

Morse to Speak On Public Ethics

Oregon's Sen. Wayne Morse will speak at 8 p.m. DST tonight in the music school auditorium.

Titled "Ethical Standards in Government," the speech is to be a "manuscript, major policy speech."

Morse has returned to Oregon to campaign for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the coming Oregon primary and urge people not to vote for Morse for president on the same ballot. The primary will be held May 16.

In a press conference Tuesday night, Morse said that his name appears on the ballot as a result of the efforts of backers for Robert Taft and is an attempt to split the Eisenhower vote.

Morse has expressed confidence that Eisenhower will be nominated at the Republican convention "on the first or second ballot."

He does not see a deadlock at the convention between Taft and Eisenhower but did say that if there were such a deadlock, either Earl Warren or Paul Hoffman would be "all right with me." (Hoffman is scheduled to speak on campus Tuesday.)

Friday noon, Morse will address a public luncheon sponsored by the Young Republicans at the Osborn hotel.

All-campus Cleanup Begins at 4 p.m. Today

The campus will get a facelift at 4 p.m. today when the all-campus cleanup gets into full swing on all points of the campus.

Boxes, rakes and brooms are to be supplied by those who are participating in the pre-Junior Weekend activity. Due to deferred living, it will be necessary for sophomores in many organizations to help with the cleanup, according to Jack Nichols, clean-up chairman.

Kincaid and University streets and 13th avenue have been designated as spots for placing the rubbish, which the physical plant will pick up after the cleanup.

Judging is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. with Jody Greer, Tom Wrightson, Jane Simpson and Nichols in charge. Trophies will be awarded at the terrace dance, which will follow immediately afterward at the Student Union.

Over 60 Persons Present At Browsing Room Talk

By Angela Zach

Over 60 persons heard R. D. Horn, professor of English, talk on the "Equanimity of Thomas Gray" at a Student Union browsing room lecture Wednesday night. After his lecture, Horn displayed rare editions of Gray's work, one of them valued at about $25,000.

"Gray, whose name is even a pun about his disposition, was not sad," said Dr. Horn. "The melancholy which is believed to be his outstanding quality was not black but rather gray—friendly like the color of twilight," said Horn. What most people don't know about Gray was that he was gay, Horn continued, a prankster who wrote squibs about his friends, loved companionship and was stoical rather than melancholy.

Horn displayed a first edition of "Elegy Written in a Country Courtyard." It is an issue of the Strawberry Hill press and published in 1751. The 200-year-old publication has income tax, or as it was then known, poor tax, computations on the front page. Horn commented that this was fitting for a book containing lines, "... the short and simple annals of the poor." He also showed photostatic copies of Gray's handwriting obtained from the British museum. The lines are evenly spaced and the letters neatly formed.

Funereal bands decorate the front cover. This is inappropriate, said Horn, since his elegy was not gloomy. Rather it was serene and reassuring and has no lugubrious associations.

Election Contesters To Sign Under Oath

Francis Linklater, one of the two counsels for the group who petitioned the election committee contesting the recent ASUO elections, said Wednesday night that a new petition signed under oath would be filed today.

Tuesday a motion to dismiss the petition contesting the April 30 elections was filed with the constitutional committee on the grounds that the first petition was not signed under oath.

Election Chairman Merv Hampton and his committee's counsel, law students John Sabin and Lester Pederson, indicated to the Emerald Tuesday night that the petition on file with the committee at that time would be dismissed.

Junior Weekend Begins with Dance Friday Evening

"Under the Big Top" is the theme for Friday night's Junior Prom, the first big event of Junior Weekend.

Dancing will be the music of Johnny Reitz and his orchestra with vocalist Marcellaine and will begin at 9 p.m., lasting until 1:30 a.m. (DST) in the Student Union ballroom. Closing hours have especially been moved up to 2 a.m.

Tickets for the dance are on sale by a group of junior salesmen under the chairmanship of Tom Wrightson. Admission price is $2.50 a couple. Ticket selling by the salesmen will end at noon Friday, but the tickets are on sale in booths in the Co-op and SU and will also be available at the door of the dance.

Formal Dress

Dress for the prom is formal—formals for the women and tuxes or suits for the men. Flowers are optional.

Decorations for the ballroom will be built around the circus theme with animals on the walls, and the stage will be decorated like a cir-

Hoffman to Talk At UO Tuesday

One political campaigner, Paul G. Hoffman, will definitely be a speaker at the University Tuesday and another, Sen. Estes Kefauver, may be here to talk if he's in town, Lyle Nelson, director of public services, said Wednesday.

Hoffman, chairman of the advisory board of the citizens' committee for Eisenhower, will speak at 4 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom. Kefauver currently front-running candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, is slated to take over the ballroom at 8 p.m.—that's if he's in Eugene.

Former ECA Head

Formerly head of the Economic Cooperation association, Hoffman is now on leave from the Ford foundation of Ford Motor company and is touring the country speaking for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination. Hoffman is also past president of the Studebaker corporation and was chairman of the automotive safety foundation from 1942 to 1948.

Earlier Tuesday, Hoffman will speak on the topic of "Youth in Politics" to students at Willamette university in Salem. Following his address here, he will leave for Portland.

Kefauver Campaigning

Kefauver will be in Oregon campaigning for Democratic delegates for the national convention.

With less than half of the Democratic convention delegates chosen, Kefauver is currently leading in committed votes with 111½. W. Averill Harriman is in second place with 94½ delegates and Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia is third with 40. Six hundred and sixteen votes are needed at the Democrat convention to nominate a president.

Police Find Source Of Blasting Powder

Eugene police have traced the source of the powder used Tuesday night to set off the explosion which blew a small hole in the intramural athletic field.

Twenty-five pounds of black stump powder stolen from a powder magazine in the Cal Young district northwest of Eugene was used, the city police reported. A hole in the IM field, about two feet in diameter and a foot and a half deep, next to the practice track was left by the blast, which occurred about 10:35 p.m. DST.

The police said a length of fuse—about four or five feet long—was picked up at the explosion site. A slow-burning fuse, the powder and a dynamite cap was reported used by the blast-setters.

More reports were heard of the area which the effect of the explosion covered. It was heard in the Amazon flats to the west, and as far as Fairmount street to the east.

Police are still tracing the identity of the person or persons responsible for the explosion.

MARCELLAINE

cus cage, Decoration Chairman Paul Lasker has announced.

Intermission will begin at 10 p.m. DST and will include the coronation of the queen by William C. Jones, dean of administration and acting president of the University. The court from which the queen will be chosen, voting having taken place Wednesday, includes Barbara Booth, Pat Johnson, Jo Martin, Joan Renner and Nannette Silverthorne.

Award Presentation

The announcement and presentation of several awards will also feature intermission. The Gerlinger cup will be awarded to the outstanding junior woman and the Koyl cup to the outstanding junior man. The most valuable senior athlete will be given the Emerald athletic trophy. Druids, junior men's honorary, will tap new members for the coming year.

General chairmen for the dance who are handling the arrangements are Bonnie Birkemeier and John Talbot.

Parents of students will be admitted to the prom free of charge. (See page 8 for more details)

Speakers Selected For UO Conference

The Rev. Donald MacPherson Baillie, professor of systematic theology in the University of St. Andrews, Fife, Scotland, will be one of the two featured speakers at the fifth annual Northwest Conference on Religion in Higher Education here.

Daniel Robinson, professor of philosophy and director of the school of philosophy at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, will be the other keynote speaker.

The conference will be held Friday and Saturday in the Student Union. A conference on philosophy in religion will be held jointly with the higher education meeting.
