

Senate Members, Moms' Chairman To Be Selected

Petitions Requested For Vacant Offices

The ASUO senate will fill two senate vacancies and select a general chairman for Mothers Day at its first meeting of spring term tonight at 6:30.

Senate positions to be filled are sophomore class representative and freshman class vice-president. The vacancies occurred when Janet Miller, sophomore in speech, and Meb Buchanan, freshman in anthropology, who previously held the positions failed to make a 2-point GPA winter term and were declared ineligible.

Pat Dignan, ASUO president, announced that petition deadline for these offices and for the Mothers Day chairmanship is 5 p.m. today. Petitions may be turned in at the ASUO office, SU 304.

Any sophomore or freshman who had a 2-point GPA last term and has a 2-point accumulative GPA is eligible to petition for the vacant office of his class.

Petitioners for the class offices and the chairmanship are requested to be present at the senate meeting to be held in SU 334 for their interviews, Dignan said.

SU Petitions Due For 6 Vacancies

Deadline for petitions for the six vacancies on the Student Union board is 5 p.m. Wednesday, according to Dan Zavin, board assistant chairman. Petitions should be turned in at S.U. board chairman's office, S.U. 310 or left in the petition box on the third floor.

Only sophomores are eligible to petition for representative positions from the schools of music, health and physical education, architecture and allied arts, and the college of liberal arts. Other vacancies include the law and graduate schools.

Applicants must meet regular University requirements including scholarship, residence here during the two previous terms and be a major in the school they represent, Zavin announced.

The board will nominate candidates April 15 to fill the posts of member at large, a one-year term on the board for two representatives from the junior class, and a two-year term for a member of the sophomore class. Petitions are not required for these positions.

6 J-School Majors Pledged by SDX

Six journalism majors were tapped Monday for membership in Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity. They will be formally initiated April 17.

Ellingson Gives Advice on Draft

Freshmen men who have received their physical notices can request draft deferment for the remainder of the term, according to Counselor of Men Si Ellingson.

The draft boards first send the student his notice for a physical. After taking the physical, the student must send a personal letter to the board requesting deferment and must request the registration office to verify his registration in school.

Then, Ellingson said, the student may get a notice of induction before he receives his reclassification to 1-S or before he receives a notice of postponement of induction.

Ellingson suggested that any student who has received his physical or induction notice may discuss the situation at the office of student affairs.

UO Air Cadets Schedule Review

The annual mass review of all Air Force ROTC cadets is slated for the drill field today at 1 p.m. The University's Air Force department will be inspected by a team of visiting officers consisting of Col. John A. Cosgrove, Lt. Col. Wayne B. Fulton and Major Dewight L. Harley.

The detachment will be ranked against the other 209 Air Force units under the direction of the Air university at Montgomery, Ala. The inspection is to determine the amount and adequacy of training in this unit.

Each marching unit will pass the review stand and the visiting team will judge their drill proficiency. That group which ranks the highest in the review will receive an award of merit.

Polish Pianist Here Tonight

Appearing as guest soloist with the Portland symphony orchestra in their concert in McArthur court tonight at 8 p.m. will be Polish-born pianist Jakob Gimpel.

The artist, born in Lvov, Poland, began his study of piano there at the age of five. At eight he entered the Lvov conservatory and later studied in Vienna, where he gave his first recital at the age of 18.

In 1937 Gimpel made a world tour with Bronislaw Huberman, appearing in Australia, the East Indies and Palestine. Resuming his earlier European tours in 1938, he was in Sweden, in March of that year when Hitler invaded Austria. Cancelling a proposed tour of Poland, he came to the U. S.

Since his first New York recital in 1939, Gimpel has been heard as soloist at the Hollywood bowl under Steinberg, at Ravinia park in Chicago under Wallenstein, with the San Francisco symphony under Monteux and with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra. Besides his concert appearances, he

Four Professors Qualify For Ford Foundation Aid

Total of $25,300 For 'Best in West'

All four of Oregon's candidates for Ford Foundation fellowships have been accepted by that organization, Eldon Johnson, dean of the college of liberal arts, has announced. Grants of $25,300 have been made to the group by the Fund for Advancement of Education.

This year's winners are Earl Pomeroy, associate professor of history; Bernardo Gicovate, assistant professor of romance languages; Frank Massey, assistant professor of mathematics, and Francis Reithel, associate professor of chemistry.

Oregon Has Top Record

Acceptance of the four nominations for the second time in three years gives the University the best record in the Northwest and one of the best in the West, Johnson said. Two years ago four faculty members received grants from the foundation and last year one award was received.

Most of Pomeroy's year will be spent at the University of California and at Huntington library where he will study Western social and cultural history. He will also tour the United States investigating instructional programs in history in various universities.

Gicovate Plans Columbia Study
Gicovate will study aesthetics and contemporary literature at Columbia university.

