Lax Primary Weakens AGS Case

Opposition arguments by leaders of the Associated Greek Students party to the proposed all-campus open primary plan are weakened considerably by the management of their own noon balloting.

The opportunity for ballot-box stuffing is pretty strong, as indicated by AGS three-day primary this week.

In at least a few fraternities and sororities ballots were given out not too discriminately to the voters. Piles of ballots were set down for distribution in some cases; in another a handful of ballots for the ones upstairs were given to the student on phone duty (about the only one upstairs); a visitor was given a ballot — which was marked by members; and voters often had the chance to help along a favorite candidate with some extra votes.

Greeks were also supposed to vote in the second day's class office primary only for the candidates of their particular class. In some instances, at least, this principle got lost in a fuzz of ballot-casting.

United Independent Students did not have a flawless system either.

But discrepancies in their primary were limited to the few Greeks who might have voted in the independent election (with no sure-fire method used for checking affiliation), and to some confusion as to whether or not a person was allowed to vote for all class officers or just for one. (At some polls they did it one way; at some, the other.)

COTTON CHATTER

Tie and dye . . .

Newest cotton garment at Kaufman Bros. is a Bhandana Batik skirt, which is hand tied and dyed. This is a revival of an art as old as time. In each of its four gores there is a shade of variance in the pattern and color. These $10.95 values are displayed in a brilliant array of colors—greens—blues—and reds, and in styles and designs ranging from stripes to circles. Accompanying these Tabak originals are solid colored wrap around tops . . . priced at only $6.95. These are just two of the new Tabak ties—a family group of light-hearted clothes designed by Irene Saltern of the California Tabak mills. LOOK for other members of the tie-ins at Kaufman Bros.—in the same harmonizing fabric in jackets, skirts, slacks, blouses and companion pieces. Meet them all at Kaufman Bros.

Wrinkle-Shed . . .

Newer than new are these outstanding Dan River plaid outfits. These tissue gingham co-ordinates by Charm of California are made completely of wrinkle-resistant cotton. This new exclusive cotton saves time, work and money . . . and they are reasonably priced at $10.95. Coming in three shades, each combination is "originality plus." In yellow this dress has a band of white organdy around the bottom of the skirt separated from the skirt by a ridge of lace daisies. In brown and red an opening in the front allows a frilly, white underskirt to peek from beneath. On the petticoat are a row of dainty brown buttons. Take mother in to see them today!

SPEND LEISURE OR PLAY THE KAUFMAN WAY . . .

For those spare moments when casual attire is necessary — Leyton Inc. has designed a special "round-about" in denim for the Oregon co-ed. Featured in gold, blue, red and navy—the tops are finished with elastic striped waistbands in matching colors. The wrap around skirts come in grey, blue, navy and brown and are all priced to "save the pocketbook."

