

Summer Work Openings Listed

The Student Employment service has announced a number of openings for summer employment. Shirley Sylvester of the service has classified the jobs in the following categories:

Resorts: There is a job open for a handy man at a resort in the Metolius river area, and the service is still accepting applications for work in the Crater Lake National park.

Camp Counseling: Many jobs are open to students in this field in Oregon, Washington and California.

General: Canneries in northeastern Oregon will have openings for students during the summer session. Anyone interested in commercial selling can get a job in his home town or anywhere in Oregon. It is also possible to get this type of job outside the state. For a woman a part-time job doing general office work in Portland is open.

Local part-time: Positions available, part-time now and full time this summer, in the restaurant and service station fields. Any radio repairman can get a full-time job for the summer, also in the Eugene area.

Forest Service: These jobs are for fire patrolmen and guards and are all in western Oregon. Only men qualified.

Price President For Mortar Board

Sandra Price was elected president of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, for 1953-54, following initiation ceremonies of new members last week.

Exchange Assembly Petitions Due Friday

Petitions are due Friday for chairman of the 1953-54 ASUO exchange assembly committee, according to Andy Berwick, exchange assembly commission chairman.

Petitions will also be accepted at this time for the exchange assembly executive committee consisting of the chairman and four members, Berwick said. The group will sponsor exchange assemblies at Oregon colleges and high schools in the coming year.

Ransom Chosen VIS President

Hollis Ransom, junior in pre-law, will serve as president of the United Independent Students political party for the coming year.

Assisting Ransom will be the following students who were elected at Tuesday's UIS meeting. Bob Kanada will serve as vice president, Lorin Larsen, secretary, and Russ Cowles, treasurer.

Law School Ends Moot Trial Series

The case of "Ehlers vs. Unis," heard Tuesday night at the county courthouse, wound up the law school's series of three moot trials. Law students took the parts of the persons involved in the mock cases.

Acting as attorneys for Plaintiff Ehlers were Robert Boyer, Mrs. Alberta Heffron and Steve Tyler. Defending Unis were attorneys Tom Brand and Bill Duhaime.

Bailiff during the trial was Sidney Ainsworth, assisted by clerk Gene Rose. Henry Bauer was reporter.

The case involved the collision of Ehlers' car with that of Unis. Ehlers, who entered an intersection from the east, was forced to turn abruptly south to avoid hitting another car, approaching from the north and which turned west without stopping. Ehlers' car struck Unis' car which was coming into the intersection from the south when Ehlers turned southward into his lane.

UO Freshman Wins Danforth Scholarship

Elizabeth Fortt, freshman in liberal arts, has been awarded the Danforth foundation freshman scholarship.

The award entitles Miss Fortt to two weeks of leadership training at Camp Miniwanca in Michigan. The camp is held during August.

Deatherage Elected Inter-Dorm President

Bill Deatherage, fifth year student in law, was elected president of the Inter-Dormitory Council at a noon meeting Tuesday. He will serve for the coming year.

Concert Band Schedules Final Program for Thursday Evening

The final concert of the season will be given at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, by the University of Oregon Concert Band in the Student Union ballroom.

Robert Wagner, associate professor of music, and Ira Lee, instructor in brass instruments, will direct the program of classical semi-classical and march music.

Included in the program will be Mozart's overture, "The Impresario," Handel and Beecham's ballet suite, "The Gods Go A-Begging," and David's Concertino, arranged by Richard Ramsdell, Portland. The number will feature a trombone solo by Raoul Maddox, junior in music. Also on the program will be Franck and Harding's symphonic poem, "Psyche and Eros," Gould and Morsch's Night Song from "Americana," and Ibert's "Escales," which has been arranged by Gerald Paine, graduate music student.

Music written especially for the Festival of Britain in 1951 by Gordon Jacobs will be featured on the program which will conclude with the playing of a group of selected marches.

IRC Will Hear Panel of Profs

"For America—Some Aspects of World Leadership" will be the topic of a panel discussion at Thursday night's International Relations club meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

A panel of three members will speak. They include Alburey Castell, head of the philosophy department, who will speak in terms of values—what it will cost the U.S. to maintain world leadership.

C. W. Macy, head of the economics department, will consider foreign aid and national defense, the expanding obligations and expenditures of government.

E. S. Wengert, head of the political science department, will discuss world leadership in a new framework for the people, politics, and politicians.

This will be the last in a series of panel discussions centering around the problem of leadership in the international realm sponsored by IRC. The meeting is open to all students.
