

NEW REGULATIONS IMPOSED

University High to Become Part Of Oregon Education School

By Bob Patterson
Emerald Reporter

Due to the completion of the new ready for use next fall, University high school will be given back to the University as an extension of the Education building, according to P. B. Jacobson, dean of the school of education.

University students who are currently practice teaching at University High will teach in the new high school.

The increased enrollment will absorb the faculties of both schools. Dean W. Mickelwait, principal of Eugene High, will continue in that position. Ray Hendrickson, principal of University high, will become director of athletics.

The student councils of both schools decided to distribute the offices between the two schools. Eugene High will elect the president, junior vice-president, corresponding secretary, and student manager. University High will elect the senior vice-president, recording secretary, and treasurer. Club officers will be elected within the clubs.

The rally squad, which is composed of three boys and seven girls, will also be divided between the two schools with University electing two girls and Eugene electing the rest.

Leave the Keys

The new offices of senior vice-president and corresponding secretary were created primarily to give University High students offices according to David Cass, vice-president of Eugene High.

With the increased enrollment in the new school, students will be subject to more rules. Students will have assigned seats in the assemblies and they will not be able to leave the grounds during the school day except by special permission. Students will turn in their car keys to the central office in the morning where they will be able to pick them up at the end of the day. Due to the split noon hour, noon dances, games and activities will be eliminated. Instead the school will have an activity period in which the clubs meet.

Annual Campus Red Cross Drive Begins Monday; Goal To Be Set

By Valera Vierra
Emerald Reporter

The Red Cross needs your dollar. In Oregon, almost every winter the Willamette river overflows its banks, and the Red Cross is there to supply relief to the people hit by flood waters.

The Red Cross is there when a tornado whips across the Florida peninsula leaving a path of broken cities and homeless people.

It is there when a volcano in Italy showers fire and ash on a frightened people who are unprepared for disaster.

It's there when a bleeding soldier lies on a barren hill in Korea and calls for someone to help.

Volunteer workers are ready to act at any spot in the world where war or natural disaster create suffering and need. But whether or not the Red Cross will continue its work with success, depends on you and how much you contribute. The 1953 fund goal has been set at $93,000,000.

Through the annual fund drive, such as the one to be held on campus, March 2 to 5, the Red Cross has consistently sustained itself with no subsidization by the government. Since 1859, it has relied merely on the donations of people in the countries it serves.

The last concentrated effort to raise funds for the Red Cross at Oregon was in 1951, when students and faculty contributed $2300. Again this year, the University is one of nearly 3000 colleges and universities throughout the country participating in the annual drive.

The University goal will be announced this week, according to Pat Ruan, general campus chairman. House representatives will collect in all living organizations during the four day drive and progress reports on the houses will be published daily in the Emerald.

One dollar from everyone of the more than 4000 students at the University would surpass the total of 1951, and contribute to the national 93 million total.

U of O Ranks High In Speech Tourney

University speakers ranked high at the annual Portland town meeting tournament which the group attended Tuesday and Wednesday. The group competed with college speakers from Oregon and Washington, Herman Cohen, director of forensics, said.

The sweepstakes trophy awarded at the annual event went to Pacific Lutheran college of Tacoma, Washington.

Representatives from the University included Dick Bronaugh, freshman in liberal arts; Pat Adkisson, sophomore in English; William Ruitter, senior in liberal arts, and Don Collin, senior in economics, who acted as moderator for the group.

Parental Release for Blood Donations

Sudens who have given blood at any time and already have a type card, don't have to get a release signed by their parents Yvonne Holm, co-chairman of the blood drive, has announced.

This year's blood drive, sponsored by the Armed Forces, will be held Mar. 10 at the Veterans' Memorial building.

Permission is given herewith voluntarily to me son (daughter) to make a donation of blood to the American National Red Cross, to be used in any manner it deems advisable, and for that purpose may, at his or her own risk, submit to the tests, examinations and procedures necessary and customary in connection with donations of blood. The undersigned parent and minor agree that neither the American National Red Cross, nor any surgeons, physicians, technicians, nurses, agents, officers or employees connected with any of them or who may be participating otherwise in connection with the operation of the American National Red Cross Blood Center, shall be in any way responsible for any consequences to the minor named herein from the giving of such examinations or procedures incidental to, or from any of the tests, dent thereto, and the undersigned to jointly and severally hereby release and discharge each and all of the above named individuals and the American Red Cross from any and all claims and demands whatsoever which we, or either of us, have or may have against them, or any of them, by reason of any matter relative or incidental to such donation of blood.

The undersigned parent, in consideration of the premises, does hereby covenant with any of the individuals named herein above who are in any way connected with the operation and supervision of the Blood Center operated by the American National Red Cross, and the American National Red Cross, that the undersigned parent will at all times hereafter indemnify each and all of said individuals and the American National Red Cross against all claims, demands, damages, suits or actions which may be brought or made against said individuals or any of them on account of the donations of blood authorized herein.

UO 'Four' Enters Quartet Contest

By Len Calvert

Emerald Assistant News Editor

Four University of Oregon men are competing today in the annual all-Northwest Barber Shop Ballad contest in Forest Grove as the peak of the career of the "Uncalled For" thus far.

The quartet, which is composed of Emil Smith, sophomore in liberal arts; Jim Tan, freshman in architecture; Don Wilson, senior in psychology, and Ray Walker, sophomore in architecture, got started because the men like to sing, and since they all live in the same dormitory, Susan Campbell, the quartet evolved.

As for their name, Smith, or "Smitty," as he is popularly known, explained that a torn napkin was partly responsible. It happened at dinner one night, he continued, "when we were trying to think of a name. We listed all the suggestions on a napkin which somehow got torn, with 'The Uncalled For' the only good name remaining."

Small Bass

The four range in height from Walker's six feet three inches to "Smitty's" five feet seven inches, and, you guessed it, Walker sings first tenor with Smith carrying the bass tones.

The men have made several appearances on campus at such functions as the Frosh Snoball dance and the Inter-Dorm Council's reception for President H. K. Newburn. In addition to these they engaged in what Tan calls "our regular pastime, serenades." "However," Wilson added, "the music school has made it clear that they do not want to be connected with us in anyway."

The initial performance of the quartet's act for the Forest Grove contest was Thursday evening at the Junior Pan-Hellenic pledge banquet at which they appeared in costumes and sang "Carolina in the Mornin'" and "Coney Island Baby," the songs they will also sing tonight in the contest.

Gay Costumes

Their costumes for the contest are based on the event's "Gay Nineties" theme and consist of nightcaps, sideburns and night-shirts, with "appropriate accessories."

This is the seventh annual barbershop contest to be sponsored in Forest Grove. Friday night the quartets will sing for the chance to be chosen as one of the eight finalists to appear Saturday night in competition for $300 first prize money and a first place trophy. The Northwest championship also goes to the winners.

Events planned for Saturday's celebration include a Gay Nineties parade, a special breakfast and stunts on downtown street-corners.

Quartets entered so far in the contest include the "Force Four" from the University of Oregon medical school; the "Short Circuit Four" representing Bonneville Power administration; the "Sagging Sigs" from the University of Idaho; the "Tech Tones" from Washington State college, and the "Mellow Bellow Four" from Whitman college.