Post doctoral study of the biochemistry plants and micro-organisms at the University of California will be the project of Reithel.

Massey, who plans a study of the application of mathematics and statistics to the social sciences, will spend the year of his fellowship at Harvard university.

The awards are made to promising young faculty members to provide an opportunity for further preparation for effective college teaching, Johnson said.

POW Trade Offer Accepted by Allies

(AP)—A late dispatch from Korea Monday night reported that the Allies have accepted a Communist proposal for exchanging sick and wounded prisoners of war.

The prisoners exchanged would include those less seriously disabled. Prisoners in this category would be moved to a neutral country.

The chief of the allied liaison team, Rear Admiral John Daniel, accepted the red offer after an 11 minute meeting in Panmunjom. Daniel said his acceptance was based on the condition that no prisoner be repatriated against his will.

Under the Geneva convention, prisoners likely to recover from their disability within one year may be sent to a neutral nation instead of being returned to their homeland. That's so they wouldn't rejoin the fighting forces.

KWAX Will Broadcast New Comedy Program

Six-fifteen tonight marks first broadcast in the new campus comedy show over KWAX. Using the name "Lemon Punch," the show will lampoon various aspects of campus life, according to KWAX station manager Jack Vaughn.

Thorne Briar, well known student in animal husbandry, will conduct the interviews which are "designed to reveal the little-known facts about the little-known people on campus," Vaughn said.

Tonight's show will feature an interview with famous University theater actor, George Spelvin, according to Vaughn. In forthcoming broadcasts of "Lemon Punch," Briar will interview Rodney Morrison, fearless reporter on the Emerald; Ken Sabe, Spanish expert from the foreign language department, and Aardvark Zylch, trainer of Waldo.

Most of the interviews on "Lemon Punch" will be transcribed in secrecy on the actual locale. This measure is being taken, Vaughn added, "to thwart any possible recalcitration and to insure free unbiased opinions from the interviewees."

Career Day to Feature Discussion of Vocations

With the hope that freshmen and sophomores will find it easier to decide upon a major and that upper classmen can learn about the job opportunities open to them, the first annual Career Day will be held on campus April 14.

According to Don Zavin, chairman of the joint administrative-student committee in charge, Career Day programs have been successful at other universities including the University of Wisconsin.

Each session will feature a speaker representing a profession or occupation and a student and faculty member who will act as co-chairman.

Among the vocations represented and the speakers, are teaching, Clarence Hines, superintendent of Eugene schools; law, Hugh Biggs, Portland lawyer and 1927 Oregon graduate; fine arts, D. P. Hatch, instructor in art; social science and social welfare, Herbert Bisno, assistant professor of sociology.

A panel discussion on "Resources for Further Information and Counsel" will also be featured during the day. Members will include Robert Clark, assistant dean of the college of liberal arts; Spencer Carlson, director of admissions and counseling; Carl Hintz, librarian, and Karl Onthank, director of graduate placement.

Following Career Day, the ninth annual two-day Student Business conference will be held. This is planned as a further source of information on opportunities in business.

In conjunction with Career Day an exhibit of books concerning vocations will be on display in the library beginning Wednesday.

NINE POSITIONS OPEN ON CAMPUS RED CROSS

Nine positions are open on next year's Red Cross board, Joan Walker, president, has announced. Positions are open to both men and women, Miss Walker said.

Chairmanships include, promotion, winter term blood drive, disaster, Roseburg veteran's hospital and special events.

In his sequence for "Letters from an Unknown Woman," he received 4000 fan letters, although he had never been seen in the picture.

For tonight's concert Gimpel will play "Concerto No. 2 in F Minor" by Chopin. The orchestra will also do three more works.

The 75-member personnel of the Portland symphony is drawn primarily from Portland residents. Nearly one-third of the players were at one time members of the Portland Junior symphony, playing and teaching in the Portland area. Several, however, come from other cities such as Los Angeles, Boston and San Francisco.

The orchestra has been in existence since before 1900, but was not formally established with planned regular seasons until 1923. Willem Van Hoogstraten was conductor from 1925 until 1938 when the group was forced to suspend operation because of financial difficulties until 1947. Werner Janssen then directed for two years, followed in 1949 by the present conductor, James Sample.

Delay Granted In Check Case

(P)—Mrs. Mary Allton, wife of Donald W. Allton, assistant professor of music, has been granted a postponement until May 25 for her appearance in superior court at San Diego on a bad check charge. She was to have been arraigned Tuesday.

Superior Judge Arthur Mundo also gave permission for starting trial on the day of the arraignment.

Mrs. Allton's attorney said he requested the postponement to save her an additional trip from Eugene.

Mrs. Allton is accused of passing a series of forged payroll checks at San Diego last July. She maintains it is a case of mistaken identity.
