R. T. Ellickson, associate dean of the graduate school and head of the physics department, will leave for Washington, D. C., Friday and return March 16.

Ellickson will serve on the astronomy and physics committee of the National Research council to select winners for the National Science Foundation fellowships. "There are about 3000 entrants for the fellowships and we pick about 600," Ellickson said.

Student Court Lists Fines, Policies

Students fined at last Wednesday night's regular meeting of Student Court included Robert Copple, junior in liberal arts, who paid $1 for parking in the yellow zone in front of Gerlinger, and Howard Smith, graduate in psychology, whose fine was $2 for blocking a driveway in the Fiji lot.

Those whose tickets were voided were Don Zavin, senior in business, who had been taking pictures for Dads' Day publicity and was parked in the SU drive, and Hal Reeve, sophomore in business, whose violation resulted from another car being parked improperly.

New Policies

A fine of $1 was charged Leo Osborn, senior in foreign languages, when he blocked a fire-lane by Gerlinger while delivering dishes for the International Fun Fest. William Taylor, freshman in art, had his ticket for being parked by a fire hydrant voided because a truck had obstructed his view of it.

In accordance with one of the new policies of the court, students who have not acted upon violations for two weeks are turned over to the office of student affairs and their fines are to be deducted from their breakage fees. Twenty-five such cases were disposed of at Wednesday's session. Fifty cents additional fine is being charged in cases where this action must be taken, according to Fred Turner, head of the court.

Revised Fine Rates

Another policy, which has previously been included but not enforced, is that of turning chronic and willful violators over to the office of student affairs for disciplinary action.

A fine of $1 was charged Leo Osborn, senior in foreign languages, when he blocked a fire-lane by Gerlinger while delivering dishes for the International Fun Fest. William Taylor, freshman in art, had his ticket for being parked by a fire hydrant voided because a truck had obstructed his view of it.

Speeding or reckless driving, $5.00; parking by a fire hydrant or lane, $5.00; SU drive, $2.00; Deady-Villard area parking, $2.00; blocking a driveway, entrance or alley, $2.00; improper parking, $1.00; parking in a yellow zone, $1.00; double-parking, $1.00; parking in an alley, $1.00; loading zone parking, $1.00; parking in a service entrance, $1.00; and failure to display a registration sticker, $1.00.

Rule Exceptions

Exceptions to these rules include students with legitimate errands who must park in the SU drive, who should use the service entrance on the south side.

It was stressed by Turner that all students who receive citations should either pay their fines at the office of student affairs or appear before one of the bi-monthly meetings of the court, held in the SU on alternate Wednesday nights.

Also stressed was the point that all students should register cars with student affairs as a step in registration at the University. The sticker which the student obtains at that time should be displayed, as failure to do so results in an additional fine.
