Top Oregon Students Announced; Senior Six Become New Phi Betes

Members of the Senior Six of Phi Beta Kappa, the six top students in the class of 1953, were announced Wednesday night.

They are Mary Kay Dorris, psychology major; Mrs. Helen Jackson Frye, English major; William Norval, law major; Vera Paugh, foreign language major; Patricia Ward, general science major, and Chris Williams, general science major.

Initiation of the six will take place Dec. 4 at 4 p.m. in Gerlinger hall. The remaining members of the national scholastic honorary will be elected spring term.

New officers of the campus chapter, elected Wednesday, are P. L. Kleinsorge, professor of economics, president; Paul Civin, associate professor of mathematics, vice president; and Mrs. Lois Marker, law school librarian, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the executive committee are E. A. Cykler, professor of music, and C. W. Macy, head of the economics department.

Membership committee members for the coming year are Lloyd

Sorenson, assistant professor of history, and Howard Dean, assistant professor of political science.

Readings Highlight Robinson's Lecture

Selected interpretative readings from the works of Tennessee Williams highlighted the lecture on "Moonlake Casino" as the symbol of a recurring mood in the plays of the young southern author delivered by Horace Robinson, associate professor of speech, in the Student Union browsing room Tuesday night.

"Moonlake Casino" represents more than a signature name as it constantly reappears in Williams' plays," he said. "It is a dramatic fixation used to represent the common man as opposed to the aristocrat, evil as opposed to good, and the spirit as opposed to the flesh. And there is no doubt as to its existence in reality."

Williams' description of the casino is "almost photographic" in its portrayal of the resort as an arch type of social evil, a place mothers (Please turn to page three)

Dance Duo To Be Featured With Don Cossack Chorus

High pre-concert ticket sales totaling 800 at last count indicate a large audience for the performance of the Platoff Don Cossack chorus and dancers at McArthur court tonight, according to Student Union Director Richard Williams who is in charge of the program.

In addition to the 25 voice chorus and the Cossack dancers the group is presenting this year for the first time dancer Zina Lashkan, first woman to ever appear with the all-male Cossacks.

THE DON COSSACK chorus as they will appear tonight at 8 p.m. in McArthur court. Figure on the right is their director, diminutive Gregory Platoff.

Miss Lashkan and her brother Nicholas perform as the Duo-Dancers, doing their interpretation of Lezginka, the Caucasian folk dance and the Kozachok, dance of the Don Cossacks.

Folk Dances

Having attended the Academy of Classic Ballet, where they studied the primitive and national folk dances of more than 77 nationalities, the pair use in their dances the originality of each country in costume as well as the dance steps.

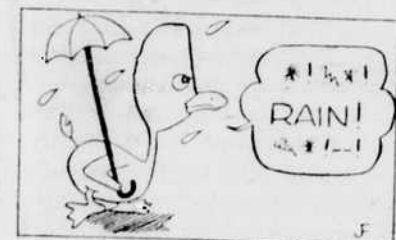

Several movies of the brother-sister team have been made and shown around the world.

Program for the concert tonight includes 16 songs and three dances. The chorus will sing "Blessed by the Lord" by P. Tchaikovsky; "Elegy" by Jules Massenet, arranged by M. Fiveisky; "Those Evening Bells," traditional; "The Twelve Robbers," an old ballad; "The Lord's Prayer" by Albert H. Malotte, arranged by M. Fiveisky; "Lord Have Mercy" by Lvovsky; a medley of two songs arranged by W. Laschewitsch; "Dance Song," a traditional-popular melody; "Monotonously Rings the Little Bell," a romance; "Song of the Flea" by Moussorgsky.

"A Gay Wedding Song," a folk song; "The Song of General Platoff," a Cossack war song; "Laughing Polka" arranged by Vladimir Heifetz; "Stenka Razin" arranged by Dobravein; "Snowstorm," an elegy, and "Sound Off," arranged by L. Stewart.

The "Lord's Prayer" will be sung in English by the chorus. The (Please turn to page seven)

RAINFALL RETURNS TO OREGON

Old Man Rainfall is here to stay, after being ushered in by a heavy downfall between 12:30 and 1 p.m. Wednesday.

News of his "official arrival" was confirmed Wednesday by Jack Bradford and Frank Houghton, meteorologists at the Eugene weather bureau.

The last heavy rainfall in Eugene was late in June. Frequent pourings can be expected for the remainder of the winter months with short clear periods, Houghton said.

On the heels of Wednesday's noontime storm is the threat of another today or Friday. A storm center about 800 miles off the coast will be the causative factor, if the storm materializes, Bradford said.