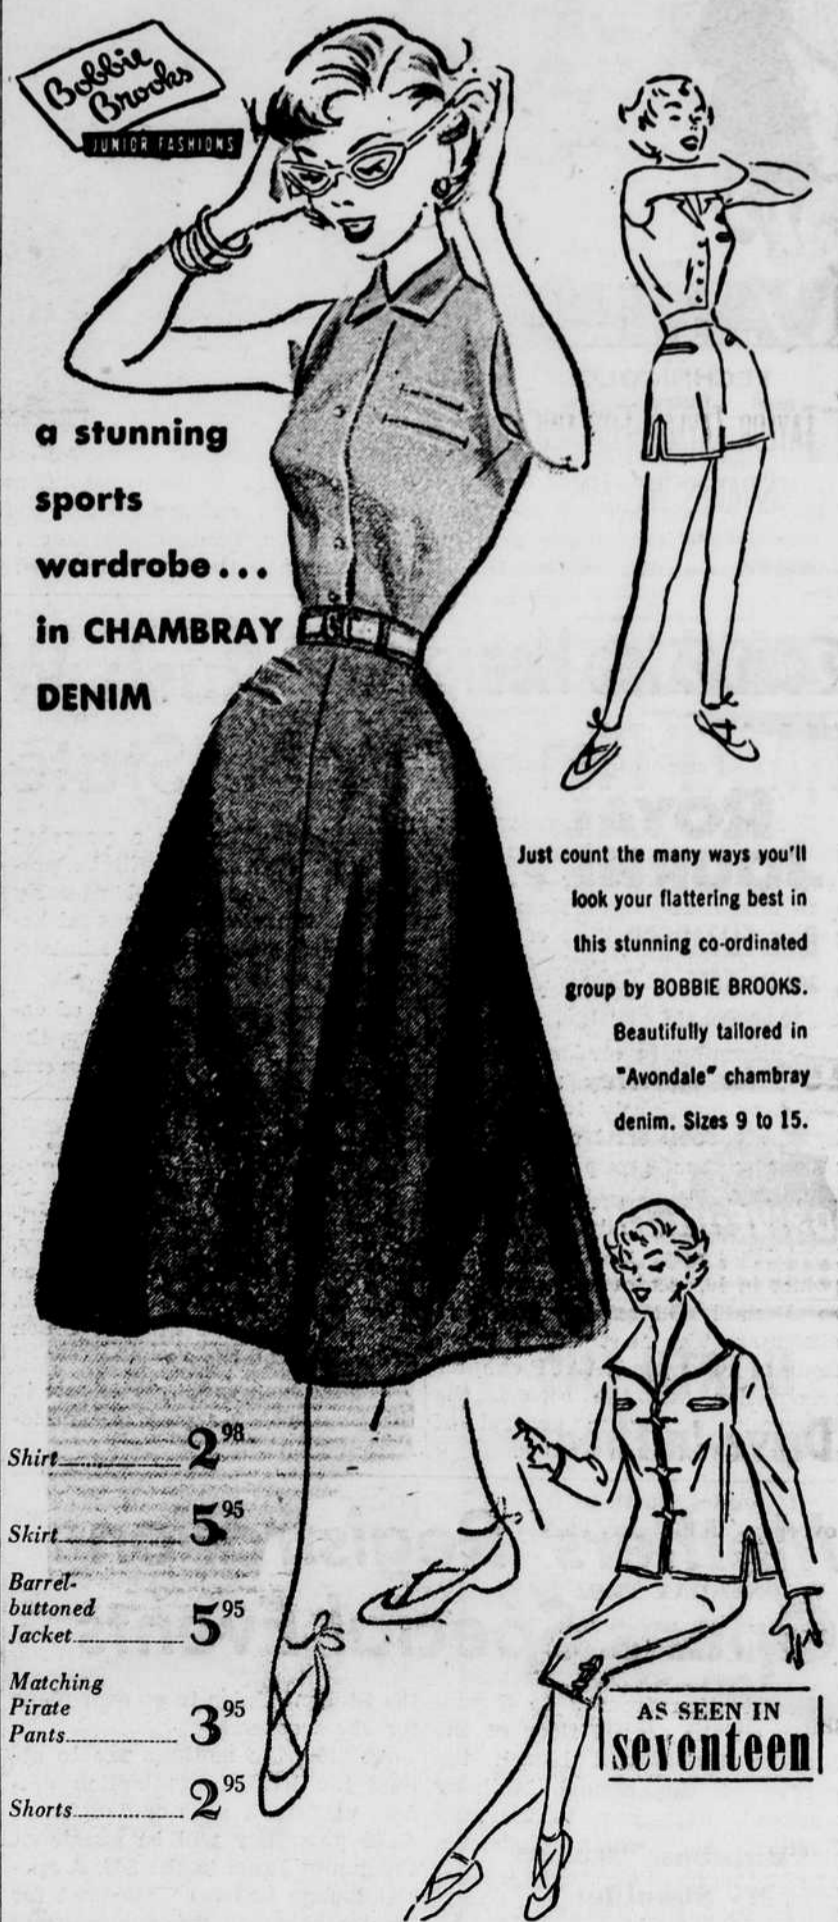

A MEMO FOR MOTHER

Don't forget this Sunday and that remembrance for mother. An idea for the perfect gift is the new selection of blouses from cotton and linen—to dressy silks and nylons. At any rate remember one thing . . .

Show Mom a good time—at least once a year.
If it weren't for her, you'd never be here!—Adv.
