Students Celebrate SC Victory with Rally

by Pat Gildea

Emerald Associate Editor

An outburst of Oregon spirit bewildered students, was cheered by professors and set the campus dogs in an uproar Monday when a student rally upset afternoon classes to celebrate the 13-7 football upset over USC.

"They'd all like to yell, but I don't think they know the yells," commented one bystander watching the milling crowd in front of Johnson hall.

No one seemed to know how or why the campus should "get the spirit" 46 hours after the victory. Professors seemed shocked when morning class attendance showed no more than the usual "after Portland week-end" drop. Some reported they didn't think any students would show up for classes Monday.

The adherence to schedule was all dismissed as typical Oregon apathy and the noon demonstration caught the campus by surprise.

Gathering in front of Johnson hall, after a snowball car parade originating from Phi Kappa Psi, Gamma Phi Beta and Sigma Nu houses, about 300 students were chanting yells at 12:40 p.m. Traffic on 13th, between Alder and University, was halted.

"No classes today," cheered the students at the empty administration offices. One lone janitor watched from the steps.

Students then jammed into parked cars for the next stop, the Eugene hotel, where the team and Duck club were lurching. About half of the cheering crowd, however, trudged off to 1 o'clock classes.

The campus settled down to its usual staid pace, many of the students having missed the cheering altogether.

Cries of "Storm the Bastille," and "No classes today" jolted classes as the cars returned to campus, glowing with the warm friendship from the townspeople.

Friendly, Commonwealth and Condon halls were cleared in a few minutes with clanging cowbells, blaring bugles and hoarse leaders heading the eager crowd.

Most teachers gave up with a smile. One of the diehards relented after five minutes of cheering outside the door. A few ignored the deafening shouts and went on lecturing. Some students just walked out of the classrooms, but most were content to stay, if the lecture continued. The choice was left to the students.

Once outside of the Co-op, the crowd of about 1000 seemed puzzled as to what to do with this "free time." Most were still wondering what it was all about.

Some worried about their two o'clock classes — one freshman ran to deliver his theme due at two, but he wasn't going to class. It was a coffee break for the less exuberant, extra study time for the more industrious.

The campus dogs, Waldo and Snowbelle, picked this moment to tear into each other for a rousing fight exhibiting much less restraint than the rally participants.

Then the magic word was passed along—picnic at Perkins Point. This settled the decision for about 350 students who piled into cars and deserted the campus for merrymaking and singing on the outskirts of Eugene.

Homecoming Theme Selected; Activities Listed for Weekend

"Alums and We, '76-'53" was selected as the official theme for the 1953 Homecoming at a meeting of the general chairmen Monday. Homecoming is scheduled for Nov. 20 to 22.

The theme was suggested by Paul Lasker, senior in education. All students were eligible to submit theme suggestions, and boxes to receive the suggestions had been placed in the Student Union and the Co-op all last week.

Members of the committee selected the theme following a half hour discussion of the some 40 suggestions received. Geri Porritt and Barbara Wilcox headed the theme selection committee.

Schedule of events for the Homecoming celebration has been announced by Dorothy Kopp and Bob Pollack, general co-chairmen of the event. The schedule is as follows:

Friday, Nov. 20
3 to 10 p.m.—Registration of

Gamma Phi Winner Of Red Cross Drive

Gamma Phi Beta won the Red Cross trophy presented to the house with the highest percentage of blood donors during the recent Red Cross blood drive on campus.

The drive as a whole fell short of its goal, according to Mrs. Joseph H. Jackson, head of the Lane county Red Cross. A total of 216 pints of blood was collected from 262 persons, 584 pints short of the goal of 800 pints.

A second Red Cross drive in which students may participate is scheduled for Nov. 23 at the Veteran's Memorial hospital in Eugene.

Float Winners To Get Cups

Individual first place cups will be awarded to each living organization on the winning Homecoming noise parade float, according to Walt White, parade chairman. The awards will be presented at the Variety Show, Nov. 20, at which time second and third place winners will also be announced.

Floats will be judged on sustained noise in the one block judging interval, 40 per cent; spirit of those on float and following, 30 per cent, and ingenuity and originality in noisemaking, 30 per cent.

The parade will form on 19th and University with the head of the parade at 19th, and will follow this route: West on 19th to Alder, north on Alder to 13th, east on 13th to University where floats will proceed singly past the Student Union, stopping before the judge's stand, and continue south on University to Mac court where the parade will end.

General rules are as follows: 1. Vehicles must be one single conveyance. Semi-trucks are permissible but not extra trailers. 2. The recognition number given to the floats at the time of the drawings for pairings, plus the names of the organizations must appear on both sides of the float. Five point penalty for each missing sign will be imposed. 3. The parade will start at 6 p.m. and will be over by 8 p.m.

AWS Will Auction Pledges Thursday

Three freshman sorority pledge classes will present entertainment and will be auctioned off to the highest bidder at the annual Associated Women Students' auction Thursday at 4 p.m. at the Student Union.

Tryouts for the women's pledge classes will be held Wednesday from 4 to 5 p.m. in the Student Union. The three to be auctioned off Thursday will be chosen then, according to Paula Curry, chairman of the auction.

Many other articles will also be presented for bidding, said Miss Curry. Money raised by the auction will be used for the AWS scholarship fund.

Frazier Talks To Press Club

Robert Frazier, Eugene Register-Guard reporter, will be the featured speaker at the second meeting of the newly-organized University press club tonight.

Organization of the club will be completed at the meeting, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union dads' building. This will include election of officers and distribution of press cards (at no charge).

Frazier will speak on the topic, "You Have to Know Something about Everything" (to be a newspaper reporter). He has recently returned from a year at Harvard on a Nieman fellowship. Frazier is one of the Register-Guard's top reporters; his articles have included a series on state institutions in Oregon and a recent series on the state's police systems.

Meetings of the press club, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, men's journalism fraternity and women's journalism honorary respectively, are open to all interested students. Free refreshments will be served.
