

National Science Fraternity Slates Initiation May 20 for 40 Nominees

Nominees for associate and full membership in the University of Oregon chapter of Sigma Xi, national science fraternity, will be initiated May 20 during ceremonies to be held in Gerlinger hall.

The purpose of the society is to promote research in pure and applied science. The privilege of membership is extended to those who have shown either accomplishment or promise in scientific research.

Undergrads Honored

Two undergraduates, Richard Bray, junior in geology and geography, and Christopher Williams, senior in general science, are among the 40 nominees. Because of the limited facilities open to undergraduates for research work, few are admitted to membership. They will each receive an associate membership.

Those nominated for full membership include:

George Adams, research associate in chemistry; Hubert Christenson, teaching fellowship in mathematics; Kermit Clemans, instructor in mathematics; Makoto Takeo, research fellow in physics; Mario Maraghini, research associate in chemistry, and Gordon Murdock, research assistant in chemistry.

Ralph Selfridge, graduate student in mathematics, and Robert

Stalley, graduate student in mathematics. Two nominees who are neither members of the faculty or student body are Herman Johansen, chemical engineer, U. S. bureau of mines, Albany, and Parke Snavely, Northwest regional supervisor, U. S. Geological survey.

Associate Nominees

Those nominated for associate membership include:

Peter Aline, teaching fellow in physics; Mark Baelor, graduate assistant in chemistry; Annette Baich, graduate assistant in chemistry; Dale Balfour, graduate assistant in biology; Robert Bennett, research assistant in physics; Jack Borsting, graduate assistant in mathematics, and William Clark research assistant in chemistry.

Raymond Corcoran, graduate student in geology; Norman Diebel, research assistant in chemistry; Robert Doak, graduate assistant in geology; Idella Evans, graduate assistant in psychology; Alfred Hu, graduate assistant in biology, and Oleg Jefimenko, graduate assistant in physics.

18 More Named

Edward Jones Jr., graduate assistant in geology; Calvin Long, graduate assistant in mathematics; Paul Metzger, counselor in the university counseling center; Philip Porter, graduate student in geology; F. Pritchett, graduate assistant in geology, and Norman Privrasky, graduate assistant in geology.

John Reardon, graduate assistant in biology; John Rowley, graduate assistant in biology; Charles Uhl, graduate assistant in psychology; LeRoy Warren, graduate assistant in mathematics; Louis Wegner, teaching fellow in mathematics; Joseph Weissbart, graduate assistant in chemistry, and Herman Ziffer, research assistant in chemistry.

New Scholarship Given In Coos Bay

A new scholarship of $165 has been established for an incoming freshman by Farr's Hardware company of Coos Bay.

Enough to cover full tuition for one year, it will be given annually to a graduate from Coos or Curry counties. The award will preferably go to a student who has indicated an interest in business administration.

Radcliffe Fellowship Given by U. S. Rubber

An additional fellowship, courtesy of the United States Rubber company, has been made available for the Radcliffe college management training program, according to an announcement received Wednesday by Karl D. Onthank, associate director of student affairs.

Ad Group Boss Sets Talk Here

Arthur E. House, president of the Advertising Association of the West, will speak to the Oregon Ad club on the topic "Hitching Up Our Advertising Girdle," Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

House is with the Portland advertising firm of House and Leland. This will be the last meeting of the year for the ad club, which is sponsored jointly by Gamma Alpha Chi and Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternities for women and men, respectively.

Plans for the first annual ad club picnic will be discussed at the meeting.

Preceding the meeting, Alpha Delta Sigma will hold a banquet and initiation of new members. The students to be initiated are Richard Carter, junior in journalism; John Shepherd, senior in business, and Ronald Sherman, junior in business.

The longest game in PCL history was played in 1909. San Francisco beat Oakland, 1-0, in 24 innings.
