

NON SNUGGLE

'Stubble Stomp' Is Whiskerino Theme

"Stubble Stomp" has been selected as the theme of the annual Sophomore Whiskerino, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 24, according to Sam Vahey and Jim Duncan, general co-chairmen.

The traditional two weeks of five o'clock shadow will start Sunday night, report Dick Gray and Phyllis Pearson, co-chairmen of the beard growth contest. No sophomore men are to shave between midnight Sunday and the date of the dance. Miss Pearson urges that men's living organizations enforce the beard growing within their respective groups.

Freshmen women will check the growths and report violators during the evening meal Wednesday, related Gray. Members of Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's service honorary, will also be checking for violators.

A list of those sophomores who shave during the two week period will be printed in the Emerald. The culprits will be tubbed in Fenton pool by members of Skull and Dagger.

Beards will be checked for originality and neatness. Prizes will be awarded to the first, second, and third place winners during the intermission of the dance. Last year's winners were Trent Huls, first; Rod Inman, second and Milan Foster, third.

Living organizations are to submit the names of their candidates for the Joe College-Betty Co-ed contest by 5 p.m. Tuesday to Bob McCracken at Alpha Tau Omega or to Marilyn Parrish at Delta Delta Delta.

Men's living organizations are to nominate a sophomore man and women's living organizations are to submit the name of a sophomore woman. Residents of women's dormitories are to nominate a candidate for Joe College and those living in men's dormitories are to select a sophomore woman for Betty Co-ed.

First interviews of the candidates will be at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Union, according to McCracken. Campus clothes will be in order.

The candidates will be judged on a basis of personality, appearance, and campus interest by a board of judges composed of townspeople, faculty members and students.

Last year's Betty Co-ed was Gloria Lee, junior in liberal arts. Alex Byler, junior in political science, was Joe College. They were selected by vote at the Whiskerino.

Oregana Sets Make-up Times

All members of sororities who were unable to having living organization pictures taken at Kennel-Ellis during the specified times during the week may do so Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, Janet Bell, living organizations editor, has announced.

Highland house is also scheduled to have organization pictures taken this morning. Members of this organization may also go down this afternoon, if unable to do so this morning, Miss Bell said.

All boarders are to have pictures taken with the houses where they are now living, Miss Bell said. If they pledge other houses, or move to some other living organization next term, their pictures will be placed on these pages accordingly, Miss Bell explained.

Program Highlighted By Schumann Group

The Walter Schumann Choral group, over 20 specially picked and trained voices, plays an important role as a "fourth character" in the forthcoming Civic music presentation, "John Brown's Body," to be given Monday, Oct. 19, in McArthur court.

New Dates Set For Jr. Weekend

Junior Weekend and its co-partner, Mother's Day, will be held May 14, 15 and 16 this year instead of the originally scheduled dates of May 7, 8 and 9, the Student Affairs committee decided Thursday.

Two major factors influenced the committee to change the dates. The All-Campus Sing can not be held in McArthur court this year, because the building will be undergoing remodeling in preparation for the increased seating capacity which is scheduled for the 1954-55 basketball season.

Because of this, the Sing may be held on Hayward field, according to Ray Hawk, director of men's affairs and member of the committee. The later dates may also afford better weather for the weekend, Hawk said.

"Breather" Granted

The second big factor in the committee's decision was that the later date will give the campus a three-week "breather" between Duck Preview weekend and Junior Weekend. Many students thought that this was very desirable, Hawk said.

Request for the change of date came from the executive council of the Oregon Mother's club. They objected because the original dates coincided with National Mother's day, and many felt that they should spend the day at home, rather than on campus.

Hawk stressed the point that the committee's decision was not intended as a "precedent shattering move." In recent years, Junior Weekend and Mother's day have been concurrent with the National Mother's day, Hawk said. Moving the dates does not mean that the change will be permanent, he said.

Schedule Changed

In other action taken at the meeting, the committee granted the University theater's request that they be allowed to present plays on the nights of the sophomore Whiskerino and the Senior ball. Previously, the committee had declared the dates reserved especially for the two dances, and no other activities could be scheduled for those nights.

Roy McCall, head of the speech department, told the committee that the theater would not conflict with the dances as the shows will attract mostly townspeople on those nights, with students being able to see the plays on other production dates.

The committee also passed a resolution concerning the funds of now defunct campus organizations. They voted to recommend to the University president that the money of the dead organizations be turned over to the fund for scholarships and financial aid.

Phi Theta, Kwama Tap New Pledges

Five women were tapped Thursday night by Kwama and Phi Theta Upsilon, sophomore and junior women's honoraries.

Mrs. Golda Wickham, director of women's affairs, Valerie Cowlis, and Jean Owens were selected by Kwama. New Phi Thetas are Ann Hopkins and Jean Piercy.

