Chemical Society To Dine at Oregon

The American Chemical Society's Oregon chapter will meet today at 6 p.m. in the Student Union for an informal dinner, to be attended by members from OSC, UO medical school, Reed college and Oregon.

Following the dinner a symposium on "Current Uses of Radioisotopes" will be presented in Science 1, 2, 3 at 8 p.m. Participating in the discussion will be leaders from each of the member schools. The symposium is open to the public.

Ducks Host Vandals

Totten and Bob Falash are the guards.

The Webfoots enter tonight's game a solid eight or nine point choice over the Vandals, based on comparative figures and the home court advantage. Washington State and Washington clash in the other division series at Seattle.

Southern division teams are inactive conference wise, but all have several games on tap. California is at Salt Lake City for a series with Utah, Southern California is on a three-game junket in Hawaii, UCLA played Bradley and Santa Barbara earlier in the week and Santa Barbara has a single game with Bradley tonight in San Francisco.

Attorney to Discuss Rosenbergs

Charles Porter, Eugene attorney, will discuss "The Legal Aspects of the Rosenberg Case" at a meeting of Young Democrats Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Student Union.

Porter, a Harvard graduate, will present a brief talk and afterwards lead a group discussion. Students and faculty are especially invited to attend, according to Charles Grover, president.

A short meeting for members will precede the talk.

The Rosenbergs, who were convicted for espionage of atomic secrets, leaped into national prominence during January when their appeal for life imprisonment failed. Judge Irving S. Kaufman, who condemned them to death, then referred their case to ex-president Truman, who chose to leave the decision to President Eisenhower.

Eisenhower will probably make his decision sometime in February.

Campus Briefs

● "Accommodating Leadership in a Period of Political Crisis" will be the topic of an address by Herbert Bisno, assistant professor of sociology, at a meeting Monday of the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. A discussion period will follow the 8 p.m. speech at Wesley house, 1236 Kincaid.

● Starting at 2 p.m. Sunday, KWAX will broadcast a selection of speeches that were heard during Religious Evaluation Week. Modern Views of Society and Man, the program originally scheduled for this time, will not be heard this week, but will resume its original time the next week. KWAX can be located at 88.1 on the FM dial.
