

Teaching Materials Added to Collection

A display of teaching materials furnished by the Denoyer-Geppert company has been placed in the curriculum materials laboratory of the University library.

The exhibit includes maps designed to aid teaching of geography, history and other social studies and diagrams and drawings to assist in science instruction.

The display, which is semi-permanent, represents a significant addition to the collection of sample textbooks, courses of study and other teaching materials now in the library, the library staff said. Both teachers and student-teachers, they said, would find the exhibit interesting.

Youth No Barrier

CHELSEA, Mass. (U.P.)—Though only 25 years old, Andrew P. Quigley has been elected mayor of this city. He also is a state senator.

YWCA Sponsors Knitting Party

The first "work and play" party sponsored by the YWCA upper-class commission will be held today from 3 to 5 p.m. on the third floor of Gerlinger hall.

All upperclass women may attend. This week the project is knitting afghan squares.

Professor Writes Publication Article

Arthur Pap, assistant professor of philosophy in the university, is the author of an article in the January issue of Philosophical Studies, a three-year-old publication of the University of Minnesota Press. Pap is also the author of several philosophy books.

Invite Dad down for Dad's Day

Pianist to Give Recital Tonight At Music School

William Woods, instructor in piano, will give a piano recital at 8 p.m. tonight in the music school auditorium. Woods, a graduate of the University of Southern California, will present a mixture of classical and modern music.

Included on the program will be Haydn's "Sonata in C minor", Beethoven's "Fifteen Variations and Fugue" on a theme from the Eroica Symphony, Opus 35, Bartok's "Selections from Mikrokosmos," Vol. VI including free variations, major 7th, minor 2nds and six dances in Bulgarian rhythm; Schoenberg's "Three Pieces from Five Piano Pieces," Opus 23; and Schubert's "Sonata in C minor," Opus posthumus.

Woods, in addition to instructing piano students, has appeared twice with the faculty string quartet, once as accompanist and once as part of a quintet.

Article in Japanese Newspaper Produced Gifts for Teacher

A demonstration of American-Japanese friendship has resulted from the publication of an article about University classes in Japanese language and literature in a Japanese newspaper.

Donald S. Willis, assistant professor of Chinese and Japanese languages at Oregon, has been showered with gifts from strangers in Japan since a story telling of his request for "something Japanese to adorn his classroom" appeared in the Osaka Mainichi, Osaka, Japan.

Willis had written to Prof. Masuyama Setsuo, who taught and studied at Oregon in 1949-50, explaining, "My language and literature students would doubtless feel closer to the spirit and culture of Japan if their classroom could be adorned with something Japanese.

"If you could obtain a flag, a map, pictures, posters—perhaps some examples of calligraphy or drawing done by fude (brush) by Japanese students—I should greatly appreciate any effort you might make on my behalf."

The Osaka newspaper heard about the request from Masuyama, who is now assistant professor of English language and literature in Saga (Kyushu) university and teaches in Osaka and Kyoto.

The newspaper expressed interest in the fact that American students are studying Japanese, with a total of 25 enrolled last year. Said the article:

"This is perhaps the first time that our flag has crossed the ocean to carry out the mission of friendship between the two countries since was readmitted to the society of nations after the conclusion of the Peace Treaty. It is entirely fitting that our Hi no Maru (Japanese name for the rising sun flag) should now lend itself to the fostering of understanding and thus become a symbol of enlightenment."

Since publication of the article, Willis has received a Japanese flag, a map, examples of calligraphy and painting, a doll, and other articles. With the gifts have come interesting letters, including one from a 19-year-old Japanese boy who would like to correspond with some American students.

Women's Bridge Contest Scheduled

The women's intramural bridge tournament will be held in the Student Union tonight at 7 p.m. The tournament is sponsored by the Student Union recreation committee and is directed by Myrna Olson and Gunning Butler. A trophy will be awarded to the winner.

At 2 p.m. this afternoon bridge instruction will be offered in the SU. Following the lessons, two hours will be devoted to social bridge playing.

Voting Ends Today

(Continued from page one)
Tickets for Saturday night's Oregon-Washington basketball game will be on sale at the registration booths all day Saturday; 700 tickets have been saved for sale to Dads then. There will be no special section for dads as there has been in past years—dads may sit anywhere, except reserved seat section, if accompanied by a student.

The scheduled snowball rally has been canceled.

Registration booths will be open in the two hotels from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the SU, according to JoAnne Abel, registration chairman.

KWAX Awarded

(Continued from page one)
Junior high school, who will appear in the SU ballroom, Wednesday.

The board moved to request to the ASUO senate for a list of campus benefit drives officially sanctioned or okayed by the ASUO. Action was brought about as a result of a request to place a March of Dimes contribution holder in the center of the Ballroom floor during the dance held last Friday night. The executive committee felt the Student Union should adopt some policy regarding the matter.

Dr. Albury Castell reported on action of the Student Forum series committee.

Clyde Fahlmán, directorate chairman, informed the board of a memorial program honoring the late Randall Mills of the English department which will be held March 7.

Attend Campus Lectures and Exhibitions

ARCHITECTURE OF THE ANDES EXHIBITION

Little Art Gallery — Open daily, 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., until February 15.

FRIDAY COFFEE HOUR

Dr. L. N. Marx, associate professor of psychology, will speak on hypnotism, Friday night, 7:45 p.m., February 1. Browsing Room — Student Union.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE JOURNAL CLUB

Dr. Bertram Jessup will speak on "Which and What is Modern Art?" 8:00 p.m. Faculty Club. Open to the public.

