UO to Host Seven Schools In Annual Oratory Contest

The University forensic department will play host Tuesday to the seven schools participating in the annual oratory contest and a fireside chat initiated this year under the sponsorship of the Intercollegiate Forensic Association of Oregon, Herman Cohen, forensic adviser, announced today.

Awards for both events will be made on a competitive basis, Cohen said. Each school is limited to one entry in each field. World peace is the general topic selected for orations in the contest and the discussion of the domestic state of the nation will be presented by the fireside group. The fireside chat is an experiment in presenting a panel discussion with each speaker presenting an extemporaneous speech on the general topic.

Submit Writings, Women Asked

Women interested in affiliating with Chi Delta Phi, national literary honorary, may submit manuscripts now for consideration, vice-president Pat Pollak, senior in liberal arts, has announced.

Initiation of new members will be held in April. Interested women who have written short stories, plays, or poetry may submit a sample of their work to Bernice Rise in the Student Union browsing room. Prospective members will be asked to attend several meetings of the group, Miss Pollak said.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the College Side. A short story "Enjoyed Together" by Sue Lichty, senior in journalism, and a poem "Two Worlds" by Sally Hayden, junior in business will be read and discussed.

Chi Delta Phi is the national literary honorary for women interested in creative writing.
