

'The Navajos' As Exhibit Subject At Oregon Library

"The Navajos," a photographic exhibition prepared by Life magazine, is currently on display in the University library and will remain there until Apr. 18.

The exhibition, divided into three sections, is the work of Leonard McCombe and the library has emphasized that it is of considerable importance at a time when the problem of minority peoples troubles the world.

The first part takes up the daily life of a single Navajo family, the Yellowsalts, and follows its members through domestic chores, herding and their primitive business transactions at the trading post.

Following this is a section on ritual and religion and includes the impressive ceremony where a young girl prepares for the ritual that will conduct her into womanhood.

The third section is devoted to problems the Navajos encounter as they try to adapt to the white culture.

Don't miss the annual Community Easter Sunrise Service at 6:30 a.m. Sunday in McArthur court.

Ralph Hill of Oregon holds the record for American citizens in the 5000 meter run with a time of 14 minutes, 30.0 seconds.

Married Students Okay Constitution

The Associated Married Students unanimously adopted a constitution at a meeting Wednesday night.

The constitution provides for membership in the organization by any married students and their spouses attending the University. Officers will be elected on a pro-rated basis at an annual election from each of the married students housing projects. General meetings will be held once a month with council meetings scheduled weekly.

The adoption of a constitution for the AMS puts the group on the way to settlement of numerous problems which have been faced by married students of the University. To date, they have probably been the largest unrepresented group on campus. The constitution is intended to provide a means to give married students a greater voice in student affairs, promote general welfare of all married students and promote recreation and student activities that are of interest to the group.

AMS members consist of persons belonging both to the USA and AGS parties. However, the council has announced that they have no plans to place candidates in the coming election.

Poetry Contest Award Offered Undergraduates

The annual Julia Burgess poetry competition, offering a prize of $25 for the best original poem submitted by an undergraduate, has been announced by the English department.

Any type of poetry is acceptable, the department said, but if short it should be turned in as a group of not less than three or more than five.

Manuscripts should be typewritten, double spaced and submitted in triplicate. Name of the author should not appear on the manuscript but on a separate envelope together with the title of the poem or poems.

Deadline for all entries is noon of May 5 at the English office, 102 Friendly hall. Further information may be obtained there.

Fiction Contest Deadline Nears

April 15 is the deadline for entries in the annual Mademoiselle fiction contest. Any undergraduate woman is eligible to compete for the two $500 prizes and the right to have her story published in the August '52 Mademoiselle.

Stories must be 3000-5000 words in length, typewritten, double-spaced on one side of the paper only and accompanied by the contestant's name, home and college addresses and college year.

A contestant may submit as many entries as she wishes. Stories that have appeared in undergraduate college publications will be accepted if they have not been published elsewhere.

The Mademoiselle contest often has led to more honors for its winners. Award winners have had their stories published in the O. Henry Prize Stories, and Best American Short Stories. Ilona Karmel, the 1950 winner, has just finished a novel, soon to be published.

Campbell Club Wins Annual Ticket Sale

Campbell Club won the annual season ticket contest sponsored by the University theater during the fall season ticket drive. By having the highest percentage of sales of their house, the club earned the prize of taking a guest and themselves to any theater production of the year.

Gene Wiley, University theater business manager, announced that they will attend the April production. This is not an announced playing date, but is reserved strictly for sale of block seats.

Larry Swanson, member of Campbell Club, has a lead role in one of the productions. He plays Scratch in "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

This is the second consecutive year that Campbell Club has won the contest. Last year they attended "Finian's Rainbow" on their prize production pass.

A cappella choir and the concert band of the Northwestern Schools of Minneapolis, Minnesota will present a program of sacred music at 8 p.m. Monday in the First Baptist church, corner of Broadway and High.

The choir will be directed by Professor W. B. Bersten with the program being one of 29 that the group is presenting in their sixth annual tour which will cover 14 West and Midwest states.
