

Housemother Plan Irks Men 'Even The Gods' Tickets On Sale

Most students seem to favor leaving the system of men's dormitory counseling as it is, if the sample of student opinion gathered by the Emerald Monday is any indication.

Proposed for students' consideration is a plan to remove the present counselors in Straub and Susan Campbell halls and replace them with one representative from the administration in each building. This supervisor would not necessarily be a woman, Tom Shepherd, Inter-dorm council president, pointed out.

The proposed change would give the hall officers more power in hall affairs. IDC will vote on the proposal today at a noon meeting in the Straub dining room.

In the Emerald poll five men felt that the present counseling system is satisfactory. However, most of them added a qualifying phrase to their statements.

Chris Williams, senior in general science, felt that a housemother in Straub could raise "the tone of living" in the dorm. Also in favor of the present system was Bob Heppner, junior in business, who added a counselor is "handy to have around."

Two men from Susan Campbell, Mark Newman, senior in liberal arts, and Don Wilson, senior in psychology, applied the proposal to "Susie." Both felt that if "Susie" continues to be an upperclass dorm, the present system is satisfactory. However, they felt that if freshmen were allowed to move in, the upperclassmen would need a stronger voice in hall government than they now have.

In favor of changing the counseling system was Lawrence Richardson, senior in business, who felt that the counselors "haven't anything to do" and that they have an "easy job which has no real purpose."

Tickets for the University theater's fifth production, "Even the Gods," will be on sale at the theater box office every day except Sunday through April 25. The box office is open from 1 to 5 p.m. each day.

The play is an original manuscript by Mildred Kuner. University theater's presentation will mark the second time the comedy has ever been produced. University of California at Los Angeles gave the initial presentation arena style in November, 1952.

Sandra Price, junior in speech, who plays the leading role of Alcestis, played leading roles in "Petticoat Fever," and "Sea Gull" last year. This is her first appearance this year.

Gerald Smith, junior in political science, who is cast in the role of Apollo, portrayed the title role in "King Henry IV, Part I" earlier this season.

Phil Sanders, junior in speech, playing Sosthenes, the Prime Minister, also appeared in "The Happy Time" and "Death of a Salesman" this year.

Folk Song Culture Subject of Lecture

David P. Hatch will speak on the "Essence of Folk Singing as a Cultural Entity" in a lecture Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in SU 202. His lecture will include a demonstration of tape recordings and recordings of the nation's top folk singers.

Present as participating speaker will be Kenneth Lodewick, originator of the "Folk Music and Facts" program heard on Saturday evening.

Clark Appearance Postponed a Week

The scheduled appearance of Walter Van Tilburg Clark, novelist and short story writer, has been postponed until next week due to a last minute change in the speaker's schedule, the English department has announced.

Clark who was to lecture here on Wednesday and speak to writing classes during the week, is currently at the University of Washington in Seattle, and will not be in Eugene until next Monday. New time for Clark's lecture has not been set.

Young Democrats Elect New Officers

Noreen Kelly, first year law student, was elected president of the Oregon Young Democratic clubs at a statewide convention held April 10 to 11 in the Eugene hotel.

The convention also selected Ralph Hillier, second year law student, for the first vice-presidency position. Both are members of the campus group, which was host for the event. They will serve for one year.

Junior Weekend Planners to Meet

Float parade pairings will be made and the terrace dance committee will meet to discuss plans as preparation for Junior Weekend continues.

Representatives from each living organization entering in the float parade are to meet at 4 p.m. today in the Student Union. Pairings will be made at that time, Chairman Sally Haseltine announced.

The terrace dance committee will meet at 6:30 tonight in the SU, Chairman Paul Lasker announced. Committee members planning the event which will follow the campus clean-up May 7 include Phyllis Pearson and Jackie Jones, decorations; Scott Page, intermission, and Richard Baronovich, properties.

Short story of a long shopping list

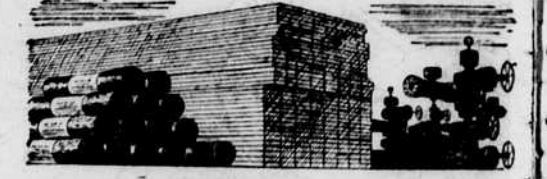

If you were to jot down all the different kinds of goods and services Standard Oil Company of California buys, your shopping list would be about 50,000 items long. Over the years, we've been growing as a customer as well as a supplier here in the West.

But the most important aspect of our "shopping," we believe, is where we do it. You might think that a large company like Standard would centralize its buying in a few metropolitan areas. Actually, our purchases are made in hundreds of Western communities. The almost infinite variety of Standard's needs—from paper clips to propellers, from produce to professional services—has made the Company an important factor in the economic well-being of Western towns and cities.

Last year Standard was a very good customer for a great many firms—more than 10,000 large and small suppliers, to whom we paid more than $125,000,000. We've always bought locally wherever possible and practical. We do it not only because it's good business for Standard, but also because it helps the growth of the West. We know that our long-run prosperity depends on that of the communities we serve.

From groceries to drilling pipe, Standard's purchases in local communities mean business to merchants all through the West.

We buy building materials—lumber, roofing, plumbing, carpentry, and supplies for our oil fields, refineries, plants, and offices.

We also use the services of doctors, nurses, pharmacists, lawyers, engineers, surveyors, drilling contractors, and many others.
