Entries Urged In Jr. Weekend Library Contest

The library contest is now under way, and entries will go on display Junior Weekend, May 9 and 10. Students have been urged to enter the race for $150 in prizes, to be given in books at the Co-op, by bringing their personal library from their room on campus or from their home.

A total of 78 libraries were exhibited last year, according to Miss Bernice Rise, who is in charge of the Browsing Room program, and more are expected this year. The three categories and the nine prizes give more chances to win, she said, and even for those who don't happen to be among the lucky nine (who, incidentally, also win a free dinner at the expense of the library), there is always the thrill of rearranging one's personal books and finding out just what constitutes a personal library.

Those students who influence the most other persons to enter the contest will receive a prize also—a book selected by Miss Rise. And for the houses there also is the Josephine Evans Harpham Silver Cup for which to compete.

Religious Notes

Compiled by Tom Shepherd

Spring retreats, Diocesan conventions, talks on religious problems and regional conferences are slated for campus religious group agendas during the coming week.

Wesley Foundation

"This is our Time" is the theme of the Wesley foundation's annual spring retreat which will be held in conjunction with the Oregon Methodist Student movement this weekend at Camp Magruder on the coast. Lem Stokes, secretary of the department of university and college religious life of the Methodist church, is guest speaker for the convention.

"Christianity's Answer to Communism" will bring together Wesley and Westminster foundations for a joint get-together at Wesley house following the regularly scheduled 5:30 p.m. Sunday meeting. Kirk West, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Medford, will be the main speaker.

A discussion centered around "World Crisis" will be led by M. J. Flach, visiting University lecturer in political science, at the 5:30 p.m. Tuesday pot-luck. All University students are cordially invited.

Newman Club

"Is Spain Anti-Protestant?" will be the topic for discussion at the Newman club meeting at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Student Union. The Rev. Edmund J. Murnane, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church and chaplain of the club, will speak on that subject and his talk will be followed by open discussion. The meeting will not be restricted to members of the organization and all interested students may attend.

Westminster Foundation

"April in Paris" is the theme of the annual formal banquet and ball honoring the group seniors to be held Saturday night at Westminster house.

Kirkland West will address Wesley and Westminster groups Sunday evening. A former missionary to China, he was in the now Communist country from 1925 to 1941 when he was forced to return to the United States at the outbreak of the Japanese war. Returning to China in 1945, he was imprisoned several times by the Communists. He managed to escape in 1948 and now resides in America.

An informal lunch for students interested in talking with West is planned for Monday noon at the house. Medford Presbyterian students will be special guests.

Jim Woodworth will be the student leader for the Wednesday noon chapel services at the house.

Canterbury Club

Scheduling of the weekend Diocesan convention will necessitate the cancellation of the regularly-scheduled Sunday Canterbury club meeting. Regular meetings, complete with evening prayer, supper and discussion of pertinent religious and moral problems, will be resumed the following week.

University Episcopal students are reminded of the 7 a.m. Wednesday Celebration of Holy Communion in Gerlinger hall every week.

Gamma Delta

Gamma Delta, Lutheran student group, will travel to Corvallis for a joint meeting with the Oregon State chapter Sunday evening. Members will meet at the east door of the Student Union at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Christian House

Menucha, a large estate 25 miles east of Portland, is the setting for the Christian Northwest Regional conference which will draw student representatives from 12 campuses in Oregon and Washington.

Slated for April 18-20, the main groups will leave Friday from Christian house—one at 3 p.m. and the other at 6 p.m. Bob Randall is in charge of transportation and Wah Chun is president of the Oregon delegation.

An informal session, preparatory to church service at First Christian church, conducted by the campus group, will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday. Faye Filby is in charge of arrangements. Mary Peterson, George Good, Pat Hartley and Ralph Adams will have special roles in the program.

The first International hour of the term is slated for 4 p.m. Tuesday. A different foreign student is guest of the house each week and tells about himself and his own country. All interested University students are invited.

Lutheran Students

Clark Creek Ranger camp is the scene for the Oregon Lutheran Student retreat Friday through Sunday. All interested University students may obtain information by calling or stopping at the house. No evening meeting is slated because of the retreat.

Students to Vote On Code in Class

A letter was sent Thursday to approximately 100 professors who will hold 10 o'clock classes Wednesday, April 23, requesting a small portion of their class time to carry out the honor code student referendum.

The letter, signed by code committee member Marilyn Thompson, said the ballots would be distributed quickly with "not more than ten minutes of your class period" need to complete the whole operation. The 10 o'clock hour was selected, Miss Thompson explained, to "obtain a strong indication of student opinion." She requested an immediate reply which can be sent through inter-departmental mail to the Honor Code, Student Union.
