

Officials Predict Rapid Installing Of House Phones

Installation of business phones in fraternities, sororities and co-ops should be finished by the end of next week, according to officials.

And the University administration has said that it will ask that "all pay phones in the dormitories, not readily accessible to the public, be removed."

Louis Eade, Eugene manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, said that his organization would contact those houses which have not yet requested the shift to business phones.

"Barring technical difficulties, the changeover should be completed by the end of next week," he told the Emerald.

Top Oregon PT&T officials and Eade conferred with University administrative officials Thursday and the University released the following statement after the conference:

"We are appreciative of the action of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in seeking to find a solution to the problem of phone service on this campus and their willingness to establish business flat-rate service for fraternities and sororities and cooperatives.

"The University's position is that all its students should be

One of the best-kept secrets on the campus can now be told. Philadelphia house and Campbell club, men's co-ops, have business phones—and had business phones—while pay phones were installed in other houses and dormitories.

Apparently it was an oversight on the part of the phone company. However, fearing that a pay phone would be installed if the news got out, the men at the houses kept the whole matter well hushed up.

treated alike and that no distinction should be made in the type of service available to campus living organizations.

"We shall ask that all the pay phones in the dormitories, not readily accessible to the general public, be removed.

"If the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company feels that these phones are in a different class, we shall discuss the basis of this difference of treatment and subsequently take such action in (Please turn to page three)

Turnbull Gains AWS Top Spot

Sarah Turnbull was elected president of the Associated Women students in a special election held Thursday in all women's living organizations.

The election was held to break a tie between Elaine Hartung and Miss Turnbull resulting from Wednesday's regular AWS election. Miss Hartung is AWS vice-president.

Wednesday's election had a turnout of 379 women to vote. However, outgoing AWS president Marilyn Thompson reported 739 women voting in the special election.

This was the first time anyone could remember a tie for the presidential race, Miss Thompson said.

Birthday Gifts Startle Nelson As Dogs, Pigs, Chicks Arrive

Lyle Nelson, director of public service, had a birthday anniversary Thursday. And his co-workers in Johnson hall—plus some unknown "friends"—cooperated to send him the following gifts:

- A small black-and-white female puppy (unhousebroken) complete with sweater
● Two guinea pigs
● Two baby chicks
● A moth-eaten—but very much alive—rooster
● A mouse—and a hunk of cheese
● A live duck—or at least something that looks like a live duck.

The two guinea pigs and the baby chicks arrived early Thursday morning at Nelson's office. He promptly took them downstairs to the basement and released them in the University Photo Lab.

Most of the stuff was delivered to Nelson's home, and his wife said Thursday that she was having a "hectic day."

"We thought we might be able to kill and eat the rooster," she said, "but it's got some feathers missing and looks a little unhealthy. They might at least have sent something useful."

The duck—"I think it's a duck," she said—arrived in a big gunny sack. The puppy has already made necessary a trip to the laundry for one green chenille rug.

"There better not be any more animals," she said Thursday afternoon, while gifts were still arriving. A rumor was circulating through Johnson hall that a goat was on its way late Thursday afternoon.

"Our two kids have loved all this, of course," Mrs. Nelson said, "and so have the neighbors."

Senate Approves Phone Statement

The ASUO senate Thursday approved the policy statement issued by the University administration on Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company's conditional offer to replace pay phones in fraternities, sororities and co-ops with flat-rate business phones.

The administration view, which followed a conference between University and PT&T officials Thursday, expressed appreciation for the company's "willingness to re-establish business flat-rate service for fraternities and sororities and cooperatives."

"We (the administration) shall ask that all the pay phones in the dormitories, not readily accessible to the general public, be removed," it continued.

Compromise Possible

It suggested—in effect—that if the phone company did not agree to removal of pay phones from dormitories, a compromise might be reached along the line of a campus switchboard.

"It would not be an intra-campus exchange," he explained, "but an exchange where you could call outside."

Dick Kading, ASUO phone committee chairman, said he was pleased with the situation as it now stood.

"I think that we should be well satisfied with the position . . . we are now in," he stated. "I don't think the company (PT&T) will ever again bring back pay phones . . . to the University of Oregon."

"The telephone company," said DuShane, ". . . understood and agrees with the statement."

Final Lectures On Marriage Set

The remaining two lectures in the YM-YWCA sponsored series on marriage and the family will be held Tuesday and Mar. 11 at 7 p.m. in the Dad's lounge of the Student Union.

Tickets for the series cost 50 cents and will be available at the door.

State Radiomen Open Meeting

The annual meeting of the Oregon State broadcaster's association will be held on campus today and Saturday with representatives from the group's approximately 45 member stations attending.

Of special interest to students will be the broadcaster's student forum today at 4 p.m. in the Dad's lounge of the Student Union, conference officials said. A panel with Joe Schertler of KEX, in Portland; Robert Short of KUGN, in Eugene; Glasso Branson of KMCM in McMinnville; and Frank Coffin of KGW in Portland as chairman will answer questions.

The conference will begin with registration at 9 a.m. in the SU Dad's lounge. A business session will be held at 10 a.m.

"Regulation versus Reform" will be discussed by Ralph Hardy, government relations director of the National Association of Television and Radio Broadcasters, at a joint luncheon with the Eugene chamber of commerce at the Eugene hotel at noon.

Afternoon conference session will be held at the hotel followed (Please turn to page three)

Jim Aiken Denies Political Reports

Jim Aiken, former UO football coach, denied Thursday night that he would seek the Democratic nomination for congressman in the fourth district.

