

Search Underway For Least Man on Campus

this week with a call for candidates by Phyllis Pearson, LMOC selection chairman.

Each living organization must submit the name of its "representative" to Miss Pearson at Carson

Oregon's annual search for the least man on campus, the man most unworthy of anything, begins hall by 5 p.m. Friday. Interviews will be conducted next week and the names of the six finalists will be posted in the Student Union.

The final loser, the one who leads the dullest, most uninteresting life, will be announced at the Mortar Board Ball, May 23.

"Disqualifications" for the candidates, suggested by Miss Pearson include:

1. Perpetual five o'clock shadow.
2. Always late for dates.
3. Carries either 10 or 11 hours, depending on the weather.
4. Never has seen his professors.
5. At the top of every blacklist.
6. Sleeps until 3 p.m. daily.
7. Utterly lacks campus interest.
8. Most uncooperative.
9. Biggest picnic-goer.
10. Worst closet member.

Last year's least man was Mel Erickson, senior, of Alpha Tau Omega. Purpose of the contest, sponsored by Mortar Board, is to recognize those men who spurn activities and the weightier side of college life for a strictly good time.

'Lemon Punch' Slates Nervous

Harvery Nervous, advanced bebop musician at the school of music, will be interviewed tonight on "Lemon Punch" over KWAX. According to KWAX Announcer Thorne Briar, the interview with Nervous will be one of the "most crazy" to be presented at the 6:15 time spot.

Nervous, in the interview, will tell how he is trying to bring progressive music to the attention of the music school "who up till now have been concerned only with such cats as Beethoven and Bach." Nervous also will go into a detailed explanation of some of the various terminologies used by the progressive musicians.

Exchange Program Scheduled for SU

"Webfoot Impressions of '53," Oregon's traveling exchange assembly, will be presented today at 1 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom, according to Andy Berwick.

The assembly, which was presented at Willamette university and Oregon State college, was "well-received" at both schools, Berwick said. It is under the auspices of the ASUO entertainment commission and is directed by Jo Forbes, senior in speech, who is exchange assembly chairman.

Neil Tardio, junior in art, is the master of ceremonies for the show, which consists of comedy sketches, selections by a combo, a chorus-line number and several featured solo numbers.

The show will travel to San Jose State college in San Jose, California, on May 28.
