

Rotarians Offer Foreign Study

Study abroad in the form of an all-expense graduate fellowship is being offered through the Eugene Rotary club by the Rotary International foundation.

The fellowship covers all costs—travel to and from the country in which the study is taken, registration and tuition fees, books, room and board, incidental living costs, and the cost of limited educational travel within the country of study.

Eligible for the fellowship are residents of the Eugene area and students attending college in Eugene, provided they have or will receive a bachelor's degree by July 1. Applicants must be between the ages of 20 and 29, may be married, must be highly recommended and must know the language of the country in which they propose to study.

Nov. 15 is the deadline for applications to be filed with Dr. R. M. Overstreet, chairman of the club committee. Persons wishing further information may contact E. L. Johnson, Paul Means, Karl Onthank or Paul Washke on the campus.

New York Set For Big Series

NEW YORK (AP) - Excitement in the big city continued to rise on the eve of the World series opened between the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees.

The opener, which will get underway at 1:05 p.m. (EST) is expected to draw a capacity house at Yankee stadium where fans already were on line to get bleacher and standing room space. A warm, sunny day is predicted.

For the first time in several classics, the starting pitchers were known well in advance. Manager Casey Stengel has his big righthander from Oklahoma, Allie Reynolds, all set to start the Yankees on what he hopes will be a fifth straight series championship. Reynolds won 13 and lost seven this year, pitching five complete games. Most of his work was in relief.

The Dodgers have their 20-game winner, Carl Erskine, ready for action on the hill. He worked 16 complete games and was used chiefly as a starter.

The series will mark the twentieth time the Yankees have been in the fall classic. They have won 15 times. The Dodgers have been in six previous series and have yet to win.

UO Library Notes New Volume High

University library holdings have passed the half-million mark, emphasizing the fastest growth in the library's history, according to Carl W. Hintz, librarian.

The library added 33,333 volumes between June 30, 1952 and July 1, 1953, for the fastest growth in the library's history. The main library received 31,781 of the volumes, with the remainder being sent to the law and dental school branches.

Besides books, the total includes bound volumes of periodicals and newspapers, and many state and federal documents which are received free. Gifts accounted for about one-fifth of the increase.

The library now receives 3,227 periodicals, an increase of 140 over the previous year, and 148 newspapers. Most of the periodicals are specialized journals covering subjects taught in the university. The newspapers include a complete collection of current Oregon papers, plus a group of nationally read papers.

In addition to the books and periodicals, a number of maps, prints, sound recordings, slides, motion pictures, historical manuscripts, and other material was acquired.

Library circulation over the same period showed a slight drop, probably owing to decreased enrollment, according to Dr. Hintz. The decline was entirely in the use of reserve books, while the number of loans from the general stacks rose by about six thousand.

Law Grads Placed; Enrollment Larger

The total enrollment of the law school this fall has reached 78, according to Orlando J. Hollis, dean. This is nearly a ten per cent increase over a year ago when 72 enrolled fall term.

The school graduated 15 students in June. Fourteen of these passed the Oregon State Bar examination this summer, and all but one of the fourteen have been placed in jobs.

The placement has resulted in a fairly even distribution throughout the state, said Hollis. Three of the new lawyers are in Portland, and the rest are working in Baker, Eugene, Grants Pass, Medford, Pendleton, Roseburg, Salem and The Dalles.
