SU to Feature Linen Display

A linen exhibit by Joan Patterson will be shown in the Student Union art gallery from Nov. 15 to Dec. 5, according to Barbara Johnson, SU art gallery committee chairman.

Miss Patterson, professor in clothing, textiles and related arts at Oregon State college, has studied at the University of Oregon and has had her work exhibited on the West Coast and in Canada.

The exhibit will include large pieces of linen, small table mats, a large table cloth, a large floor rug and other smaller pieces along with some of the natural materials used.

This exhibit is now on display at the Memorial Union at Oregon State college, Miss Johnson said.

Faculty Meets Bank Official

Faculty members of the departments of economics and political science and the school of business administration will meet with Henry W. Riley, treasurer of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development at a luncheon Thursday.

Riley, on campus for three days, will address a class on money and banking this afternoon. His schedule also includes a seminar on money and banking Thursday afternoon, a seminar with the department of economics, also Thursday afternoon, and a session with the international economics class Friday morning.

Riley returned last spring from a European tour in behalf of the International Bank and will outline some of his experiences and observations before the classes.

Mixer Will Climax SU Anniversary

Climaxing the week of events honoring the third year of the Student Union building and the fourth year of the SU board will be the third annual birthday dance Friday night.

This informal, no-date fishbowl mixer will be from 9 to 12 p.m. and will feature the entertainment of Max Pierce and his accordion.

Freshman Officers Elected For YWCA

Officers of the four YWCA freshman commissions were elected last week, according to Eileen Lindblad, executive director.

Luann McClure is president of the public affairs committee, Carolyn Kaser is vice-president, Pamela Rabens, secretary and Olivia Thoraldson, chaplain. Hope Hologerson, Donna Mast and Camille Wold are junior advisers for the commission.

President of service commission is Cynthia Vincent. Marilyn Mount is vice president, Joanne Brandon is secretary-treasurer, Arlene Hardt is historian and Joann Woodruff is chaplain. Junior advisers are Carol Cross, Rosemary Hampton, Margie Harris and Bobbette Gilmore.

Sharon Gienger is president of the religion and workshop commission. Other officers are Sally Allen, vice president; Mary Geringer, secretary-treasurer; Margaret Tyler, chaplain, and Lois Reid and Donna Trebbe as junior advisers.

International affairs is headed by Sally Calkins, with Shirley Bostad as vice president, Marion McDowell as secretary-treasurer, and Geraldine Hofer as chaplain. Jerry Yager and Barbara Snyder are junior advisers.

Education Board Releases Movie

The State Board of Higher Education has released a semi-documentary motion picture in color with sound to interpret its instructional research and service programs to the public.

The film was produced by the department of visual instruction as a training experiment. Narrator for the production was Glenn Starlin, assistant to the president. The music, cast and settings were provided by students and faculties throughout the state system, including Oregon.

The board's division of information believes that the film is one of the first college productions in the nation not aimed at student recruitment or building alumni enthusiasm.

Showings of the film have already been scheduled by education classes, study groups and service clubs, the division of information reports. A preview of the final work print was held early in the term at Emerald hall.
