The AWS slate will be introduced at 12:30 p.m. in Gerlinger and at that time nominations may be

Pre-Registration Slated All Week

With nearly one-third of the students still to pick up their pre-registration material at the registrar's office in Emerald hall, registration proceeded at a steady pace Monday. The material may be picked up all of this week.

Advisers are to be in their offices every day this week for consultations with advisees. The signature of the adviser is necessary to validate the student's program and to enable him to register for classes.

Third step in the pre-registration procedure is enrollment in courses through the school and departmental offices. This may be done all of this week. Once these steps are completed, the registration cards must be checked by the office of student affairs and a fee assessment obtained at the registrar's office.

Those students who do not desire to pay fees now and students who hold scholarships may leave their cards at the registrar's office to be picked up for payment between Mar. 30 and Apr. 4. Veterans on P.L. 16 or 346 will also leave their cards at the registrar's office of student affairs and a fee their fees at any time during the week.

IRL Program Features UO Foreign Students

Ten University foreign students will participate in the program of the International Relations League conference which will be held on campus Thursday through Saturday.

Delegates from high school International Relations classes, which form the league, will attend the annual event to discuss the topic "The Development of the Undeveloped Areas." The conference is sponsored by the University and the Oregon Education Association.

Seven countries will be discussed by the delegates—Philippines, Thailand, Iran, Iraq, India, Venezuela and Brazil. University foreign students will participate in these roundtable discussions and will also tell the delegates about "Secondary Education in My Country."

Robbery Attempt Halted Sunday

An attempted robbery in Veterans dormitory was thwarted late Sunday night by Ted Overton, freshman in physical education.

Overton, a resident of Stitzer hall, awoke to find a man in his room going through his pants pockets. He told Eugene police that he had been asleep for about half an hour when a noise awakened him.

When Overton shouted at the man, he fled from the room and out of the dormitory. Pursuing the intruder, the student caught up with him just as he was getting in a car outside.

Overton said the man dropped the wallet, turned and pointed a gun at him. As he backed away, the man drove off in the car. Overton was unable to identify the vehicle when questioned later.

Police reports did not indicate how much the wallet contained at the time.

Skull and Dagger Meet

Alex Byler of the Skull & Dagger has announced there will be an important meeting this afternoon at 4:30 in the SU.

Speakers for the occasion are George Batterson, educational adviser; Ernest A. Hurley, instructor, and Ellis B. Jump, head of the department of anatomy.

Applicants for the 1953 class will have interviews with the admissions committee Friday. Appointments for the interviews should be made as soon as possible in Science 121.

Dance Club Holds Newcomers Night

A beginners and newcomers night will be held by the University Square Dance club from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday. The meeting will be held in Gerlinger annex.

Miss Shirley Cox, instructor in physical education, will teach the students basic calls and fundamental steps and demonstrate basic steps. Advanced couples will perform more intricate steps.

MEET THE DEANS

Little a Paper Money Fan

By Joe Gardner

Emerald Assistant News Editor

Sidney W. Little, dean of the school of architecture and allied arts, has been in the field of education since 1930 when he taught at Clemson college in South Carolina. In addition to teaching, Little has maintained his own private architecture practice for many years.

Born in Buffalo, N. Y., he received his education at Cornell university and the University of Pennsylvania. Following study in Paris, he returned to the United States and received his graduate degree at Tulane university. Little practiced architecture in both Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Buffalo before going to Clemson.

Served in Ceylon

From 1936 to 1942, he was assistant dean and professor of design at the Alabama Polytechnic institute. As a lieutenant colonel with the Office of Strategic Services during World War II Little served in both Ceylon and China. Following the war, he returned briefly to Alabama before coming to the University of Oregon as dean and professor of architecture.

Little recently returned from a six months tour of Europe doing research on a grant from the American Institute of Architecture. He spent most of this time examining the collaboration of artists and architects abroad.

Collects Paper Money

His chief hobby is a collection of paper money covering the post-war years of inflation in Europe from 1919 to 1923. Numbering in the hundreds of thousands, his collection is one of the largest of its kind in the country. Some of this currency represents the artistic work of Europe's finest artists of this period.
