

Y Clothing Drive Set Next Week

The annual YWCA clothing drive will be held from Monday through Thursday next week, according to Germaine LaMarche, general chairman of the drive.

House representatives of the YW will place boxes for clothing in each living organization during the drive. The boxes will be collected Thursday. All clothing collected during the drive will be sent to needy areas of the world.

Committee chairmen working on the drive are Barbara Rissley, posters; Helen Donovan and Carolyn Keith, contacts; Kathy Clark, publicity, and Marilyn Purkey, collections.

Industry Confab Here This Week

The theme of the third annual northwest conference on industrial relations is the "Know How of Labor Management Relations." The conference is to be held here Thursday and Friday.

The other two conferences were held during the summer, but this year it is being held in the spring to give students a chance to attend the meetings. The sessions are free to the students.

The purpose of these meetings is to promote understanding of the other fellow's problems in the industrial system and to achieve a higher level of industrial relations.

Wengert to End YM Series Tonight

E. S. Wengert, head of the political science department, will lead the discussion at this year's last scheduled event by the YMCA.

He will lead the discussion at the wind-up session of the "This I Believe" series. All students are invited to attend the meeting in the Student Union at 7:30 tonight, according to Russ Walker, executive secretary of the YM.

Applications Due On Art Scholarship

Applications are due Friday at 5 p.m. for the Janet Davis Memorial scholarship awarded annually by members of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority to a junior or senior woman in art.

The award is made on the basis of need, merit in previous work in art and general scholarship. It is given in memory of Miss Davis, an art major in the class of '49, who was killed in a plane crash.

Applications may be obtained in the office of student affairs.

Sociologists Travel To Research Meet

Eldon H. Moore, head of the sociology department, and two graduate students, Ray Myrick, Jr. and Surinder K. Mehta, will attend a social science research meeting Thursday and Friday in Pacific Grove, Calif. They will present a paper entitled "Resident Location Choice by Male Age Groups in Oregon."

While in California, Moore will attend the social science research council meeting on "Aging," Saturday on the University of California campus.

Continental Rep Here Wednesday

E. F. Bailey, personnel supervisor for Continental Can Company, Inc., will be on campus next Wednesday to interview graduating students for this company's supervisor training program.

The company has openings in its departments of quality control, manufacturing and engineering, production, industrial relations, credit management, accounting production control, equipment manufacturing, design engineering, and scientific research.

The positions require degrees in engineering, business administration, science, mechanical engineering, industrial engineering, electrical engineering, combination business administration and engineering, business administration with a major in industrial relations, liberal arts, English, chemical engineering or metallurgical engineering.

Additional information concerning the company's program and appointments to see Bailey may be obtained at the graduate placement office in Emerald hall.

In 1932, the Oregon campus was mysteriously visited one spring morning by a company of baby frogs.

Cash prizes were being awarded to students for essays telling why it was easy to swim in a Columbia-knit suit (in 1929, that is).
