

Honor Code Gets Slim Majority Vote

A slim majority of students—2.6 per cent to 47.4 per cent of voters—gave their okay to the Oregon honor code in Wednesday's referendum, leaving the next step undecided until the code committee meets Tuesday afternoon.

However, it was the consensus of members of the committee, ASUO senate, administration, and campus political candidates contacted by the Emerald that the majority obtained was insufficient to justify adoption of the code at Oregon. The committee has previously stated that a fairly substantial majority would be necessary before it would ask the senate to request the adoption by the faculty.

Of the 2027 valid votes, 1066 voted "yes" and 961 said "no" to the statement: "I am in favor of the adoption of the honor code at the University of Oregon." The 2027 total valid vote is 51 per cent of the latest spring term registration figure, 3972 as of Tuesday. Approximately ten ballots were marked either both "yes" and "no" or expressed indifference in some way or another; these were thrown out.

Ballots were not turned in for some of the 10 a.m. classes in which most voting was conducted but voting at the Student Union booth, the other method, was fairly brisk during the 45 minutes the booth was open.

Merv Hampton, chairman of the senate honor code committee, said his group will decide on what steps to recommend at its meeting Tuesday, and will make its report to the senate next Thursday. "I'm very disappointed," he said, "that more Oregon students didn't feel an honor code had merit enough to warrant a trial period."

Asked if he could express an opinion as to the likely fate of code, Hampton said the decision is up to the committee.

Hampton, who is also ASUO vice-president, stated, "I do not believe, however, that the vote indicates that students would not abide by and work for an honor code. A "no" vote did not mean that a student would fail to support the honor code. Perhaps the negative expressions were an indication that many students feel we are not yet ready for an honor code."

Here are the statements of other officials and political candidates contacted by the Emerald:

E. G. Ebbighausen, faculty member of the code committee and former chairman of the group—"I do not think that the percentage was sufficiently large so that the senate ought to petition the faculty for the code's adoption. I am not completely disappointed, however, since we have only been working six months. I hope that next year's senate will approve the attempt to continue the program next year.

"It appears that a good many students are skeptical. But it seems that a good portion of the 48 per cent voting against would not cheat, but feel others would cheat under the honor code. The majority is not decisive; it would be a mistake to start the code on the basis of such a slim majority. But I don't think we ought to quit."

Don Collin, senator from the junior class, who has opposed the code, especially the committee's report—"The only thing I have ever said was that the report was inadequate, that it didn't prove an honor code workable or applicable at Oregon. The 'no' votes could

850 High School Seniors To Storm Campus on Friday

The University of Oregon's living organizations will be filled to overflowing this weekend with approximately 850 high school seniors who are expected to visit the campus for Duck Preview weekend.

According to Pat Gustin, housing chairman for the weekend, 450 women and 400 men have returned cards to the committee saying that they were coming to Oregon for the annual campus visitation weekend.

Change in Program

A change in the previously issued tentative program has been made. Although registration officially starts at 7 p.m. on Friday, the registration booth will be open from 4 until 10 p.m.

Luncheon chairman Ann Dielschneider requests that all living organizations co-operate in seeing that the visiting high schoolers attend the luncheon to be given in their honor at 12 noon on Saturday. The event will be held in the Student Union ballroom.

No Lunch in Dorms

"No lunch will be served to freshmen in the dormitory cafeterias, but they are requested to attend the luncheon," Miss Dielschneider said. Tickets are available at 15 cents in the dorm cafeterias.

The high school guests may visit departments and schools where displays and exhibitions will be prepared for them. Professors will be present to give advice and assistance to the visitors.

"Eleven Dutch Printmakers"

In the School of Architecture and Allied Arts there will be an exhibition of "Eleven Dutch Printmakers" in the little Art Gallery. The teletype will be open for inspection in the School of Journalism.

The new science building will be open from 10 a.m. on, with special exhibits and demonstrations beginning at 4 p.m. The foreign languages department will have a display in room 221 Friendly

Real Law Students

Visitors will be able to watch actual classes in session in the law school. The education school will open a seminar in secondary education to the seniors. In the Condon Museum of Natural History there will be a large display of minerals, nature studies and Indian relics.

The chemistry department will have a display in McClure hall, and the home economics department will have a show case full of students' work in Chapman hall.

Music School Open

The music school will open the entire school for inspection. Other places of interest are the Oriental Art Museum, the Student Union and radio station KWAX.

The Gerlinger hall swimming pool will be open, as will the men's PE building.

Four Speeches to Mark Dedication of New Building

A crowded calendar of events follows the dedication of the University's new $1,600,000 science building Friday afternoon.

Four prominent American scientists will lecture Friday and Saturday. They are Alan Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation, G. W. Beadle, chairman of the biology division of the California Institute of Technology, G. Ross Robertson, professor of chemistry at the University of California at Los Angeles, and S. K. Allison, head of the Institute for Nuclear Studies at the University of Chicago.

Inspection Opens Day

The program opens Friday with the official inspection of the new building by members of the State Board of Higher Education at 10:30 a.m. and is followed at noon by a luncheon for the board. After the dedication, a University open house for students, faculty and families will be conducted until 5:30 p.m.