"I don't think I'm going to do it," Aiken told the Emerald. "Other people had suggested that I run, and I had given some thought to it." But he explained that he was happy in his job—he's in the logging business now—and didn't want to take on any new activities.

"I appreciate the fact that I was considered for the job," Aiken said, adding that he might consider political activity "maybe four or five years" from now.

Emerald's Schedule Lists Only One More

This is the last regular Emerald this term—but there'll be a special 16-page issue Mar. 13.

Spring term publication will begin Apr. 2.

'The Second Man' Opens at Theater; Hunter Directs

The lights will go up at 8 p.m. today in the arena theater for the opening night of "The Second Man" directed by Frederick Hunter, instructor in speech.

"The Second Man" is a sophisticated comedy by S. N. Behrman, well-known comedy writer.

The comedy is set in the upperclass Manhattan society and employs extensive use of the subtle humor for which Behrman is famous.

Faber DeChaine has the lead role of Clark Storey, an aspiring short story writer.

Wealthy Widow

Mrs. Kendall Frayne, played by Dorothy Polanski, is the wealthy widow who is in love with Storey. She supports Storey with $500 checks.

Colleen Moore plays Monica Grey, the sweet young thing who does her best to persuade Storey that he loves her.

Monica, in turn, is pursued by Austin Lowe (Alan Barzman), a brilliant young scientist, who is advisor to the Atomic Energy commission.

Tyler Plays Albert

Edward Tyler plays the role of Albert, a houseboy who helps Storey entertain.

"Although 'The Second Man' was written in 1928, the lines and situations seem to be essentially modern and just as pertinent to the atomic age as the roaring 20's," Hunter said.

Austin Lowe in the original cast was a radium expert. Noel Coward and Raymond Massey both starred in the play when it originally opened in London.

Broadway Opening

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne were in "The Second Man" when it opened on Broadway.

Tickets are $1 and can be purchased by calling Gene Wiley, 5-1511, ex. 401, at the University boxoffice. "The Second Man" will open tonight, and play Saturday, Monday through Saturday of next week and Mar. 10 through Mar. 13. Friday and Saturday night performances are sold out for both weeks.

John Crown Sets Concert

John Crown, internationally traveled pianist, will present a concert at 8 p.m. Monday in the school of music auditorium, under the sponsorship of the Student Union board.

His program includes "Variation in F Minor" by Haydn, "Sonata in F Sharp Minor, Opus 11" by Schumann, "Sonata (1948)" by Kirchner, "Valse oubliée" and "Ballade No. 2 in B Minor" by Liszt.

General admission is 50 cents. Students and faculty will be admitted for 50 cents. Tickets are on sale at the SU main desk and at Russell's in Eugene. Tickets may also be purchased at the door.

In addition to concert tours, Crown is head of the piano department of the University of Southern California college of music.

Crown was born in England of American parentage. He received his training under Eduard Jung in Germany and also attended Hoch's conservatory at Frankfurt. He studied under Moriz Rosenthal in Austria, where he attended the State Academy of Music in Vienna.

The pianist has played in Europe, Australia and the United States. He has been active in both chamber music and solo work, has made recordings for Co-Art and in 1939 acquired an honor never before bestowed upon an American pianist, the "Diploma of the International Competition for Pianists" in Vienna.

'Dogpatch Daze' Features Schmoo

Li'l Abner's Schmoo will greet carnival goers tonight at the south door of the men's PE building when the Women's Recreation association carnival, "Dogpatch Daze," will begin following the basketball game and last until midnight.

The unfinished gym in the PE building will be open at noon today, for construction of booths. The booths must be completed by 8 p.m. and the gym vacated with the exception of two people per booth until the carnival begins.

Fireproofing Necessary

Barbara Keelen, booths chairman, reminds houses that all paper used in construction must be fireproofed and no posters or signs may be pasted on the wall.

A $10 gift certificate will be awarded to the booth which is judged the all-round best. Judging will be at 10 p.m. Judges are Keith Fennell, owner of Fennell's Campus store, Miss Jeannette Masilionis, instructor in physical education, Miss Joan Skordahl, 1951-52 WRA president, and A. L. Ellingson, counselor for men.

15 for Originality

The booths will be judged with 15 points given for originality, 15 for co-operation and 10 for cooperation shown between the organizations sponsoring the booth.

Carnival tickets will be sold at the door and also during half time at the Oregon-Oregon State basketball game. Admission is 20 cents.

UO Music Groups Plan SU Program

The 150-voice choral union and the 75-piece University symphony orchestra will join for the presentation of Schubert's Fifth Mass in E Flat Sunday evening at 8 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

The program is under the direction of E. A. Cykler, professor of music.

Soloists for the evening are Ex-line Anderson, university faculty member, soprano; and students Madelon Adler, contralto; Calvin Long, tenor; Walter Martin, baritone; and Douglas Stobie, bass.

Today Last Day For Class Sign-ups

Today is the last day for students to sign up for classes in the department offices. Mar. 8 is the deadline for students to check with the office of student affairs and turn in cards for fee assessments.

Students who do not wish to pay fees during advance registration must file cards in the registrar's office by Mar. 8 to be picked up for payment Mar. 31 to Apr. 5.

Those people who are unable to complete advance registration in the time allowed should check with the office of student affairs before Mar. 8.

The late fee for students not here winter term will be withheld for the first week of spring term and assessed at the rate of $5 on April 7 and an additional $1 for each day following that.

Regular registration for new students begins Mar. 31 and Apr. 14 is the last day for all students to register or change courses.

A court showed 546 students had checked through the office of student affairs by Thursday afternoon during pre-registration.
