University Library Temperatures Show Drop of Ten Degrees in Second Check

The University of Oregon library has cooled down as much as ten degrees as compared with the temperatures published in the November 20 Emerald. Latest figures show a range from a high 81 to a low 76.5 degrees. These new temperatures were taken Thursday.

Temperature

Section	Fahrenheit
Level 1	81
Level 2	79.7
Level 3	78
Deck 1	76.5
Deck 2	77

These temperatures show a big drop over those previously taken.

The greatest drop occurred in the decks where the temperature previously ranged from a low 80.6 to a high of 87 degrees. All of the heat that was in the decks seems to have gone to the levels. Previous temperatures indicated a low of 75 and a high of 78.

The gift giver, Father Christmas, is delegated by the Christ Child to come from heaven and distribute gifts according to French custom. There is no Santa Claus in France.

Christmas season officially closes on the feast of The Three Wise Men, January 6. On this day special cakes called "The Cake of Kings" are eaten. A hidden object is in one of the cakes, and the finder is proclaimed king of the home for the day.
