Harry All Steamed Up On GOP Campaigning

Compiled by Donna Lindbeck Emerald Chief Wire Editor

(P)—Pres. Harry Truman has been barnstorming across New Jersey and Pennsylvania in an all-out drive to get the working man's vote for Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate.

The President has been drawing some of the biggest crowds of his career. He's winding up the day's campaign with a speech at Pottsville, Pa.

Truman is fighting mad and in his prepared text he frankly admits Eisenhower is getting under his skin with talk of "Democratic high prices."

In his prepared speech he swings at the Republicans in congress who voted against his proposals for economic controls and he says it's a dead cinch the Republicans will wipe out all price and rent controls if they win the election. Truman declares, "I won't let them get away with it."

In an earlier speech at Philadelphia, Truman said he's fought constantly to keep prices down. He accused Dwight Eisenhower of handing out what Truman called "The fanciest brand of double-talk" he's every heard. The President followed up the charge by saying Eisenhower talks like Bricker in Ohio, like McCarthy in Wisconsin, and like Dewey in New York.

Ike Hits Boston, Slaps Soviets

(P)—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Republican presidential candidate, is back in New York after getting a roaring welcome in Boston.

Eisenhower is scheduled to speak Tuesday night at the New York Herald-Tribune Forum at the Waldorf-Astoria.

In Boston, the General gave a backhand slap to the administration record on foreign policy. Eisenhower said his reasons for opposing Communism are not theoretical.

"They are not just based on reading books by Marx and Lenin and Stalin. They were reinforced by some first-hand experiences with Communism and Communists," Eisenhower said. He continued by saying his own ideas on the Soviet are, as he puts it, "not of the Yalta or Potsdam kind."

The General was greeted in Boston with one of the greatest crowds of his entire campaign. Police estimates of the crowd gathered in Boston Common to hear him ranged from 50,000 to 100,000 persons. Tens of thousands additional persons lined the streets to greet the General.

Afterwards, Eisenhower went on to Cambridge where there was another big turnout. Yelling Harvard students were so enthusiastic that guards couldn't hold them back. The activity gave the General's guards a fright. However, nothing was harmed except his car.

The students made off with the chromium trimmings, presumably for souvenirs.

Foreign Aid Summary Shows High Spending

(P)—The commerce department of the federal government has given a summary of the cost of American foreign aid in the past seven years.

We've loaned or given away more than one tenth of our national revenue in that period. The Commerce department said the net foreign aid from the middle of 1945 to the middle of 1952 amounted to 35 billion dollars.

Schleicher Featured in Discussion Tonight in SU Browsing Room

Contrasting foreign policy viewpoints and the presidential campaign will be discussed by C. P. Schleicher, professor of political science, at 7:30 tonight in the Student Union browsing room.

Schleicher's talk on "The elections and Foreign Policy: Containment vs. Liberation" will be based on two books, one written by George F. Kennan, our ambassador to Russia, entitled "American Diplomacy, 1900-1950" and the other "American Russian Relations, 1781-1947" soon to be published by William Williams, assistant professor of history at Oregon.

The viewpoints of Kennan and Williams on American foreign policy will be contrasted and applied to the present election campaign in criticism of the containment policy advocated by the Republican party.

He will not touch on the foreign policy campaign issues in the lecture, but will answer questions on them in the discussion period, he said.

William Williams, author of one of the books to be discussed will lead the discussion period following the talk. His book will be published this fall by Rinehart and company.

Schleicher is the executive secretary of the International Relations committee of the Oregon Educational association and on the executive committees of both the Oregon State Commission for UNESCO and the Northwest Political association.

Stevenson Says US For World Peace

(P)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate, says in the prepared text of a speech that the United States is the first great power in history to dedicate its strength to peace instead of selfish expansion.

Stevenson is to make the statement in a speech prepared for the New York Herald-Tribune Forum. The Forum is being held in New York. Stevenson will speak from a Chicago theater and the address will be carried to the nation by radio and television.

In the prepared text, the Illinois Governor says the United States, in its bid for world peace, must never give in to what he calls "The economic reactionaries and the hate and hysteria mongers."

Stevenson began a 4,200 mile whistle-stop trip through the Middle West and East Tuesday. Cheering audiences greeted him in Decatur and Champaign, Ill. Stevenson told the Champaign crowd that people want honest clean, economical government, and that, if elected, he'll give it to them.

A crowd of 7,000 turned out to greet Stevenson at Kankakee, which he did not carry when he ran for Governor in 1948. Stevenson got a laugh when he said, "I heard this is Republican territory and that when we came here there wouldn't be anyone to meet us."

Lewis's Coal Miners Want Pay Increase

(P)—More than 300,000 of John L. Lewis's 375,000 soft coal miners are on strike, and the union leader says they won't go back until they get the full $1.90 a day pay increase agreed to by the industry.

The Wage Stabilization board has ruled that government anti-inflation regulations won't allow more than a dollar and a half. Lewis used harsh language about the board in telling the soft coal industry his miners will insist on the full amount negotiated. Lewis accused the board of trying to steal 40 cents from each miner. He turned down an appeal from the industry for the men to go back to work.

The union leader contends that the miners walked out acting as individuals, without any suggestion from the union.

(P)—Louisiana's Sen. Russell Long will fill the speaking dates of Senator John Sparkman for the next few days while Sparkman is sidelined with laryngitis.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee, Sparkman, cancelled a speech Tuesday night in Rocky Mount, N. C., when he lost his voice.
