A Deserved Dressing-down

"Well, now, I suppose you guys have never borrowed any of my clothes."

A Good Platform

The platform of UIS, presented Tuesday by Don Collin, seems to indicate that Collin and others have been doing some serious thinking about what things can actually be accomplished to help the student.

Any platform, naturally, must be considered in terms of what a party "would like to accomplish." From past experience, we all know that it's far from being a statement of things "we will see to it are done."

But even with this obviously needed qualification, there are several points in the UIS charter that we find significant, encouraging — areas where interest and pressure might do some good.

Four items in the platform, we believe, indicate the nature of UIS thinking as it applies to all of us — an improved foreign student program, departmental help sessions, improved student wages and more library time (if desired) for freshmen women. Three of the four would effect only segments of the student population; all, however, seem worth areas for consideration and, if necessary, some realignment.

These four points may seem the more insignificant ones when considering the platform as a whole. They are areas, however, where perhaps investigation is needed. And, incidentally, to our knowledge, it's about the first time these have been mentioned in anybody's platform.

Sure, UIS has its statement of the Millrace park, a Northwest Regional conference, a new football stadium, deferred rushing and so on. It was pretty much expected of them to make pronouncement on some of the weightier problems we have (at least in terms of hot air expended on them). But we're inclined to think it will be among the less auspicious demands where (1) a reasonable chance for success exists, (2) the real interest of a party is demonstrated and (3) where, in the final analysis, one's party platform will prove better than the other's.

UIS's platform is neither revolutionary nor completely original. But it covers many areas of student life, shows concern for many groups and indicates a foundation in some very solid thinking. It's a good platform. AGS people will have to go some to match it ... and we hope they do.

California's Struve To Lecture Tonight

"The Original and Revolution of the Stars" will be discussed at 8 by Otto Struve, professor of astronomy at the University of California. He is speaking under the sponsorship of Sigma Xi, national science honorary.

Struve, who will speak in the Student Union ballroom, is also director of Leuschner observatory in California. Educated in Russia and the United States, Struve is the author of the "Stellar Evolution," and about 500 articles for the Astrophysical Journal, of which he was editor from 1932 until 1947.

Fields in which Struve has studied include stellar spectroscopy, radial velocities, spectroscopic binaries, interstellar matter and the formation of stellar absorption lines.

Madrigals to Entertain At Mothers' Breakfast

The Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Donald Allton, assistant professor of music, will entertain the University Mothers at their annual breakfast meeting Saturday morning at 9 in the Student Union, according to Barbara Wilcox, general chairman.

Mrs. John Caughell, president of the Oregon Mothers; Arthur Priaulx, president of the Oregon Dads' and Pat Dignan, student body president, will speak to the mothers during the weekend.

Registration for the mothers will be held Saturday morning from 8 until 11 in the Student Union, and Friday from 1 to 5 p.m. in Gerlinger hall. Copies of the special edition of the Emerald will be distributed with the registration material Saturday morning.

Last year, 506 mothers registered during the weekend. Alpha Delta Pi and Phi Delta Theta won the living organization contests for the groups with the largest percentages of mothers registered. This year, for the first time, trophies will be awarded the contest winners at the all-campus sing Saturday evening.

The mothers will attend the all-campus luncheon Saturday noon, the float parade at 4 p.m., and the Mother's tea between 2:30 and 4:30 in Gerlinger hall. A special section has been reserved for the guests of honor at the all-campus sing Saturday evening in McArthur court.

Least Man Names Due Friday at 5

Names of each living organization's candidate for Least Man on Campus are to be turned in to Phyllis Pearson at Carson hall by 5 p.m. Friday.

The candidates, the men least worthy of anything, will be interviewed next week. Six finalists will be selected, with the winner to be announced at the Mortar Board Ball.

"Disqualifications" for the LMOC suggested by Miss Pearson include: perpetual five o'clock shadow, always late for dates, carries either 10 or 11 hours, depending on the weather, never has seen his professors, at the top of every blacklist, sleeps until 3 p.m. daily, utterly lacks campus interest, most uncooperative, biggest picnic-goer, worst closet member.

Campus Briefs

The Interdenominational Chapel group will meet at noon Friday at the YMCA.

Irving H. Bernstein, instructor in biology, will speak to the Biology club today at 7 p.m. in Science 30. His topic will be "Embryology." The club has extended an invitation to all interested students to attend.

A coffee hour honoring faculty members of the music and speech schools will be held by Phi Beta, national music and speech professional fraternity, Thursday in Gerlinger hall from 4 to 5 p.m. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

The last regular meeting of the Junior Weekend general chairmen will be held at 5:30 today in the Student Union.

Skinner's 'O' Repair Today

The word is that the "O" on Skinner's Butte will be fixed for Junior Weekend and in time for the traditional painting by freshmen men Saturday morning.

Members of Delta Upsilon began work on the project earlier this week, lining up the equipment needed to cement the damaged portions of the "O." The cement was scheduled to be poured at 11 a.m. today, Bob Simpson, Junior Weekend treasurer and instrumental in the project, said Wednesday night.

The "O," a familiar landmark on the side of Skinner's Butte visible from many parts of Eugene, was blasted into the shape of a "C" last spring by vandals. Just who did the damage has not been determined. Previous repair projects were never carried out.

responsibility? The answer stands out; no. "Man's moral enough," he went on, "but the problem is making the laws, not abiding by them."

Knight's four-day visit will end tomorrow after a luncheon with faculty members in the Student Union.
