REUTHER GETS SOME TOUGH QUESTIONS

ment." However, Reuther doesn't see any immediate prospects of such a merger. And he doesn't think that labor should organize a political party.

He feels that a realignment of the present two-party system is needed. Both the Republicans and Democrats, he said, are a "hodge-podge of incompatible economic and social forces" in too many places.

"You have Sen. Wayne Morse—one of the finest Republicans in America—and also Sen. Joe McCarthy" both in the same party and at opposite poles of political thinking, he pointed out.

"And then you have your own Monroe Sweetland—a fine Democrat—and people like Sen. Byrd (Harry Byrd, D-Va.)," Reuther added. "Neither party has the internal discipline nor integrity to translate their platforms into legislation." In this process of "realignment," he thinks McCarthy and Byrd belong in one party, and Sweetland and Morse in another.

Guns Not Enough

Declaring that "you don't have to put your soul in chains to get food in your stomach," Reuther said that he didn't believe we could defeat Communism with guns alone, when asked about the nation's rearmament program. He feels that we have to work on the economic and social fronts too.

"We have to be for something, not just against Communism," to win the peoples of the world to our side, he said.

One reporter asked him if the CIO was still expanding, and planning on unionizing other fields; and Reuther said that the white collar workers and the educators needed unions worst of all.

"Our schoolteachers have as much trouble paying their bills as do factory workers," he said, pointing out that in many cases teachers get less than factory workers in his own union.

The Number One American Habit

Have you ever thought of it that way?

It's the great American Habit, this eager reaching for the paper... this wanting to know what's going on— everywhere and without the slightest delay at all.

It's a good habit, too, for here is the foundation of the freedoms we cherish so deeply. In knowing what's going on lies our capacity for the making of choices, which is the very essence of our individual liberty.

It is at this point that our newspaper becomes so important to our way of life. For in its pages are presented the kaleidoscopic changes occurring constantly—the truth of what's going on in the world—the facts from which we, as individuals, determine for ourselves how we will vote, whom we will patronize, what we will think, and what we will do.
