

Indian Fumbles Prove Costly; Oregon Jolts Stanford, 21-20

Another Chuck—Brazel, who had a tough time against the Webfoots, hit to the 20 but Stanford accepted an offside penalty to set them up on the 18 instead. After two unsuccessful line smashes, Gebert, with A-1 deception, faded back for a pass but handed off to Mathias who went around his offensive left end for 22 yards and an Indian teedee with 7:45 left. Gebert's boot split the uprights.

The Webfoots paraded to three first downs but were stymied on the Card 24 after Shaw, who came in especially for the play, passed deep into the end zone, but out of the reach of Fullback Tom Novikoff. Two plays later Mathias committed his first blunder, fumbling from the 22; Len Berrie, who was in the Indian backfield all afternoon, recovered for the Webfoots on the three.

Oregon Ties It

Novikoff bucked over right guard for a yard and then lowered his head for the touchdown on the next play—right over center. Another Indian feather for Cas' cap was on the conversion. With Emerson Harvey in to kick and Shaw holding, the latter straightened up and passed to his left in the endzone where Anderson pulled it down for the seventh point which, as it turned out, was all-important. Time was 3:58—Oregon 7, Stanford 7.

Second Quarter — Offsides penalties harrassed the Ducks in the early moments of the stanza and forced them to kick to the Indians' 37. The Indians opened up with passes, from Gebert to Mathias and John Steinberg, an end, which carried them to a first and goal on the Duck 10. Mathias hit right guard for two but Gebert was thrown for a two-yard loss. Mathias ran the vulnerable Oregon right flank for nine yards to the one but Brazel, on a left tackle attempt, was halted two feet shy of the goal line. Both teams threatened somewhat but pass interceptions by Essegian and Cece Hodges stalled any

Washington Pups Stop Oregon Frosh

It wasn't until the fourth period that Pup Mentor, Johnny Cherbeg pulled his starting backfield. At that moment Washington was ahead 42 to 12.

A defensively-awake Oregon squad narrowed the scoring chasm in the last period, as they took advantage of numerous Washington fumbles.

Johnson Recovers

When Tackle Harry Johnson flopped on a Washington fumble on his own 40, the Ducklings immediately set to work, manufacturing their third tally. James scampered for 15, and Keller lofted an aerial to Overton for the remaining 45 yards.

With two minutes left, Keller completed two passes to advance the ball to the Pup one. James wiggled through the middle for Oregon's last score.

Washington's last half markers were scored by Monroe, who tallied from the one; Fish, who grabbed a 13 yard Lederman pass; and Johnson, who took a thrust from sub quarterback, Jerry Redmond.

Despite the loss, Coach Bowerman was very pleased with the showing of his team. "This makes the outlook very bright for future varsity squads. The coming frosh will greatly strengthen next year's varsity, especially in the line."

scoring. Oregon 7, Stanford 7.

Third Quarter — Brethauer kicked off to Mathias who bobbled the pigskin on the 13. Jim Jacques recovered for Oregon. Novikoff slammed right tackle for a yard and Stanford was penalized five more for offsides. Novikoff charged around right end for a touchdown. Harvey converted and Oregon led 14-7 as 6,000 looked on in silent disbelief.

Neither Moves

Stanford was unable to make headway on the next series and Don Castellucci punted to the Oregon 26. Oregon was equally incapable of moving and returned the favor, Stanford taking over on the Card 34. Then the Indians rolled.

Mathias tried left end and gained a yard; Gebert passed to Mathias who turned on the steam and went to the Oregon 24. Mathias ripped into the middle of the Webfoot line, which gave up three yards; then Gebert passed toward the end zone where Don Hedgepeth of the Ducks tipped the ball into the air and right into the arms of Morley for the score. Gebert added the extra point with 7:10 to go in the quarter.

The Webfoots, instead of folding, went right to work. Van Leuven gained two yards to the Duck 33. Holland completed a long toss to Ron Lyman who was dumped on the Stanford 22. Holland gained five; Van Leuven cracked to the 12 in three slams. Van Leuven again crashed the middle, but Hodges, on a counter play, had the ball. Little Cece hit left tackle cut, slammed into Dave Eldredge on the goal line and went in for the big one. Harvey converted and Oregon led 21-14 with 4:05 left.

Indians Drive

Fourth Quarter — Stanford got a drive underway from their 46. Gebert passed to Morley for a first down on the Oregon 34. Gebert then ran right end for a yard and followed up with a pass to Steinberg on the 22. Mathias circled

Brethauer Named Big Game Captain

The varsity football squad started out Monday afternoon with a vigorous exercise session followed by a dummy scrimmage in preparation for this weekend's final game of the season with Oregon State at Portland.

Monte Brethauer was elected team captain for the next game and team captain for the past season. The captain of the last game played is designated team captain for the season.

In the scrimmage, the team ran through corrections of last weekend's plays, polished up some others and practiced some new plays.

Coach Casanova commented that the Stanford game was a nice one to win and that the team played nicely throughout the game. He cited the pass protection given Barney Holland as being excellent.

Now the Webfoot coaching staff wouldn't think of letting him go.

Oregon's band took over local stock and barrel at the game. The Indian music makers were content to let the Duck tooters play the national anthem and put on their South American program at half time. Press box observers called them the best band to put in an appearance at Palo Alto this year.
