

Litchman Guest Expert; Sock Dance Picks Stanford, UCLA To Follow Party

Art Litchman, athletic news director, seeks to improve the phenomenal average of his athletic department cohorts with the predictions listed below for this weekend's major football games. So far, the guest pickers, members of the sports department, have been correct on almost nine out of every ten of their selections.

Sports Editor Larry Layelle and sports writer Rick Tarr are tied for the lead among the four regular "pickers" with a .760 percentage. Litchman foresees victories for Washington, UCLA, Stanford, Michigan State and Notre Dame.

California Holds Statistics Lead

LOS ANGELES — California, paced by a quartet of hardcharging runners, leads the Pacific Coast Conference in total offense but faces a stiff challenge from the deadly passing attack of Washington, figures from the PCC Commissioner's office showed today.

Bear Runners Lead

The Bears have gained 390.5 yards a game total offense, 305.5 of this from running. Four of their backs, John Olszewski, Paul Larson, Don Johnson and Bill Powell, are among the first six runners in the Conference. Washington, second in total offense with 366.5 yards, has done most of its work through the air, averaging 203.5 yards off the superb throwing of Don Heinrich.

Second in rushing behind California is Idaho with 199.5 yards, while Oregon is second to Washington in passing with 170.5 yards.

UCLA and Southern California, on the other hand, are undefeated atop the PCC standings by virtue of airtight defense. Southern Cal leads in total defense with 175.8 yards with UCLA second, 231.2, and California third, 233.8. UCLA has the best rushing defense of only 95.3 yards, followed by California, 102.5, and Southern Cal, 106.3, while the Trojans have allowed foes only 69.5 yards passing. Oregon is next with 94.7 yards.

UCLA Leads Interceptions

UCLA has excelled in another pass defense department with 26 interceptions for 407 yards, two going for touchdowns. They are within sight of the PCC season records of 36 (Stanford, 1942) and 458 yards (Oregon, 1948). The national records are 37 interceptions and 700 yards.

A band led by Doly Rohlman and including Robin Gilbert, Herb Widman, Lloyd Leavitt and Tom White will play for the all-campus sock dance held tonight from 9:30 to 12 in McArthur court following the AGS Halloween party for Eugene children.

Boxes for shoes will be provided, and the living organizations which are paired will use the same box. There will also be boxes for unpaired groups. The organization with the least shoes in its box will be the clean-up committee for the dance, according to Bobbette Gilmore and Dick Morris, co-chairmen.

Preceding the dance will be the finals of pin the tail on the donkey, apple on a string and apple bobbing contests. The contestants for these events will be chosen from the children attending in the last group.

The costumes, prepared by the paired living organizations for either a boy or a girl in the last group, will be judged at the same time.

Two groups of youngsters will visit each house, the first group at 7 p.m., the second at 8. The members of the second living organization visited are responsible for seeing that the children reach McArthur court by 9.

Fraternity and sorority pledges and members who are not living in may attend the parties at their respective organizations, according to Jean Webb, Panhellenic president, and Jack Hutchins, Inter-Fraternity council president.

Pacific Tigers Invade Eugene Saturday

On the ground, the Oregon running attack will have a hard time cracking the Tigers' tough 210-pound line. The standout lineman is Burt Delevan, 228 pound two-year letterman and another all-coast possibility. Delevan was once enrolled at the University of Oregon.
