

CAESAR AND CHRIST

'Kingdoms of This World' Discussed

The true world issue today is between Caesar and Christ, the Very Rev. Georges Florovsky said in a Religious Evaluation week speech Tuesday morning, not between the East and the West, or capitalism and communism, or totalitarianism and democracy.

Speaking on "The Kremlin and the Eastern Church," Dr. Florovsky pointed out that the Russian church has freedom to conduct public worship, but no evangelical freedom. He stressed that, since Communist dogma believes that religion is the "opiate of the masses," the Russian church will never be allowed to become strong and is even now in a precarious position.

The Right Direction

"Democracy is not perfect today, but I believe we are moving in the right direction," the Rev. Harry C. Meserve told his audience in the afternoon. Once we realize that the brotherhood of man is true, Mr. Meserve said, and that discrimination and prejudice result from a failure to adjust to this realism, then mankind can build upon available skills and techniques to learn to live together.

Centering his discussion on "Religious Foundations of Democracy" Mr. Meserve maintained that the original separation of church and state in this country resulted from the impossibility of choosing a state religion from those represented at the formative meetings of our government. A state supported church, he said, is the best way for any religion to ultimately lose its freedom.

Church and State

The problem of separation of church and state was called a political question by the Rev. Matthias Burger who represented the Roman Catholic church. For this reason the problem varies widely in different states, different cultures and different eras.

In the United States, said Father Burger, the question seems to present no great problem. In this country the church is distinct from the government, yet co-operation characterizes their relationships. Catholics, for the most part, he added, would have it no other way.

Founding Fathers

Rabbi L. Elliott Grafman, speaking on "Judaism and the Political Order," stressed the relation of the Old Testament to the concepts, ideas, and actions of our founding fathers.

Another point developed by Rabbi Grafman in his talk was the persecution of Jews by the Communists. 'Anti-Semitism is punishable by death according to the Russian constitution, but it still exists,' he said.

The danger of Germany to the world today is not in the people but in the authoritative pattern, said Hal Gossard, who spoke on "A Spiritual Interpretation of Germany" Tuesday morning in the Dad's lounge.

For over 1000 years the Germans have been very conscious of authority and they easily accept the leadership of someone with a popular cause, Gossard pointed out. He added that the modern German has little conception of democracy.

Gossard held out hope for "one world" because of his belief that the average man and woman everywhere is the same and has the same fundamental desire for peace.

These five speeches were part of the program of the second day of Religious Evaluation week. General topic of Tuesday's speeches was "The Kingdom of This World."

Educational Systems Compared by Gossard

"We experienced only the finest co-operation, friendliness, and a great desire to build a democratic society and to educationally catch up with the rest of the world," Hal C. Gossard told a small audience in 123 Science Tuesday.

Gossard, director of an educational program in southern Germany for the state department, spoke on "Educational Reforms in Germany."

The European school is set up for the purpose of gaining knowledge and specializing in one particular field in contrast to the American educational system which stresses a broad liberal education, he said.

Community forums and workshops were the methods utilized by the state department to instigate basic educational psychology into the German school system, Gossard said. The commission had to organize the schools from the ground floor following Allied occupation at the close of the World War II, he said. The job is now organized but far from complete.

Call for Blood By Red Cross

With a January quota of 375 pints of blood for the Eugene area, 150 pints are needed to fulfill the number, according to Mrs. J. H. Jackson, chairman of the Eugene drive.

Students and faculty can make appointments by contacting the Red Cross office, 4-5244. The Red Cross bloodmobile will be in downtown Eugene at 16th and Willamette to collect blood for wounded soldiers in Korea.

Students who signed up during the October drive, and who have not been contacted, are urged to re-declare their intent to donate.

According to Mrs. Jackson, vacancies occur primarily between noon and 3:30 p.m. on Thursdays.

Persons who can fill these appointments should contact the Red Cross office as soon as possible, Mrs. Jackson said.

Rooms Available On Dad's Day

Fifteen motels and hotels still have reservations open for Dad's Day weekend, Carol Lee Tate, chairman of reception and hospitality, has announced.

They are as follows: Avon Manor motel, 4-8264; Broadway motel, 4-3761; El Dorado motel, 4-3363; Eugene motel, 5-7532; Flagstone motel, 4-3324; Manor motel, 5-2331; Motel Oregon, 5-3391; Pine Lodge motel, 5-0241; Rose motel, 5-9103; Wil-Mar motel, 5-0861; Eugene hotel, 4-1461; Osburn hotel, 4-3231; City Center lodge, 4-5233; El Don motel, 4-3363 and El Prado motel, 4-0568.

Miss Tate urged students to make reservations immediately, as there are not many vacancies open for Dad's Day weekend, Feb. 7-8. She also said students should buy tickets for the luncheon, now on sale at the main desk of the Student Union at $1.25 per plate.

Cars will meet the dads who arrive by train Friday night and Saturday morning and bring them to the campus, Miss Tate said. Many campus buildings will be open for inspection Saturday, and this will be a good opportunity for students to show their dads the campus, she stated.

Students are also urged to get their tickets for the Saturday basketball game now, Jim Light, chairman of trophies and special events, said. General admission tickets at $1.20 will allow the dads to sit with their sons or daughters downstairs, in the special section upstairs or in any general admission seat, Light added. Reserved seat tickets at $1.80 may also be purchased.

Dads wearing their registration tags will be admitted to the main floor seating area, or in the planned dads' section of the general admission area of the balcony. Students may sit in this section with their dads, if they have their student body cards, Light said.

Friday at 5 p.m. is the deadline for submitting pictures of hostess candidates, John Gamiles, general chairman of Dad's Day, stressed. Married women, either students or wives of students, may enter the competition. Pictures, at least 3 by 5 inches, should be placed in an envelope or folder and turned in to SU 303 (special events room) or to Don Almy at Theta Chi.

Registrar Holds Unsigned Cards

Dropped a course recently? If you have, maybe you haven't. At least for five students that is the case because they turned in course drop cards to the registrar without signing their names to them.

If you think you forgot to sign your drop card or even if you are sure you did, check the posted cards on the bulletin board in Emerald hall. Yours might be there.
