Ridgway Orders 8th Army Action For Release of Captive General

Compiled by Helen Jones

(From the wires of the United Press)

Gen. Matthew Ridgway, United Nations Far East commander, has ordered the eighth army in Korea to take whatever action is necessary for the release of Brig. Gen. Francis Dodd. Dodd is being held captive by prisoners of war at the Koje Island prison camp. Two serious riots occurred earlier this year at the camp, off the Korean coast. Dodd is the prison commandant.

Ridgway's order for the army to use force if necessary to release Dodd, was his last in Korea. Monday he leaves to take over Gen. Eisenhower's NATO command.

Effects of Dodd's capture on the truce talks were not expected to show up in the Thursday night session. Allied spokesmen said the Red delegates would probably have to wait for instructions from higher up. It's generally believed, however, that the Reds will make the most of the Koje Island incident to renew old charges that Red prisoners are being mistreated in Allied prison campus.

Eighth army headquarters said Thursday that telephone messages were being received from Dodd, who said he was being well-treated.

The Army's new atomic gun. . . .

. . . hits its target under any weather conditions and provides ground support unequalled by anything ever seen before. That's what Secretary of the Army Frank Pace reported Thursday. He described the gun as weighing about 75 tons, very mobile and mounted on a platform. It can travel on highways at 35 miles an hour, or can be hauled by landing craft in amphibious operations. But it has not yet been tested with atomic ammunition.

Sen. Joseph McCarthy accused. . . .

. . . a Senate subcommittee of dishonesty in evading action on his motion to investigate Sen. William Benton of Connecticut. McCarthy said he received notice that the group has decided to start public hearings on Benton's resolution to oust McCarthy, but nothing has been done about his counter-move against the Connecticut senator. He also said the committee can't find its chief witness against him and he offered to help them find him. He did not identify the witness.

Civil war in Germany. . . .

. . . might be the result of an East-West German alignment, East German Premier Otto Grotewohl warned Thursday. Grotewohl's views were printed in Pravda. He said there was definite danger of civil war if West Germany signs a contract with the Western powers. Grotewohl also said that East Germany must organize its defenses. Red leaders in the eastern zone told Premier Stalin Thursday that an army was being organized.

Twenty Living Organizations To Sing in 'Sandman Serenade'

Ten men's and ten women's living organizations will compete in All-campus Sing at 8 p.m. DST Saturday in McArthur Court. The theme is "Sandman Serenade."

Tickets are 90 cents and are available from sales representatives in the living organizations.

Houses will sing in the following order: Carson hall, Campbell Club, Delta Gamma, Sigma Chi, Delta Delta Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Kappa, Delta Upsilon, Alpha Phi, Lambda Chi Alpha, before intermission.

Following intermission and awards will be: Ann Judson, Theta Chi, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Tau Omega, University House, Delta Tau Delta, Pi Beta Phi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Chi Omega and Minturn-Hunter.

Rules and Procedure

Contestants must be in their seats in Mac court on the floor at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, according to the Sing committee. Three extra copies of each song should be brought for the judges, if possible. Before the house sings its song, the song leader should bow to the Junior Weekend Queen and her court who will be seated to the right of the platform. All contestants must remain in their seats on the main floor throughout the program.

During intermission the William Frager Skull and Dagger (sophomore men's honorary) scholarship will be awarded by John Beal to a sophomore man. Karen Jacobsen will award the Delta Delta Delta scholarship to a University woman. The Hazel P. Schwering and Burt Brown Barker scholarships will be awarded by Mrs. Perrie Dolph and Burt B. Barker.

Trophies for the houses taking top honors in the Float Parade will be presented by Norma Hultgren and Jim Owens.

Honoraries to Tap

After all song competition Friars, senior men's honorary, and Skull and Dagger will tap junior and freshmen, respectively, for membership. The Maurice Harold Hunter scholarship and Josephine Evens Harpham library award will be presented.

All-campus Sing trophies will be awarded to the winning houses in each group by Francis Gillmore and Jody Greer, Sing general co-chairmen. These winners will sing in the Sunlight Serenade at 3 p.m. DST Sunday, in the Music school amphitheatre.

The Junior Weekend Queen and her court will enter Mac Court in a procession before the Sing. A selected group of the music school band, under the direction of E. A. Cykler, professor of music, will play for the procession and recessional marches.

Bill Carey, ASUO president, will be master of ceremonies and will introduce each song.

Judges for the All-campus Sing will be Miss Jeanne Scott from Eastern Oregon College of Education, Stanley Glarum from Lewis and Clark and Howard Miller from Salem high school.

Judges for the preliminary eliminations were Miss Exine Anderson, Milton Dietrick, Mrs. Floyd Kellis, Byron Miller, Mr. Brockway and Mr. Myrick.

Gallery Shows Phillips' Works

A group of paintings by James Phillips are now on exhibit in the Student Union art gallery. The paintings, which were all done in Eugene and vicinity, will be up until May 14.

The terminal project exhibition was done by Phillips toward the degree of Master of Fine Arts which he will receive this June.

Phillips taught high school art for two years and then came to the University upon recommendation of a former instructor. He won the Purchase Award on Lithograph in 1951 from the Portland Art Museum and received honorable mention in lithograph that same year when his paintings were exhibited at the Henry Gallery in Seattle. Other works by Phillips include a mural at Arizona State college, a fresco mural at a private residence, religious painting executed on commission for a Tempe, Ariz., church and showings at the Arizona Fine Arts exhibitions.

Of the dozen major rivers in North Carolina only one, the Cape Fear, flows directly into the Atlantic. Others empty into large sounds shielded from the ocean by the long string of islands known as the Outer Banks.
