

Leadership Training Program Ready for Presentation to Senate

The final report of the student committee for a proposed orientation-leadership training program will be given to the ASUO senate this evening for discussion and possibly a vote on the proposal.

The committee, headed by Bill Frye, ASUO senator who proposed the plan, met Wednesday to iron out a few remaining problems.

The original proposal, presented in the Emerald Feb. 27, called for a ten-week program, with credit and grades. It was to be a prerequisite for all students taking part in student government.

Six Basic Points

The six basic points of the proposal are:

1. To increase the caliber of student leaders.
2. Make better use of existing facilities such as processes, people, committees, offices and groups as well as material facilities.
3. To give a better understanding of the University—its history, responsibility to the state and academic achievements.
4. A concerted effort to make a better University.
5. A greater participation in activities.

'Red and Whites' Sale by Honorary Will Be April 30

"Take a bite . . . of Red and White!"

That's the slogan selected for the annual mystery sale held by Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary.

"Red and Whites", to be kept a secret until the day of the sale, will be sold on campus and in the living organizations on April 30.

Falling on the Wednesday of all-campus elections, the "Red and Whites" sales will be made from a dozen booths scattered around the campus near the election booths—Co-op, Student Union, Fenton, Carson hall, and the Quad.

"Red and Whites" are the "mystery" chosen for this year's sales. Last year, Phi Theta featured a "Kistie" sale to raise money for scholarships.

Campus sales will be only on April 30. Sales in the houses and dorms will be made after closing hours on April 30 and May 1. House mothers will be contacted about pre-orders for "Red and Whites".

Freshmen chairmen for the sale are:

Porter Publishes Poltergeist Story

"Texas Poltergeist 1881", the story of a Texas ghost, by K. W. Porter, visiting professor in history, has been published in the current issue of The Journal of American Folklore.

The story tells of a poltergeist, which is a ghost who likes to make his presence known by throwing things. He terrorized a farm house near Cisco, Texas, for four weeks and one day, Porter said. The article, which Porter wrote with the cooperation of O. G. Lawson, Texas oil gager, is based on the account of a man who was an eyewitness when he was 12 years old.

6. Make better alumni of present students.

Several changes have been discussed by the committee including no midterms in the course, a cut-down of the time to be devoted to publications during the course, eliminating the counseling program section and having it a credit course but not a grade course.

Also the committee decided that it should not be a required course.

After Senate, Faculty

If the proposed plan is passed by the senate it will go to the faculty for consideration.

Frye said that if the plan is okayed it is hoped that it can be offered fall term.

Other students on the committee are senate members: Helen Jackson, Rosamond Fraser, Jo Abel, Robert Brittain, and Jane Simpson.

Married Students Plan Co-op Store

Married students residing in Amazon apartments plan to buy the former Amvet grocery store located in the Amazon housing project. The store will be owned and operated by the students on a cooperative basis.

Plans call for any student or faculty member to be eligible for membership in the co-op. Membership will entitle them to make purchases in the co-op store at prices equivalent to the actual merchandising and operating costs.

Also planned are arrangements with downtown merchants whereby co-op members may purchase articles not carried by the store at the regular discount.

Third Language

Wade will speak Saturday at a conference luncheon on "Phonemes, Humanists and Sabrejets," concerning the programs in European culture. A final session of the conference will include reports from the different groups, selection of a meeting place for next year and nomination of an executive committee for 1952.

The Saturday group session on "Teaching of Foreign Languages in the Grade Schools" will be open to the public. The meeting will be from 3:15 to 5 p.m. with Edna Badcock, supervisor of foreign languages, Seattle public schools, as chairman.

History Prof. Returns

Lloyd R. Sorenson, assistant history professor, has returned to the University after an absence of two terms.

Sorenson was on leave to study Stanford University's method of handling its western civilization program. He was studying under the Ford Foundation.

Chi Delta Phi, Literary Honorary, Organizes Chapter

About 20 women students attended the organizational meeting of the chapter of Chi Delta Phi, national literary honorary, Tuesday night.

P. W. Souers, head of the English department, told the group that he would back Chi Delta Phi on campus. He said the honorary is a respectable one, based on scholarship.

The advantage of a national group Souers said, is that it opens ways of contacting people in other universities with similar interests.

Miss Bernice Rise, browsing room librarian, read a letter from the national president and chapterian, which urged the University of Oregon to start a chapter. She told of the founding of Chi Delta Phi in 1919 at the University of Tennessee. Among its other chapters are these at Ohio State, the University of Kentucky, the University of North Carolina, and Stephens college.

The group decided its functions here would include discussion of creative writing of the members, promotion of the campus literary magazine's publication, contributions to the browsing room workshop and helping bring speakers on writing to the campus.

SU Board

(Continued from page one) on a voluntary, unpaid basis, but this solution was considered unworkable by the board since a limited number of men were willing to volunteer for such work. Under previous interim authorization, the movie committee is hiring labor this term, the funds coming from its miscellaneous budget.

Plans to install a permanent loudspeaker system for calling out order numbers in the soda bar were outlined by Union Director R. C. Williams and the board indicated approval. A temporary loudspeaker set up during the high school basketball tournament was found beneficial, Williams told the board.

Two special committees were appointed by Chairman Hillier. One, to evaluate the SU activity pool, will be headed by Maggie Powne, with Donna Buse, Clyde Fahman, Don Zavin and Hillier as members.

A second committee, to study the board's perpetuation plan with an eye to potential conflicts with the proposed student forum plan, will be headed by John Sabin, assisted by Ted Takasumi, Gretchen Grondahl, Barbara Howard and Donald M. DuShane, director of student affairs.

Possible conflicts lie in the fact that the forum plan calls for ex-officio and faculty members on the forum committee; to be appointed by the union board. The perpetuation plan calls for use of the petitioning procedure to fill all committee positions. Board members also foresaw the possibility that some persons useful as members of the forum committee might conceivably hold ASUO elective offices, which would disqualify them from committee membership under the present perpetuation plan.

Helen Jackson

A total of 718 votes were cast in the primary election which decided the USA slate to be run in the all-campus election April 30 against the Associated Greek student party candidates.

The AGS slate has not yet been completed beyond the ASUO presidential candidate which is Pat Dignan. AGS class officer campaign manager will speak today in a 3:30 meeting at Alpha Chi Omega. Vote on the slate will be Tuesday.
