UO Honoraries Listed

If you wanta "belong," the University of Oregon is the place to be.

Campus honoraries and professional fraternities number some 44, excluding other organizations and activities. This category includes groups which pick members on an automatic or selective basis from schools or departments, from classes, or from students with a particular interest.

These groups differ widely in requirements, structure, and emphasis. The most selective are Phi Beta Kappa, liberal arts; Sigma Xi, science; and Order of the Coif, law.

Perhaps the most famous of these is Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary. Members are selected in the spring, except for the Senior Six, on the basis of outstanding scholarship and liberal arts background. This year's Senior Six, picked fall term as the first six seniors to make Phi Beta each year, are Pat Ward, Chris Williams, Helen Jackson Frye, Mary Dorris, Bill Norval, Vera Paugh.

Phi Beta Kappa officers are faculty members.

Two scholastic honoraries select members on the basis of 3.5 freshman accumulative G.P.A. or a 3.5 fall term of the freshman year. They are:

Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman scholastic honorary. President, Bill Reeves; vice-president, Ed Toyooka; secretary-treasurer, Bill Mikkelsen.

Alpha Lambda Delta, women's freshman scholastic honorary. President, Sylvia Wingard; vice-president, Aileen Kronquist; secretary, Laura Harper; treasurer, July Harris; and historian, Jackie Saylor.

Students picked for membership in both groups remain members throughout their University careers.

There are six class honoraries, generally selecting members on the basis of activities.

Women can start in with Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, which picks 35 members.

Officers this year are: president, Nan Mimnaugh; vice-president, Dorothy Kopp; secretary, Ann Blackwell; and treasurer, Janet Wick.

Phi Theta Upsilon is the junior women's honorary, selecting 25 members. Judy McLoughlin, English, is president this year. Other officers are Joan Walker, vice-president; Pat Gustin, secretary; and Cathy Tribe, treasurer.

Senior honorary for women is Mortar Board, consisting of 20 members. Officers this year are president, Marian Briner; vice-president, Mary Ellen Burrell; secretary, Dolores Parrish; and treasurer, Jane Wiggen.

Men who want to climb the class honorary ladder can start with Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary. The group picks 25 members. Officers are Alex Byler, president; Ron Ricketts, vice-president; Don Rotenberg, secretary, and Jim Light, treasurer.

Druids, junior men's honorary taps 10 members. This year's officers are Don Almy, president; Paul Lasker, vice-president; and Al Karr, secretary-treasurer.

Friars, senior men's honorary, picks 15-20 men each year. It is the only recognized secret organization on campus.

There are some 35 other such groups, honoraries and professional fraternities in the schools and departments. They include:

Alpha Delta Sigma, men's national professional advertising fraternity. President, Don Zavin; secretary-treasurer, Merle Davis.

Alpha Kappa Delta, national sociology honorary. President, Virginia Bingham; secretary-treasurer, Surinder Meheta.
