

Frosh Hoopsters To Hold Meeting

A meeting of all freshmen interested in turning out for frosh basketball will be held at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in McArthur court, according to Coach Don Kirsch. Kirsch has requested all freshmen who will turn out for basketball this year to attend the meeting, and to bring pencils.

Oregon Socks Spartan Team

(Please turn to page three) The Green Machine got its slipping clutch fixed and mercilessly drove to three scores inside an eight minute period. First, Shaw tallied from the 18 on a pitch out-end run optional play. Then, five minutes later, Dick James cracked off tackle for a 10 yard touchdown jaunt. Finally, with 30 seconds left, James again went through tackle from 12 yards out.

The Spartans vaulted to the lead early in the first quarter when Larry Matthews climaxed a 29 yards drive with a 10 yard run around right end. The winners came back, however, with a minute and a half left in the half, on a 38 yard pass play from Quarterback Barney Holland to Shaw, who had switched to the left end spot. Oregon failed to convert the extra point and the one spot margin looked awful big until the Ducks bombarded San Jose late in the last frame.

As most of the football writers have pointed out, Field General Shaw played an outstanding game. But we think, and we know that Mr. Shaw will agree, that the win was the result of a concerted effort by the whole squad.

In the second half, Oregon's line play was terrific. Spartan Coach Bob Bronzan said that the Oregon forward wall was the difference between the two clubs. Guards Jack Patera and Ken Sweitzer, in particular, received favorable comment from the losing mentor. Oregon Coach Casanova "amened" what Bronzan had said, and added that Tackle Hal Reeve turned in a top performance.

Spirit High

"Cas" praised the Oregon spirit, pointing out the fact that the Ducks had been behind for three periods, but kept hammering away until they finally broke past their opponents.

When the tired Webfoots filed into the dressing room after the game there was no shouting or wild cheering. The team had been assigned a job, and they had done it in a very efficient, business-like manner.

Oregon caught the San Jose defense completely off guard with a split "T" formation in the second half, and the visitors never did find a way to stop the crushing air and ground attack.

Competition was keen in the last quarter, and two players, Ron Pheister, Oregon, and Leon O'Neill, San Jose, got the thumb from the officials for personal fouls.

At Moscow, Idaho, the Oregon State Beavers were winning their first game and scoring their first points. The victims were the Idaho Vandals, 19-0.

The Oregon State win put the Beavers ahead of Oregon in the PCC standings, and dropped the Ducks into a tie with Idaho for the basement.
