Rooks Edge Ducklings

CORVALLIS — Oregon State's unbeaten Rooks made it their 11th consecutive win of the current season, Saturday at Corvallis, as they nipped the Frosh, 52-51.

A second half drive by the Frosh sent them into the lead only to lose it and the game in the final seconds.

Big Swede Halbrook returned to the game, after sitting out the pace State in the final frame. It took the Rooks seven and a half minutes to catch up with Don Kirsch's Eugene squad who held an eight point advantage going into the final frame.

Jerry Crimins clinched an Aggie victory as he flipped in a jump shot to make the score 52-50 with only 40 seconds remaining. Don Porter could hit only one of two free throws as the OSC Frosh stalled out their 52-51 victory.

Halbrook led the scoring with 22 points. However, only 10 of these were made from the floor. High point man for the Frosh was Anderson with 16.

This was the third loss the Ducklings have suffered this season at the hands of the Rooks.

HOLLAND HURT

Borcher Quint Bottles Vlastelica, Takes Third in Row at Gill Coliseum

CORVALLIS—University of Oregon's Webfoots tossed a net over Tony Vlastelica, gained control of both backboards and went on to conquer the Oregon State college Beavers for the third straight time in Gill coliseum, 73-63, Saturday night.

Ed Halberg, balding forward from Port Angeles, Wash., and Barney Holland, stocky guard from Coos Bay, gave the Bevos headaches and took charge of a second quarter rally which broke apart an 8-8 deadlock and enabled the Ducks to take a 33-27 half-time lead. Halberg, who scored nine points in the 10-minute span, rebounded 15 times and tallied 14 points during the game.

Oregon Rally Fails; Orange Take Opener

By Rick Tarr

Oregon State managed to thwart University of Oregon's wild last minute rally Friday night to win the series opener 67-65. The game was never close until the last minute of play when the rally, led by Chet Noe and Ed Halberg with 11 and 8 respectively in the final period, brought the Ducks to within one point of tying the game for the first time. But two free throws by Danny Johnston put out the fire.

The twenty-four point effort of Chet Noe, high scorer for the Webfoots, was overshadowed by the brilliant shooting of Tony Vlastelica. The Beaver center duplicated his red-hot performance against Idaho the previous week by dumping in 28 points. Most of these came on his pet hook shot. His average from the field was an even .500 with 12 for 24.

Both Slats Gill and Bill Borcher came up with strategy changes designed to get the opponent off balance. Gill abandoned his traditional zone defense for a man-to-man setup that held Oregon to a miserable .242 shooting percentage in the first half.

Meanwhile, the Beavers were pasting Oregon's new modified zone defense for a hot .455 mark. In the second half Oregon went back to the man-to-man style which kept the Beavers bottled up somewhat.

The biggest surprise in strategy was the playing of Noe and Halberg at offensive guards. This didn't pay off, however, as the Ducks had collected only seven points in the first eight minutes of play when this innovation was abandoned.

Bill Toole, OSC guard, played a fine defensive game before fouling out in the last minute of the third period. He collected four personals in the first half. Jittery Johnny Jarboe, the other starting guard, showed a good eye on set shots and tricky maneuvering under the basket to take second in team scoring with 12 points.

Barney Dumped
Holland crashed to the floor 1:11 before the end of the game—after a collision with Ken Wegner. Prior to the mishap, Holland had posted 22 points, 10 of them in the second quarter, and totaled seven field goals in 11 attempts. The Duck guard suffered a fractured nose, and a deep cut over one eye and the bridge of his nose. Dr.

George Guldager said Saturday night that Holland has a slight chance of playing in the week-end series against the University of Idaho at McArthur court.

Center Chet Noe, although held to four points, kept Vlastelica, the hook shot artist, well bottled up. Vlastelica, scorer of 28 points Friday night at Eugene, was able to tally but a single free throw, a La Pete Mullins' performance for Washington State against Idaho Friday.

The Webfoots shot into a 6-0 lead after two minutes of play and Wegner drove in for a layup with slightly less than seven minutes to go in the quarter for a 8-3 edge. The Ducks cooled off and failed to score until Holland pumped one in from the key at the outset of the second quarter.

Slats Substitutes
Gill soured on his tall starters and substituted freely to no avail in the second stanza. The Ducks opened up a 12-point lead late in the second period, but a pair of promising sophomores, Tex Whiteman and Ron Robins scored on a hook shot and, the latter, on a phenomenal two-handed 50-foot push shot which he cast a second before the half-time buzzer.

Coach Bill Borcher worked over the Duck defense and used a fairly tight man-to-man defense, except to sag in on Vlastelica, while he was in the game. Wegner was more of a problem for the Bevos than he was Friday night when the Gill men had his number.
