(Continued from page one) others," the noted singer has said. Rupp, meanwhile, works on the accompaniment for the songs so the singer can practice in solitude without wasting time. But the two artists meet frequently to decide points about the interpretation, so that the two instruments, voice and piano, will be in accord.

Rehearsals Increase Near Deadline

Six weeks before the concert tour is scheduled to begin, the rehearsal tempo increases with five, and even six, practice sessions a week. But the program may still be changed on tour, if the audience reactions show certain numbers to be ineffective. And yet, the actual performance must seem effortless. Though Miss Anderson has a quick learning ability, she does not trust it through fear of superficial work.

Wednesday's concert will feature numbers by George Frederic Handel, Franz Schubert, Gaetano Donizetti and arrangements by Benjamin Britten, William Tarrasch, Roger Quilter, Peter Warlock, H. T. Burleigh, Hamilton Forrester and Robert MacGimsey.

Miss Anderson will sing in Italian, German and English, giving listeners selections from opera, ballads and Negro spirituals.

"Why shouldn't you haul the other fellow's oil?"

One of the things people ask about Standard is why we do not let other oil companies use all of our tankers, marine terminals, and pipelines. They say, "Why shouldn't you haul the other fellow's oil?"

The answer to that question is that we're mighty busy hauling our own, meeting our regular obligations to our customers. Standard just can't share all of its transportation equipment with other companies. And it's unfair to ask us to do it. It's like asking you to let everybody else use your car.

You go out and buy a car for yourself and your family—a car big enough for your needs. So with Standard. We provide whatever facilities it takes to handle our crude oil and keep delivering our finished products where and when they're needed, to customers who depend on us for service.

Now suppose you're driving your car and a hitchhiker thumbs a ride. You pick him up only if you want to. The choice is yours. So again with Standard. In our pipelines within a state, crossing only privately-owned land, and in our tankers, we may choose to carry only our own oil.

But the way some people seem to want it, our freedom of choice would be gone. It's as if you were to be forced to stop and pick up everybody who lifted a thumb at you. We'd be required to carry anybody's oil in these tankers and pipelines, even if our own had to be set aside.

In time, if your car were taken over like that, you'd have to buy another for your own use. Once again, so with Standard. If we were forced to carry competitors' oil, we'd have to buy or build additional facilities to handle our own. Result: increased costs to us, higher prices to you.

When they're available for national defense, Standard makes its private facilities available for public use. But we can't do it as a general rule. We would lose our efficiency—a loss to you, our customers, as well as ourselves. We don't believe you want it that way.