Woman to Receive Theta Sig Award

A "Woman of Achievement" selected from the University students will be honored by Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism honorary, at their annual Matrix table, Oct. 20. An outstanding Eugene woman will also be honored by the group.

Speaker at the annual dinner which honors women in journalism and letters will be Sister Mary Gilbert, an instructor in journalism at Holy Name college, Spokane, Wash. Sister Mary Gilbert attended Oregon as both an undergraduate and as a graduate student.

She is the author of "The Springs of Silence," an autobiography in which she includes a chapter on her experiences on campus. Several autographing parties are being planned for her. Reservations for the Matrix table may be made at the school of journalism, according to Kitty Fraser, president of the sponsoring organization. The cost will be $3.50.

IFC Chops Annual Party for Children

The Inter-fraternity council decided Thursday night to cancel its annual Halloween party for Eugene children. IFC members felt that the party could not receive the necessary attention because of the USC football game in Portland that weekend.

Pres. Con Sheffer appointed Ted Rubenstein, Alex Byler and Alan Oppliger as a policy-forming committee for the Western Regional Inter-fraternity conference meeting at Oregon State college Oct. 22 to 24. The University of Oregon IFC will serve as co-hosts at the meeting.

A meeting of dormitory counselors, fraternity presidents and pledge trainers has been scheduled for Oct. 15, at Straub hall to coordinate study programs for freshman pledges. Director of Men's Affairs Ray Hawk told the council that the athletic department is sponsoring a tutoring program of its own, and that help tables sponsored by departments will often conflict with scheduled study-table hours for freshmen at the fraternity houses.

Buildings, Professors' Salaries Not Only Use of Student Fees

by Laura Sturges
Emerald Editorial Assistant

The $55 that University students pay for tuition each term goes for more than paying professors' salaries and putting up new buildings. These student fees also provide for a wealth of campus activities, including SU dances, concerts, lectures and the Emerald.

Each student pays $4.50 of his term's fees into the Student Union and educational activities fund, from which appropriations are doled out for various programs and boards. On the basis of an enrollment of 4000, the fund receives about $54,000 annually in activity fees.

Board Handles

Before the fall of 1949, the fees and activity programs were administered by an Educational Activities board, which was disbanded when the Student Union was built.

Activities formerly handled by the Educational Activities board were then placed under the jurisdiction of three new areas—the Publication board, the Student Union board and an SU director.

The Publications, or "Pub," board took over the advisory position to the university president for such campus publications as the Oregon Daily Emerald, the Oregana yearbook and the Piggers' Guide, the student directory. The board also interviews candidates for editor of the Ore-N-ter, an annual handbook for new students. A university committee makes the final selection of the handbook editor.

The Emerald now receives $9,275 as its annual share of the educational activities fund. (The campus daily was allotted only $1,800 in 1941.) The balance of publication costs of the paper must be met by the Emerald's advertising and subscriptions.

Others Self-supporting

No student fees go to the Oregana or Piggers' Guide, which are both self-supporting from advertising and sales. The Ore-N-ter is financed from other administrative funds.

Part of the activity fee enables university students to attend various concerts sponsored by the Eugene-University Civic Music association throughout the year. Also financed with student fees are the Tuesday assembly speakers, the forensics program in the speech department, and the University band, orchestra and choral groups.

Student government takes a portion of student fees to pay the salaries of the ASUO president and secretary, and to finance the ASUO Senate's projects, which this year include distribution of pamphlets to the freshmen explaining the honor code.

Board Allots Funds

A large part of the activity programs are presented through the SU board, which is allotted $3,000 a year from the fund. The board supplements this with income from the Sunday movies and two dances.

SU activities fall into one of ten committees. The art gallery group provides showings of the work of national, local and student artists. About six showings are featured each term.

On Friday evenings, university professors take the floor as guest speakers in the Browsing room

Harking back to ancient Greek drama, this chorus reappears on the modern stage to actually participate in the action. Always in view of the audience, the chorus provides dramatic musical accompaniment, chanting the battle songs of the Civil War and representing such sounds as flowing water, a storm, cannon and, in the end, the diapason of hammer, forge and lathe that mark the birth of the machine age.

In addition to selecting and training the chorus, Schumann also stands as composer and arranger for the entire choral score for "John Brown's Body." Into his own compositions he has woven such familiar melodies as "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Dixie," "Marching Through Georgia," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" and, of course, "John Brown's Body Lies A-Mouldering in the Grave."

the third floor of the Student Union by 5:00 p.m., Oct. 14.

Talent tryouts will be Oct. 14 and 15 at 7:30 in the Student Union ballroom. Oct. 14, the tryouts will be for specialty acts of all types; on the following night there will be auditions for the master of ceremonies as well as dance tryouts for men and women interested in production parts.

The show, which will travel winter term, is slated to go to OSC, some Portland high schools, and Eugene high school. Other trips will be scheduled if the funds hold out, said Miss Lee.
