Senate Hears Millrace Report; Complete Restoration Hopeless

Two things can be done to the Millrace in its present state to improve it, E. G. Ebbighausen, associate professor of physics and faculty member of the ASUO senate, reported to the senate Thursday night.

His observations followed an inspection of the Millrace by Dick Williams, Student Union director and Ebbighausen this past summer.

The Millrace entrance from the Willamette river is blocked by debris, Ebbighausen said, and cleaning out this site would help somewhat. This entrance was supposed to have been cleaned by the city, he reported, but the two found a four-foot tree growing among the mud and debris which led them to believe this had not been done as promised for three to four years.

Suggests Opening Gate

The second suggestion Ebbighausen made in his report was the opening of the gate at the lower end to allow as much water as possible to flow through the 30 inch pipe which channels the Millrace under the highway and out to the river again.

No matter what is done to increase the flow in the upper end of the Millrace, Ebbighausen said that the small size of the outlet pipe under the highway will not allow any appreciable increase in flow in the lower part of the Millrace, the section running past the Greek letter houses and residences.

As far as "restoring" this section of the Millrace to its once faster flow, it is hopeless, he said. The pipe put in when the highway was built over the end of the Millrace bed, was "simply too small in spite of what engineers thought at the time. The only solution, that of tearing up 1500 feet of highway, would be necessarily impractical, he pointed out.

Level Could Be Kept

There is hope for the upper end of the Millrace, however, he said. Just past the physical plant there is a gate which leads out to the river. At present, the water flows under that gate, but if the gate could be put down to the bottom, allowing the water to flow over

IFC Slates Regional Meeting Discussion

A discussion of the Western Regional Inter-Fraternity council convention in Corvallis Oct. 22, 23, and 24 will head the agenda of the IFC meeting at 6:30 tonight in the Student Union, according to Con Sheffer, president.

Also on the schedule are plans for the Halloween party, reports Sheffer. There is a possibility that the annual affairs for Eugene children will not be held this year because of conflicting dates with a Portland football game, Sheffer said.

Whiskerino Theme Selection On Tap for Today's Meeting

Sophomore Whiskerino committee heads will meet this afternoon at 3 p.m. in Student Union 334, according to General Co-chairmen Jim Duncan and Sam Vahey.

Chairmen are asked to bring ideas for a theme for the dance, which will be held Oct. 24. The theme will be selected at today's meeting.

Committee chairmen, chosen Wednesday, are general secretary, Geri Porritt; programs, Anne Hill it except when the Race was very low, the Race level could be kept up.

The University has plans at present to put in a park in the area on the Millrace across from the physical plant. J. O. Lindstrom, University business manager, has a $5000 fund for such a park and grading is being done in this area now. A sidewalk is also to be put in above the area on the highway. Shrubbery will be planted on both sides of the Millrace.

Ebbighausen outlined the reasons for the disintegration of the once fast stream into the present state of flow which allows a complete change of water only every 24 hours. The Millrace was first damaged in 1941 when the diversion dam was damaged. But the real change came with the building of the new highway and slowing of the lower end in 1946.

Bonds May Be Sold

A Millrace park development committee three years ago collected $20,000 to restore the stream. This was spent in getting water back into the Millrace. The Eugene city council is empowered to sell bonds equal to the amount collected and spent, but has not

Workshop Drama Series To Open

"The Wind and the Wall," first in the Radio Workshop drama series produced by the University of Oregon speech department, will be broadcast today on the University hour over KOAC at 4:30 p.m.

Cast for the drama includes Doug Stobie as the wall; Mary Wilson, Sarah, Jay Roper, Eben; Larry Swanson, Thomas; Russ Cowell, the doctor; Helene Robertson, Lydia; Ken Olsen, John; George Wasson, the man; Laura Harper, the woman, and John Hickoz, the agent. Directing the show will be Paul McMullen while sound effects will be handled by Pete Wooley, Ken Whittle will be engineer.

In addition to the drama, the University hour will also include a campus interview and the Spencer Snow show. A rebroadcast of the show will be used on KWAX tonight at 7.

Oct. 19 Deadline Set for Med Test

All pre-med students who plan to enter medical school must apply for the medical college admission test by Oct. 19, according to A. H. Kinz, head of the chemistry department.

The test, which is required by all medical schools belonging to the Association of American Medical colleges, will be given only once this year, on Nov. 2.

done so yet, because of the uncertainty as to what could be done.

The Millrace has been cleaned by students, the last project of this nature taking place last spring. The city was to have taken care of cleaning out the entrance on the river. When informed that it had not been done, Mayor V. E. Johnson was quite surprised.

Recommends Committee

Another inspection trip of the Millrace was to have been taken during the past week by Mayor Johnson, City Manager Robert Finlayson, University Physical Plant Supt. I. I. Wright and others. A report on their findings will be forthcoming.

Ebbighausen recommended to the senate that a committee be appointed to meet with city officials to continue study of the problem.

Barnett Explains Micronesian Problem in Evening Lecture

"We do have a responsibility to the Micronesian people, and I personally don't think we're pulling it off well," stated Homer Barnett, professor of anthropology, as he lectured last night in the Browning room and presented slides of the work of the United States in an area in the Pacific known as the Trust Territory of the United Nations.

The duties of those in the administration, pointed out Barnett, are to promote economic welfare, advance education, protect health and develop political institutions for the Micronesian peoples. The difficulties of such undertakings, due to the diversities in culture which range from very primitive societies to those influenced by Japanese and American ideologies, were explained by Barnett.

