

Al Karr Appointed Emerald Editor

Oregon Daily

EMERALD

Fifty-fourth year of Publication

VOL. LIV UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, TUESDAY, MAY 5, 1953 NO. 112

Brandsness Wins Top Ad Staff Post

Al Karr, junior in journalism, was appointed editor and Bill Brandsness, sophomore in business, business manager of the Oregon Daily Emerald for the first half of the 1953-54 school year by the Student Publications board Monday afternoon.

Karr, who has worked on the Emerald for three years and has been managing editor and assistant news editor, is presently an associate editor. He will take over next fall and guide the Emerald through to the middle of winter term when a new editor will be chosen.

Brandsness, presently advertising manager is appointed for the full year. The two-staffs-a-year policy set up by the Pub board last year does not affect the business side of the paper.

In other action, the board approved a budget for the Emerald based on the assumption that the paper will continue to be published as it is at present—four page papers five times a week coming out just before noon. It also accepted bids on photographing and paper for next year's Oregonian.

Wrightson Wins Nomination

Tom Wrightson won the Associated Greek Students nomination for ASUO president in a runoff election Monday, after taking a plurality lead in the first election Monday noon.

Wrightson polled 626 votes, to 490 for Paul Lasker, the remaining contender. In the lunch-hour primary, Wrightson had 438, Lasker 410 and Jack Faust had 333.

Faust, speaking for himself and Lasker, said he hopes that the students who supported him and Lasker would work as hard to support Wrightson. And, as president of AGS, Faust dubbed Wrightson a "fine candidate," and expressed the belief that Wrightson would certainly win next Wednesday's general election.

Graduate Students Run

Wrightson, a senior in business administration, will run against Don Collin, United Independent Students candidate, also a senior, in political science. It will be the first time that the two major parties at Oregon put up candidates who will be graduate students the following year.

This is only the third year that seniors have been eligible to run for ASUO president. One graduate student, AGS candidate Bill Carey, served as student body president in 1951-52.

Lasker Re-petitions

Lasker has re-petitioned for senior class president in today's class office primary, under the AGS three-day step-down system. Faust, who is technically eligible to do the same although this is his fourth year at Oregon, has decided not to re-petition, since this year's senior class, not next year's is really his class.

Write-in votes in the lunch-hour election were Bob Lacy, 3, and Waldo, 1. In the dinner run-off, Faust, though eliminated, still got 6, Lacy dropped to 2, and Waldo held steady with 1.

Second Primary For AGS Today

Members of Associated Greek Students will vote on candidates for class nominations in the second lunch-hour primary today. The vote will be preferential voting, to eliminate the necessity of a run-off.

Under the preferential system, voters number their choice for each office according to preference. If a candidate does not have a majority, the ballots are redistributed according to second, third, etc. choices until the required number of candidates do have a majority.

Running for senior class president are Wes Ball, Paul Lasker, defeated candidate for ASUO presidential nomination, Clarke Miller and Alan Oppliger. For representative are Anne Dielschneider, Pat Gildea, Pat Ruan and Jane Slocum.

That's Water, Carol

THIS IS THE FATE for all freshman women who fail to adhere to the tradition rules and do not wear their green ribbons for the remainder of the week. Junior Weekend Traditions Chairman Barney Holland, center, looks on approvingly as Order of O men Ken Wegner, left and Ken Sweitzer, hold Freshman Carol Hansen over the water of the Fenton pool.

Thirteen File Petitions For Senator-at-Large

Candidates defeated in today's class office primary may also petition for senate-at-large. They will be notified after today's vote, according to AGS President Jack Faust.

Modernized Classics Bring Fame to Fina

Jack Fina, who will play for the Junior Prom Friday night, organized his own band three years ago after being the featured pianist with Freddy Martin's orchestra for 10 years.

It was Fina's playing of a modern interpretation of Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto in B Flat Minor" as "Tonight We Love" that made music history. The "Concerto" recording sold two million copies and is one of the five all-time top recordings.

Fina's arrangements of the classics have sold more than 10 million records throughout the years. "Bumble Boogie," Fina's version of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" was judged the best boogie-woogie selection of 1946. His interpretations have won the personal approval of such concert pianists as Jose Iturbi, Artur Schnabel and Vladimir Horowitz.

Since leaving Marin, Fina has played from coast to coast in theaters, hotels and night clubs. Included in his show and dance programs are such favorites as Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," "Kitten on the Keys" and "Tico Tico."

Tickets for the Prom are now on sale in men's, living organizations and at the Co-op from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through Friday. Tickets will also be sold at the door Friday evening. Dress for the annual dance is formal. Corsages are optional.

Women's closing hours were extended to 2 a.m. by the office of student affairs last week. The dance is to be held in the Student Union ballroom from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Inside on Econ Given by Prof

What has to be sold in economic education is intellectual honesty, Frank H. Knight, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, told a crowd of about 200 in the Dad's lounge of the Student Union Monday evening.

Knight termed his hour-long lecture "unorganized samples" of his thoughts on the problems of a free society. The short, gray-haired speaker punctuated his talk with personal anecdotes and quotations that sent his audience off into frequent bursts of laughter.

"Why do we need to defend economics?" asked Knight. Largely because of the ambiguous attitude of most people who either "look down their noses at economics or claim it as a solution to all problems," he explained.

The moral status of salesmanship is either one of lies or one of telling truth, remarked Knight. He sees an interesting paradox in this: if truth has to be sold by fraud.

"If people started telling nothing but the truth," Knight suggested, "society would be a shambles within half an hour." Knight believes that truth "cannot be worshipped monotheistically, because no ethical principle can be carried through by completely ignoring other principles."

Knight, continuing his survey of free society, gave his audience a new commandment, "don't expect too much." Peace and prosperity, said Knight, are not just around the corner and are not attainable. (Please turn to page two)
