

Vandals Paint Signs

Someone decorated the front door of the Chi Omega house with the letters "K K K" last night, and burned a wooden cross on the lawn. And the words "U S A HQS" are now emblazoned in black paint on the side of the Emerald Shack. The lettering at the Shack and at Chi Omega was done with the same type paint. The persons responsible are unknown.

Bond Sale Requested For Millrace

A request for sale of $20,000 in bonds and continued work on the Millrace was presented to the Eugene City council by representatives of student government here Monday night. The request, according to City Manager Oren L. King, was turned over to the council committee on finance and parks. The delegation was assured, he said, that cleanup would continue by the city and that the whole matter would be carefully considered. The bonds were approved by Eugene voters several years ago but have never been sold. Originally they were to go with a sum of approximately $24,000 donated by Oregon students alumni and townspeople to renovate the race, partially destroyed by a flood just after the war. King told the senate early this year that the funds donated had been sufficient to repair the race at that time and as a result the bonds—while still on the books—have never been sold.

Wright to Lecture On North Africans

Gordon Wright, acting head of the history department, will give a lecture on "Frenchmen, Arabs and Americans in North Africa" at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Dad's Room of the Student Union. The lecture, which is open to the public, is sponsored by the University Lectures committee. An outstanding historian, particularly in the field of modern French political history, Wright spent a year in France on sabbatical leave. Returning to the campus at the beginning of the school year, he studied on a fellowship granted by the Social Science council, and concentrated on peasant politics. His research is centered on French developments since 1918. This is Wright's third research to France and his background in that country, educationally, has made him one of the foremost men in the nation on political situations there. He was retained by the United States department of state as a specialist on France in 1944 and from 1945 to 1947 he was vice-consul and third secretary of the American embassy in Paris with special duties as a political analyst. In 1941 Wright won the European History award of the Pacific branch of the American Historical association for a study of Poincare and the French presidency. The two strongest earth shocks recorded since the use of seismographs for measuring them became general about 50 years ago were the Assam-Tibet earthquake of August 15, 1950, and the Colombia temblor of 1906.

Sunday is bath day for donkeys, goats, and other animals on Barbados, easternmost of West Indies islands. Cattlewash, a village on the Barbados coast, owes its name to the act the word implies. At the time of the Civil War there were more sheep than people in the United States. In 1944 there were three people and today there are five people for every sheep.
