven, Conn. Applications for scholarships must be in by Feb. 15.

Inquiring Reporter 'It's Slushy!' It's Typical Comment About Snowfall

By Jean Lewis

Some people like the snow and others do not. That summarizes how those students who were questioned by the inquiring reporter felt about the recent weather condition.

"How do you like the snow?"

King Shanks—freshman in business administration—"It's running down the usual study attitude. It's making people overly playful."

LaRue Daniel—senior in English—"If I didn't like it what would the Emerald do about it?"

Nancy Yates—junior in political science—"Where on earth do you get these questions."

Harold Neufeld—junior in economics—"It brings out the poet in me."

Harriet Vahey—junior in English—"I love snow—I wish it would snow so much we could go sliding."

Mary Juergens—senior in foreign languages—"It's fine but not here on the campus. It's pretty but slushy."

Bill Holman—senior in business—"I don't think too much of the snow. I hope it's gone by morning. I can't even get my car out of the garage."

Diane Reed—freshman in political science—"It's fun. Wonderful to attract people is attention. My boyfriend just left me because I hit him."

Robert Nelson—graduate in education—"It's too cold. If it were a little warmer it would be more satisfactory."

Norman Kolb—sophomore in business—"It's pretty slushy."

Jim Harbaugh—freshman in education—"I just wrote a comp theme on it. Sloppy. (The snow that is)."

Educators to Talk At OHSPA Meet

State leaders in education and a visiting speaker from the University of Illinois will attend the Secondary Education conference on the campus Friday and Saturday.

Sponsored by the Oregon High School Principals' association, the Oregon state department of education and the University, the conference deals with the in service training of the secondary school principal.

Harold C. Hand, professor of education at the University of Illinois, will deliver a speech Friday on "Practical procedures which enable the principal to improve on the job." Saturday his topic will be "How local action studies are helping Illinois principals improve their schools."

Dean W. Mickelwait, president of the OHSPA, will preside over the conference which will begin at 1:30 p.m. Friday and close with a business meeting Saturday afternoon.

Others giving addresses are William C. Jones, dean of administration; Rex Putnam, state superintendent of public instruction; and Joy Hills, director of teacher education and certification.

Hostess Photos Due Wednesday

Wednesday is the last day to submit photographs for the Dad's Day hostess contest, according to Carolyn Silva, special events chairman. Pictures must be turned in by noon to the ASUO office in the Student Union or to Miss Silva at Kappa Alpha Theta.

Rules for the contest state that:

1. Photographs must be in black and white, with only the individual competing in the picture.
2. A return address must be written on the back of each entry.
3. Contestants must be married women, either University students themselves or wives of students.

Pictures will be accepted on behalf of all eligible persons from their friends, Miss Silva said, and all pictures will be returned.

Three finalists will be selected by a board of judges and these will be voted on by the student body. The hostess will welcome Oregon Dads to the campus and will be presented at the luncheon Saturday, February 2, and at the game that evening.

Friday Mixer Will Aid Dimes Drive

A basketball mixer will be held from 9:30 p.m. to midnight Friday in the Student Union.

The basketball mixer, third in a series, is being held in conjunction with the March of Dimes campaign to raise money for the treatment of polio. It will be held after the Oregon-St. Mary's game in McArthur Court.

There will be no admission charge but a "wishing well" for contributions will be highlighted.

Ken Lomax, disk jockey from radio station KUGH, will be on hand to tape record parts of the program, including entertainment, interviews with several of the basketball players and the chairman of the March of Dimes campaign.

Lomax will broadcast portions of the recordings over his radio program on Saturday night.

ROTC Announces Varsity Rifle Club Openings for Men

Membership on the varsity rifle team is now open to any men who have had experience on a rifle range, the ROTC department has announced. It is not necessary that applicants be currently enrolled in the ROTC program, the department said.

Interested persons may report to M/Sgt. Paul G. Steiner, technical specialist, or Maj. Sam E. Sheffield, assistant professor of air science, on the ROTC rifle range in the military department building between 3 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The varsity team is a member of the Willamette Valley league and has six scheduled matches. The team will compete with the Shedd, Ore. "Sureshots", the Eugene Moose organization team, Springfield and Corvallis. Matches are held on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday nights.

THEY'RE both good basketball players. But if we were to judge them the way we judge telephone equipment, we'd take the small one.

You see, telephone equipment occupies valuable space, uses costly materials. Paring down its size helps keep down the cost of telephone service.

Take voice amplifiers, for example. Telephone engineers put the squeeze on size, came up with a new small type. When 600 of these new amplifiers are mounted on a frame two feet wide and eleven feet high, they do a job which once required a roomful of equipment. Size was cut—but not performance!

This is one of many cases where the Bell System has made big things small to help keep the cost of telephone service low.
