

SAE's Crush Tekes; Sederstrom, French, Delta Upsilon Also Victors

By Lauren Loveland

The intramural basketball action Tuesday afternoon was divided between "A" and "B" squad action. In the "A" team activity Phi Gamma Delta nosed out Theta Chi 33 to 29 in an overtime game, Sigma Alpha Epsilon dumped Tau Kappa Epsilon 35 to 9, and the game between Phi Kappa Sigma and Alpha Tau Omega was postponed due to the lack of time remaining after the completion of the Theta Chi-Fiji game.

In the "B" squad games, Sederstrom hall came out on top in their game with Hunter hall, 30 to 17, Delta Upsilon edged Chi Psi 10 to 6 in one of the slowest games of the season, and French hall rolled over Cherney hall in the other game in the freshman competition.

DU's Edge Chi Psi

The DU boys and the Chi Psis gave an exaggerated example of OSC "slow down" game of a couple years back. Neither team was driving through in the racehorse style of game that is so common now, but rather they would play ball control and wait for a chance for a good shot to present itself. The halftime score was 5 to 2 with Chi Psi on top.

In the second period DU added eight points to their total while the Chi Psis were able to add only one free throw. One oddity of the game was the fact that Chi Psi did not score a field goal in the entire game. Their six points all came on free throws, four of which were scored by Bob Morris. Dale Brunken scored the only four field goals of the game for eight points to lead both teams in scoring.

In the freshman competition Sederstrom's "B" squad rolled over Hunter hall's quint without much trouble. The Sederstrom men just had too much on the ball for Hunter. Gary Meyer led the scoring with eight points, but four men were right behind him with six each. They were Bill Domenighini and Ron Pheister of Sederstrom and Bob Stonerod and Benson of Hunter. top 30 to 17. Cherney hall fell to the rough team of the league, French hall's "B" squad. French had 16 violations called on them while the referees whistled the Cherney men ten times for a total of 26 fouls during the 20 minute game. The game was not nearly as close as the 42 to 31 score indicates. At half time, the score was 26 to 9 with French on top, but during the second period Cherney seemed to show a little more fire, and French substituted rather freely. Stan Savage of French led the scoring with 18 points. He was followed by Bob Hinman of Cherney with 12, Jack Murray of French with nine, Tom Gutzler of Cherney with seven, and Jim Light of French with four.

Fiji's Win Thriller

The thriller of the afternoon was the game between the Fijis and Theta Chi. Theta Chi was leading in the last minute of play 27 to 25 but their stalling game was unable to keep Dick Stoutt from dropping a bucket through the hoop to tie up the game at 27 to 27.

In the overtime period the Fiji's outscored Theta Chi five to two and took the game 33 to 29. This was one of those fast, hard driving, stiffly fought ball games that are so much fun to watch. Theta Chi was toted down by the refs 18 (Please turn to page five)

Defense Emphasized As Ducks Prepare To Meet Huskies

In their second day of practice this week, Coach Bill Borchert and his twenty-five hoop aspirants spent the drill session in preparing for their game with Washington this weekend. Bolstered by the return to action of Bob Peterson, the team's leading scorer and rebounder, the Ducks showed lots of spirit and hustle in yesterday's workout.

The Huskies, currently leading the Northern Division race, defeated the Webfoots in two games played at Edmundson Pavilion in Seattle, and will no doubt expect to duplicate the thrashings they handed the Oregon squad.

The Ducks show no signs of giving up, however, and the aggressiveness displayed in practice this week indicates that it will be a different story this Friday and Saturday.

Defense Stressed

Coach Borchert opened the drill with fifteen minutes of work on defensive play. A "shirt" team composed of Ron Phillips, Bill Choat, Wayne Johnson, Howard Page, and Doug Rogers, worked Washington offensive formations against the varsity squad, made up of Bob Peterson, Ken Wegner, Chet Noe, Bob Hawes, and Ken Hunt. Borchert placed the greatest emphasis on determination and close checking on the part of the defensive unit.

The tall mentor then replaced the junior varsity "shirt" team with five varsity cagers, Jim Vranizan, Ron Bottler, Hank Boneman, Barney Holland, and Bud Covey. This group again took the part of the Washington squad, and the workout continued, with Borchert constantly making minor corrections in the defensive play.

This was followed by an all-court pressing defense by the junior varsity, who gave the first string hoopsters a good workout overcoming it.

Still sticking with the combination of Peterson, Wegner, Noe, Hunt and Hawes, the Ducks worked through a number of fundamental set-up plays, then went into a semi-scrimmage with the scrub team. Several good shots were opened up, despite aggressive defensive play on the part of the scrubs.

The Ducks could not capitalize on their scoring opportunities, however, as they could not find the basket. Later in the drill, Covey alternated with Hunt, Wegner, and Hawes.

Borchert then reversed the situation, placing the varsity unit on defense again, and stressing minor points which make for better defensive play.

The first-stringers evidently found their shooting eyes while competing against the "Washington" defensive group, for when they were once more shifted to work on offense, the scoring punch of the whole group was accentuated.

The session was closed with a scrimmage which saw Hunt, Noe, Hawes, Peterson, and Wegner easily defeat a quint formed by Page, Marzer, Rogers, Choat, and Seigmund, although the latter group came up with several good fast breaks.

Duck Swimmers To Meet OSC

By Norman Webb

The Duck swimming team is preparing for their fourth meet of the season with the Oregon State team this weekend. OSC lost to the Aero club and the Multnomah Athletic Club of Portland in their last two meets. This will be Oregon's first dual Northern Division meet and Coach Borchardt feels the team is shaping up very well for the encounter.

Senior Dick Ruckdeschel will be competing with Paine of Oregon State in the 200 yard breast stroke. Ruckdeschel was able to edge the Aggie out last year and he hopes for another victory over his old rival.

Yosh Terada will attempt to break the all-time U of O record in the 200 yard individual medley set by Louis Santos in 1950. Terada placed fourth in this event last year in the National Outdoor AAU meet, and has the potential to provide tough competition for Santos.

Tuesday's practice consisted of tryouts for the proper combination of a relay team, with Milton Kotoshirodo, Yosh Terada and Jim Allan finishing with the fastest times.

Gordon Edwards will be trying to break a record in the 220 yard freestyle in the long pool which is thirty-three and one third yards long.

Steinsifer of Oregon State will be attempting to break the flawless record of varsity diver, Pete Charlton. Pete made a clean sweep in diving events in last week's AAU meet.
