"A powerful force in these difficult times"

says FRANKLIN D. MURPHY
Chancellor, University of Kansas

"In these days when much is said about 'adult education,' we too often forget that a great deal of adult education is daily carried on by such instruments of public information as The Reader's Digest. In my judgment, The Reader's Digest is one of the powerful and useful forces shaping the thinking of our people in these difficult times."

The articles in each issue of The Reader's Digest cover a broad range of subjects: from travel and politics to science and history, from humor and personal inspiration to headline news. Forty or more articles and a host of short subjects, carefully chosen from hundreds of publications, bring Digest readers more varied and more concentrated information than can be found in any other magazine.

Job Opportunities

Sophomore and junior students are eligible to apply for summer jobs with federal agencies, according to an announcement issued by the office of graduate placement. Work is limited to 130 days with a maximum salary of $1180.

All applicants must pass the civil service examination. The test consists of a subject matter exam in the applicant's major, a spatial visualization test, an ability to evaluate scientific hypotheses and mathematical formulation.

Application blanks may be obtained from the University post office, civil service commission offices and the personnel offices of most federal agencies. All of the federal agencies hire students directly.

Representatives of Armstrong Cork company are interested in hiring students for positions in their non-technical sales division, reports Karl D. Onthank, director of graduate placement. Positions are in the floor, glass and closure divisions.

Although a degree in business administration, economics, or liberal arts is preferred, any degree is acceptable. Applicants must be under 28 and single to qualify.

Six months of formal training is provided by the company, with assignment to a district sales office in the United States.

Harold F. Pote, national director of the division of personnel, Boy Scouts of America, will be on campus Jan. 24 to interview men who are interested in professional careers in scouting.

Additional information and appointments can be obtained at the graduate placement office in Emerald hall.

Seniors, men leaving for the service, and all other students who are interested in obtaining summer employment in their fields of interest are advised by Karl D. Onthank, director, to contact the graduate placement office in Emerald hall as soon as possible. All fields except teaching are handled by the office.

This will make it possible to schedule interviews with the personnel men who will be visiting the campus this term.

Onthank particularly urged the potential service men to get their credentials in so that they may make contacts for post-service employment.