At 6:30 p.m. a dinner for speakers and guests will be held in the Student Union and at 8 p.m. Waterman will speak on the topic, "Science Looks Ahead." A public open house until 10:30 p.m. ends Friday's activities.

3 Seminars Slated

Three seminars highlight the program for Saturday. Beadle will speak at 9:30 a.m. on "Problems in Modern Biology," Robertson at 10:30 on "Chemical Institutions and Scientific Personnel in Europe" and Allison at 1:30 p.m. on "Current Research in Nuclear

Finalists Named In Queen Contest

Twelve women were named as finalists for Junior Weekend queen following Wednesday night's judging. There was a three way tie for tenth place, that being the reason for the two extra finalists.

Queen candidates are Barbara Booth, Jo Martin, Joan Renner, Nanette Silverthorne, Francis Gillmore, Sally Keeley, Mary Alice Baker, Helen Jackson, Pat Johnson, Harriet Vahey, Nancy Van Allen, and Sarah Turnbull.

Voting to choose the queen and her four princesses will take place Tuesday and Wednesday at booths in the Student Union and Co-op. The booths will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each of those days.

Student Union Board Nominates Eight Member-at-large Candidates

Eight candidates for positions on the 1952-53 Student Union board as members-at-large were nominated Wednesday afternoon by the board.

The candidates are Don Zavín, Pat Bellmer, Sharon Anderson, Jim Wilson, Donna Covatt, Pat Cheat, Orville Collier and Jib Elbertson. The board will elect two of the candidates, who are or will be juniors and seniors next year, for one term.

Appointees by the ASUO to the joint committee for selection of board members was announced by Chairman Ralph Hillier. ASUO members of the committee are Al Karr, Mary Alice Baker, Virginia Wright and Rosamond Fraser.

Donna Buse reported to the board that eight petitions have been submitted for membership on the board for the 1952-53 year. Personal interviews of the candidates will be held Wednesday at the regular meeting.

Policy Clarified

The board clarified its position concerning the use of SU programs for campus benefits. Policy at the present is to recognize the four organizations acknowledged by the ASUO-WSSF, Red Cross, Community Chest and the March of Dimes and to allow campus organizations which do not benefit outside sources to use the SU program upon approval by the board and the chairman of the SU committee whose program area is involved.

Adoption of the policy that all campus organizations sharing on an equal basis was approved. This move was passed to eliminate financial responsibilities for phone charges.

Sabin Reports

John Sabin reported from the perpetuation plan amendment committee. The amendment was suggested because the perpetuation plan calls for petitioning to get members and the board felt that this method was not applicable in connection with the Student Forum committee, which is to have a faculty member. The amendment, which was passed by the board, provides that the board may appoint or invite faculty members to become ex-officio members of the student forum committee.

Chairman Don Zavín reported on the personnel committee. Recorded music committee chairman Mary Ellin Moore appeared before the board to discuss a code of conduct for the music listening room.

Bonneman Leads Ugly Man Contest

Hank Bonnerman headed the list of finalists for the Ugly Man contest with contributions amounting to $57.72 for WSSF.

Other finalists for the title are Ulrich Trumpener with $44.97; Wade Carter, $41.33; Mel Eblevans, $29.49; Neil Chase, $27.49 and Dave Jeremiah, $25.07.

Voting on the six finalists to decide who the Ugly Man will be is to continue until Friday at 5 p.m. The candidate who has the most contributions to the WSSF drive will win the title. Booths will be set up in the Student Union and the Co-op for voting.

The title winner will be announced during the all-campus Vodvil Friday and given a trophy and "Herman" if he can be found.

Arnold Toynbee Schedules Two Anniversary Lectures

Arnold J. Toynbee, one of the world's best known contemporary historians, will deliver two lectures at McArthur court next week.

Toynbee, presented by the University Lectures and 75th Anniversary committees, will speak on "Encounters Between Civilizations" Tuesday and "The Lessons of History" Thursday. Both addresses are scheduled for 8 p.m. in the court.

"I think you could probably call him the greatest living philosopher of history," said Gordon Wright, head of the history department. Toynbee is not accepted by all historians as one who will rank along with Edward Gibbon, Wright said, but he may be remembered along with such men as Oswald Spengler. (Gibbon is remembered to a great degree for his "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire"; Spengler for "The Decline of the West.")

Toynbee, Wright continued, is one of 20 or 30 men who "will stand out and have seen the meaning of history as a whole." He is, the professor said, "a man of tremendous significance."

The eminent historian is perhaps best known for his six volume "A Study of History," though others of his works have been published both in book form and in magazines since 1920.

The first three volume of "A Study of History," still not completed, were published in 1934, the second three in 1939 and an abridgment (by D. C. Somervell) in 1947.

A British subject, he has visited the United States several times. In 1946 at Bryn Mawr college, Mass.,

he gave a series of six lectures entitled "Encounters Between Civilizations."

Toynbee has been Director of Studies in the Royal Institute of International Affairs since 1925 and is a research professor of international history at the University of London.

He served his government during both wars and was on the British delegation to the Paris peace conference in both 1919 and 1946. From 1943 to 1946 he was director of the research department of the British foreign office.

He was born April 14, 1889 and attended Balliol College, Oxford. After a tour of Greece he returned and was from 1912 to 1915 a tutor and fellow at Balliol.