The heavy rainfall of Wednesday was not only characteristic of Eugene, however. The bad weather conditions are general along the coast, from the Gulf of Alaska to the central part of California, Bradford explained.

The prediction for today and the remainder of the week is frequent showers with overcast skies. The high for today will be 53 degrees, with moist, unstable air, Bradford revealed.

With the coming of the rain, the fog which has been blanketing Eugene late in the evenings, will probably disappear.

The fog has been nourished by the stable air and the lack of wind, Bradford said. The stagnant air which has been trapped in the valley is also the result of the stable conditions, he continued.

The smoke mixed with fog is also the outcome of the stable conditions in the valley, Bradford said.

The predicted rain for the winter months will have no summer records to compete with. The total rainfall from June to September in Eugene was only 5.59 inches. June had 4.76 inches, August .09, and September .74. July's rain was too scant even to be recorded, Houghton said.

'Civil War' Tickets Sale to End Today

Oregon State game tickets will be available at the athletic business office in McArthur court until 5 p.m. Friday. Price of the tickets is $2.50. There are about 450 left, the office said Wednesday.

The annual Oregon-Oregon State civil war will be played in Multnomah stadium Saturday, Nov. 22. OSC is the home team for the game. Oregon students will be in sections B and C on the east side of the field, between the 50- and 30-yard lines.

Consul Speaks Today

Louis de Guiringaud, consul-general of France in San Francisco, will speak on "The Movement Toward European Integration" at 11 a.m. today in 232 Commonwealth.

Literary Magazine Rejected by Board

The Student Publications board Wednesday night accepted a report which stated that "the creation of a student literary magazine at the University of Oregon is not feasible at present."

Lack of student interest and financial support were cited as reasons for the negative report submitted to the publications board by Carlisle Moore, associate professor of English, Donald DuShane, director of student affairs, and Gerry Pearson, senior in English. All are members of the board.

The committee recommended termination of consideration of the literary magazine.

However, the report also stated that:

"The committee feels that the Student Publications Board should strongly encourage the creation of a literary magazine if and when (Please turn to page seven)

Faculty To Serve On S U Committees

The Student Union board unanimously approved a policy regarding faculty membership on student union committees Wednesday. The policy was recommended to the board by the executive committee.

The policy is as follows: "Whenever it is deemed advisable, the Student Union board will request a faculty member to serve on any given Student Union standing committee for the academic year. The faculty member would be accorded full voting privileges on the committee. The board expects the initial request for a faculty member to come to it from the chairman of the standing committee."

Music Functions

Dorothy Anderson, music committee chairman, appeared before the board to discuss the functions of her committee. Sunday evening concerts, Sunday evening community sings, jazz band and the Friday at four entertainment were the functions listed by Miss Anderson that the committee is now sponsoring. Proposed functions are a barbershop quartette contest and a student musical—student written and produced.

Next Sunday evening concert is November 16. The concert will begin at 7 p.m. and continue till 8 p.m. On the program are Larry Maves, violinist; Audrey Mistretta, vocalist; Juan Montenegro, pianist.

Meeting Cancelled

The ASUO senate will not meet this evening, according to Pat Dignan, ASUO president. The next meeting of the senate will be next Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

The next community sing will be November 20, Miss Anderson stated.

Chairman Clyde Fahlman announced that an official report from the officers of the regional conference of student unions will be forthcoming. The conference was held last week at Oregon State college. Delegates to the conference reported to the board that they felt there were many valuable ideas brought out and learned from the other schools represented.

Don Zavin was appointed to investigate the proposed career day. This program would enable students to get first-hand information on the fields in which they are interested.

Thursday, November 20, at 6:30 p.m. was the date set for the SU social hour.

Drummond Talk On Government Evaluation Set

Roscoe Drummond, Washington correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, will speak in the Student Union ballroom Monday evening at 8 p.m. on the topic "Evaluating a New Administration."

Coming to the lecture platform almost immediately from the campaign trains of the two presidential candidates, Drummond will give an informative and authoritative account of their successes and failures in the campaign. His position during the campaign well qualifies him to comment on the present political scene and the future possibilities in the nation's capital.

Drummond has been associated with the Monitor since 1924. In the past twenty-eight years he has held many positions of importance with the newspaper. Since 1940, he has been chief of the Monitor's Washington bureau.

A coffee hour forum will be held for Drummond Monday at 4 p.m. in the Dad's Lounge of the Student Union. His early departure from the campus necessitates the scheduling of the forum before his address, said Karl Harshbarger, chairman of the coffee hour forums.
