Just a Thought

The following is a campaign speech which, to our knowledge, has not yet been given.

My Friends: I hope you'll listen to what I have to say. I don't ask you to believe it or take my word for it—for I am talking about the future. Even I can't guarantee that.

I am not going to tell you what committees I have served on; what organizations I belong to or what remarkable things I have accomplished so far. I don't think you care. Beyond that, they don't mean anything. You're not being asked to vote for me for what I have been or now am . . . but what you hope I will be.

I do not have a specific program of things I will do, or won't do. Why should I? It seems to me that you shouldn't want that kind of person. After all, why should your president be committed to any one set of plans when he represents — or should at any rate — everybody.

All you should expect of him is that he should be aware of what problems do exist, be prepared for those that will come up, and be willing to act intelligently and responsibly on them. And when he does act you should expect him to be thinking in terms of the student body as a whole and the university — not just one faction.

One last thing. We tend to think in terms of "splits" and "blocs" and such things around here. Why I don't know . . . for the only time an affiliation or lack of it seems to mean anything is during this short campaign period. When we get down to work it becomes small, sometimes non-existent. And it should, at all times, be the latter.

We are too small, and too bound up in common interests and activities to be so divided. For that reason, I do not wish to have you think of me as greek or independent. I feel that I should be either both, or neither. Thank you.

Tri-Delts Offer 2 Scholarships

Applications for the two scholarships awarded annually by Delta Delta Delta are now being accepted in Mrs. Golda P. Wickham's office, according to Janet Bell, Tri-Delt scholarship chairmen.

The scholarships, one to be awarded to a senior and one to a junior woman, are worth $250 and $350 respectively. Any sophomore or junior woman may apply for them, Miss Bell said.

Deadline for applying for the scholarships is Friday. Miss Bell stressed the fact that there are no requirements except need in applying for the awards. The scholarship winners will be announced at the All-Campus Sing.

Anonymous Cards Need Identification

Eight drop cards, filed by students who evidently prefer to remain anonymous, have been posted on the bulletin board in Emerald hall.

Because they are nameless, it is impossible for the registrar's office to process them in the regular manner. This means that the students who filed them are still considered as enrolled in the classes which they have dropped.

Levine Appointed To Summer Staff

Shepard Levine, assistant professor of art education, has been appointed to the summer school staff of the school of architecture and allied arts, Sidney W. Little, dean of the school, has announced.

He will assist Thomas O. Ballinger, head of the art education division, in conducting a summer session program of laboratory workshops in art activities at both the elementary and secondary school levels.

University theater season ticket holders only may attend the "Theater Excitement" to be presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

The bonus attraction will feature "Trio" and "The Last Flower," dance numbers, and "Observation" from Richard Boleslovsky's "Six Lessons in Acting," and Christopher Morley's "Good Theater," dramatic numbers.

Other officers of the campus chapter are Janet Blom, vice president; Barbara Boushey, secretary; Virginia Dailey, treasurer, and Elsie Schiller, keeper of the archives.

Pat Choat is the out-going president of the group.

Two Grad Students Win History Grants

The history department announced today that fellowships have been awarded to two graduate students amounting to $3800.

Robert E. Johnson, graduate assistant in history has been awarded a $1200 fellowship at Claremont graduate school in California. Johnson will work on his doctorate in history.

Stanley Pierson, '51 honor graduate in history now at Harvard, was granted a Sheldon traveling fellowship for $2400. Pierson will spend the next year in Europe and study in England.

The Sheldon scholarship is considered the highest honor at Harvard and will enable complete freedom to study and travel wherever the student prefers.

Italian Professor To Give Lectures

Two lectures, one in French and one in English, will be given on campus this week by Bruno Migliorini, professor of linguistics at the University of Florence, Italy.

Migliorini, a guest of the University's department of foreign languages, will arrive Thursday from the University of California where he is a visiting professor.

Thursday night Migliorini will talk on "Dante et la langue italienne" at the Faculty club. The 8 p.m. lecture, delivered in French, will be open to the public.

The Italian language, with special reference to its historical development, will be discussed by Migliorini at 4 p.m. Friday in the Student Union. The coffee hour discussion will be in English.

Migliorini is the author of several books on philosophical subjects. He is currently co-editor of "Lingua Nostra," a periodical devoted to the study of the Italian language.
