

Laborite Featured Speaker On New Oregon Radio Forum

Victor Yates, head of the British Labour party, will be the featured panel member on the newly organized University of Oregon Radio forum. The program will be broadcast Monday evening at 8:30, over KOAC.

Monday's topic "As Britons See Us—Fact and Fancy," will be modulated by Alburey Castell, head of the department of philosophy, and will include such items as the Britons current trend of thought toward the United States, and the British criticisms of the American people.

Leona E. Tyer, associate professor of psychology; Charles R. Scheicher, professor of political science and E. L. Johnson, dean of the college of liberal arts in addition to Yates, will compose the panel.

This panel discussion is the second one in a series, modelled after the University of Chicago Roundtable discussions. Instrumental in starting this program at the University were Castell; Scheicher, Glenn Starlin, Charles Duncan, Robert Clark, W. J. Roberts and Donald Tope, all university professors.

The purpose of this panel has been outlined in a statement by Scheicher: "We regard this program as a means by which the University faculty can share with the people of Oregon their knowledge of current issues and problems confronting the American people."

Next week's program will have as its guest Max Lerner, columnist on the New York Post-Dispatch, and professor at Brandeis university, Waltham, Mass. The topic under discussion will be "How Do We Stand at Home" and will be modulated by R. D. Clark, assistant dean of the college of liberal arts.

Future topics will include "Oregon's New Labor Law," "Issues in American Education" and "Should Oregon Have a New Constitution."
