Honorary Gives Language Prizes

Elena Horn, freshman in liberal arts, and Bill Walker, sophomore in liberal arts, were awarded book prizes Wednesday evening for their outstanding work and interest in the study of the French language. The awards, made annually by Pi Delta Phi, French honorary society, were given at a dinner at the Faculty club following initiation of new members. The winners of the contest are chosen from first and second year French classes by professors of the French department. A special prize was awarded this year to Catherine Black, senior in liberal arts and winner of a Fulbright award which will enable her to study next year at the University of Toulouse in France. The society gave her a Blue Guide of France.

The 500-mile Rhone River opened the heart of France to Phoenician, Greek, and Roman cultures. Christianity used the route on its journey north.

Sandergard Gains Fulbright Award

Robert E. Sandergard of Santa Rosa, Cal., a graduate assistant in the department of foreign languages here last year, has received a Fulbright scholarship for a year's study in France. Sandergard, who will receive his master's degree in Romance languages from the University in June, is currently a graduate fellow in Romance languages at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. He is a major in Spanish language. Snudergard will study linguistics and old French literature at the University of Strasbourg in Strasbourg, France. His award will cover his entire expenses for the coming academic year.

Foreign Students Schedule Program

Foreign students will present the second in a series of programs at 8:30 p.m. tonight at the Cosmopolitan club meeting at Plymouth house at 13th and Ferry streets. Tonight's entertainment, called "This is Paris," will be presented by three French exchange students on campus—Mark Delemme in the role of master of ceremonies, Jackie Giraud and Herve Le Poulouin. Any person interested may attend the "French night." After the floor show, there will be social dancing and a coffee hour.

DeVoto Praises Adlai Stevenson, Plans to Visit Campus Tuesday

"Unquestionably the independent voters have been heartened by having seen with such dramatic suddenness the figure of Adlai Stevenson in bold relief against so dark a sky," said Bernard DeVoto in the April edition of Harper's Magazine. DeVoto, who wrote the article in the "Easy Chair" department of the magazine, is coming to the campus Tuesday to talk on "The Professional Writer" at a 1 p.m. assembly Tuesday in the Student Union. He will also speak at a 4 p.m. coffee hour Tuesday in the SU.

Best Man

Written before Stevenson declared that he would not run, the article is chiefly about his qualifications for president and why, in DeVoto's opinion, Stevenson is the best man for the job.

Editor of "The Easy Chair" since 1935, DeVoto wrote in the April edition that if Senator Taft of Ohio receives the Republican nomination, he cannot "openly campaign on the most important issue the election involves, his own foreign policy." He went on to say that Taft's foreign policy would defeat the Republicans for the sixth time.

Independent Vote Wins

DeVoto declared that it is the independent vote that wins the elections and that a large part of it was prepared to abandon the Democratic party if General Eisenhower was nominated. But now, he says, Eisenhower's popularity among the liberal independents is declining and Eisenhower's "weaknesses are becoming apparent." He continued by saying that Eisenhower would have a Congress "controlled by men whom it is the sole purpose of his candidacy to defeat." Men like Senators Bridges, Capehart, McCarthy and Taft are cited as examples by DeVoto. "Drawn to Specifications" DeVoto then turned to Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and said that the "Governor is drawn to specifications . . . of the liberal independents."

The Republican campaign will be based on the issue of administrative laxness, looseness and corruption, DeVoto said, but this attack would be "futile" against Stevenson. DeVoto bases his opinion on the fact that Stevenson "cleaned-up" Illinois.

The author of several books, DeVoto has written "Mark Twain at Work," "The Literary Fallacy," "Mountain Time," "The Year of Decision: 1846" and "Across the Wide Missouri" since 1940. He is also the author of numerous articles, stories and historical essays.

● Campus Briefs

- Bill Clothier, former Emerald associate editor and a March graduate of the journalism school, has accepted a job with the Meredith Publishing company in Des Moines, Iowa. He will work on the editorial training program for the company, which publishes "Better Homes and Gardens" and "Successful Farming."
- The Quota club of Eugene is offering a full-fee scholarship for this coming year to a sophomore woman, according to Mrs. Golda Wickham, director of women's affairs. The scholarship application forms can be picked up this week in Mrs. Wickham's office.

● Students interested in working on registration for Mother's Weekend should contact Carol Lee Tate at Pi Beta Phi by Wednesday.

● Women interested in participating in the Women's Recreation association softball play may attend a WRA softball meeting at 4 p.m. today on Gerlinger field.

● Tickets for the Junior Weekend all-campus luncheon, to be held on the Old Campus Saturday, May 10 beginning at 11:45 a.m., have been delivered to all living organizations. Those associated with the Bresse-Warner accounting firm have tickets in their boxes.

'Big Sister' Blanks Due Next Week

Petitions for "Duckling counseling" must be turned in to Bobbette Gilmore at Carson hall or to the YWCA in Gerlinger by May 9. Blank petitions for women interested in being "big sisters" to incoming freshmen women next fall may still be obtained from Miss Gilmore or from the YWCA office. Freshmen women have been especially urged to petition.

Training meetings will be held May 14 at Carson hall and May 21 at Gerlinger to give instructions to petitioners. Petitioners must attend these meetings to qualify as "Duckling counselors."

Director, Student Attend YWCA Meet

Mary Elizabeth McDowell, executive director of the Oregon chapter of the YWCA, and Sharon Anderson, service committee chairman and junior in music, are representing the campus YWCA chapter at the 19th national YWCA convention in Chicago, which opens Thursday.

Leaders in religious, national and world affairs will address convention delegates on the theme, "Living Our Faith." Carlos P. Romulo, ambassador of the Philippine Islands and permanent delegate to the United Nations, delivered the keynote address Thursday night. He discussed the effect the Christian faith can make on the world today.

More than 3000 women, including 550 Y-Teens, will attend the tri-annual convention of the legislative body of the YWCA. Many foreign countries will be represented at the conclave.

Instructor Reads Editorial Offerings

Newspaper editorials from big cities and little towns and in both daily and weekly newspapers, are currently being read by Charles T. Duncan, associate professor of journalism.

Duncan is the judge for the best editorial award for the 1952 National Better Newspaper Contest conducted by the National Education association.

Seventy-eight entries, from about every state in the union, have been received so far, according to Duncan. Each entry contains three editorials.

The final judging of the editorials, Duncan said, will be done with the assistance of the rest of the journalism school staff.

In the course of a year, the passengers on British railways are served with 3,000,000 cups of tea, 10,000,000 sandwiches and 3,500,000 pieces of cake.