ROTC Revises Officer Count

This month the ROTC department will launch new junior and senior programs which have been revised to conform with the overall plans to reduce officer strength. The revised programs were made necessary by new budgetary limits, Sixth Army headquarters announced.

Although the necessary modifications are not expected to change the program to any great extent, the majority of the adjustments will concern the seniors.

Enrollments in the junior program are limited by the established quotas for each military district. Plans are being set to accommodate approximately 90 per cent of last year's enrollment. Prospective enrollees in the class of 1955 have been warned, however, of the possibility that not all Army ROTC graduates may be offered commissions.

In addition to this no definite assurance can be given a graduate that he will be commissioned in the branch of his chosen study.

Members of the 1954 graduating class have been instructed that every effort will be made to grant commissions. If the quota establishment deems this impossible they will be awarded certificates of completion upon finishing the course.

No official word has been received as yet as to how these revisions will affect those enrolled in the advanced Army program on this campus. Definite information on quotas will be made available later this term.

'TWO BITS OR MORE'

UO Drive Enters Next to Last Day

The Community Chest drive on the University of Oregon campus is now in its next to last day. Friday the representatives are asked to turn in their total collections to Mrs. Donna Overen, secretary of public services, in the president's office, Johnson hall.

Oregon's contribution to the Lane County Chest budget of $208,000 has been designated as $500, according to Chairman Janet Wick. However, if every student on the campus were to follow this year's slogan, "Two Bits or More for '54," the total would come to $1000 said Miss Wick.

A prize award is being offered to both the men's and women's organization who contribute the most per capita. A representative has been selected from each living organization.

Representatives are: Alpha Tau Omega, Jerry Hamilton; Beta Theta Pi, Doyle Higdon; Chi Psi, Pete Wooley; Delta Tau Delta, Len Overholser; Delta Upsilon, Bruce Blackledge; Kappa Sigma, Bob Haat; Lambda Chi Alpha, Jack Lally; Phi Kappa Psi, Bob Maier; Phi Kappa Sigma, Dave Karr; Phi Sigma Kappa, Al Deal; Pi Kappa Alpha, Roger Steeds; Pi Kappa Phi, Gene Murphy.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Earl Culbertson; Sigma Alpha Mu, Don Bonime; Sigma Chi, Andy Nasburg; Sigma Nu, Navarre Davis; Sigma Phi Epsilon, Pat Henry; Tau Kappa Epsilon, Yogi Marasushima; Theta Chi, Dean McMullen; Campbell Club, Sam Vahey; Philadelphia House, Don Jacobs.

Alpha Chi Omega, Lucia Knepper; Alpha Delta Pi, Barbara Johnson; Alpha Gamma Delta, Gail West; Alpha Omicron Pi, June Browning; Alpha Phi, Patty Teal; Alpha Xi Delta, Jo Kopp; Chi Omega, Becky Fortt; Delta Delta Delta, Marilyn Parrish; Delta Gamma, Geri Porritt; Delta Zeta, Judy Johnson; Gamma Phi Beta, Lyn Perkins; Kappa Alpha Theta, Paula Teal; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Jill Hutchins.

Pi Beta Phi, Bev Jones; Sigma Kappa, Anne Hill; Zeta Tau Alpha, Mary Sweeney; Carson Hall, Dorothy Iler; Hendricks, Barbara Wilcox; Ann Judson, Jean Sandine; Highland house, Sonia Edwards; Rebec house, Sally Cummins; University house, Phyllis Pearson; Orides, Germaine LaMarche, and Hendricks Annex, Jo Zennedev.

Those students living off campus and who wish to contribute to the campus Community Chest fund will find boxes for contributions in the Co-op and the Student Union.

DU Building Begins With Strikes Ends

Eugene's two week building shutdown ended Wednesday with only brick masons still off the job. Work was resumed on the Delta Upsilon house, 1880 Potter st., Tuesday. The DU's expect to move in on Oct. 18, barring further work stoppage.

Members of 18 other building trades returned to their jobs at the invitation of employers, whose spokesman, Pat Blair, said public inconvenience did not warrant continuing the shut down.

The shutdown began Sept. 28 when masons and employers were unable to negotiate differences over a new contract.

No Senate Meeting

There will be no ASUO senate meeting tonight, according to Tom Wrightson, ASUO president. The next regular meeting will be next Thursday night, Wrightson said.

Press Conference Scheduled For High School Journalists

Plans for the 27th annual Oregon High School Press conference, sponsored by the Oregon Scholastic Press, are now being made by the school of journalism.

The conference will be held Oct. 23 and 24. Approximately 500 high school journalists from all over Oregon are expected to attend. The tentative program includes assemblies, roundtables, breakfast, luncheon, a candlelight banquet and attendance at a football game.

Featured as speakers for the conference will be Sister Mary

Gilbert, author of "Springs of Silence;" Robert B. Frazier, reporter for the Eugene Register-Guard; Anita Holmes, 1951 graduate of the school of journalism; Harry C. McClain, advertising director of the Oregon Journal; Gordon A. Sabine, dean of the school of journalism; Victor P. Morris, acting president of the University, and Milton Bell of Portland.

Both the Oregon Daily Emerald and the Oregana staffs will meet on Oct. 23 with the high school journalists to show them how college publications are operated.
