

Standing Committees Core of SU Activities

Organized under the perpetuation plan established in 1949 to work under the SU board in carrying out the work of the whole organization, the ten standing committees represent the core of student activities in every phase.

Art Gallery

The responsibility of the art gallery committee, headed by Barbara Jonson, is to maintain a continuous series of exhibitions in the mezzanine gallery of the student union.

Their aim is to bring to the University a fuller appreciation of classic and contemporary art in all its visual forms. This is done through the exhibits.

Every three weeks the committee gets actual practice in hanging the exhibits, which include exhibitions, of the work of both professional and student artists.

Browsing Room

The Browsing Room Committee, under Chairman John Wells, provides a regular program in the second-floor Browsing Room enables students and faculty to meet on an informal basis and discuss topics drawn from classic and contemporary cultures.

Lectures by various professors are presented under this program, and such events as last year's presentation of scenes from the University theater's "She Stoops to Conquer" are often featured.

Coffee Hour Forum

Chairman of this committee is Bob McCracken. He and his co-workers are responsible for the afternoon forums which present outstanding public personalities to the University students and faculty in an informal manner.

The forums are regularly held at 4 p. m. on Tuesdays, usually following assembly lectures. Such speakers as Wayne Morse, Roscoe Drummond and Mortimer Adler have been presented in the past year.

Dance

Furthering inter-campus relations through a common interest in dancing is the purpose of the dance committee, under its chairman Phyllis Pearson.

The Committee holds informal, no-date dances on Friday nights when there are no conflicting events. The dances are admission-free, and usually campus clothes are in order.

Special dances are held throughout the year, such as the Hello Dance, the Lemon-Orange Squeeze and the Duck Preview dance.

Movie

Educational and entertaining movies are brought to the campus by the SU movie committee, including ones that students have been unable to see in downtown Eugene.

Barbara Wilcox is chairman of this group, and plans for winter and spring terms include the showing of academy-award winning movies.

Other plans include the showing of educational movies spring term that have to do with early motion pictures before the days of sound.

Music

The music committee, under its chairman Dick Baranovitch presents diversified musical programs which draw upon student and faculty talent.

The events sponsored by the committee are intended to encourage active student-body participation. The "Friday at 4" programs are the work of this committee, as is the barbershop quartet contest.

Publicity

Ted Goh, publicity chairman, and his committee are responsible for informing the student body through the Emerald and other media of the activities of the Student Union.

The group keeps a permanent record of activities in scrapbook form as one of its duties.

Recorded Music

The recorded music committee provides a regular series of music listening programs, has charge of the Peter Howard listening room and the record-lending library.

Martha Spatz and her committee members take care of the record collection and arrange for approximately three lecture-concerts each term.

Personnel

The job of the personnel committee, under John Shaffer's general chairmanship, is to interest, orient and place students in the SU program.

Selection of committee members is based upon interviews and records of past work. The personnel committee removes committee members whose work is not of acceptable quality and keeps a complete file of SU personnel.

Public Relations

The public relations committee, directed by Sonia Edwards, acts as the official host of the SU board and offers suggestions for improvement and development of specific areas in the building.

The official hospitality girls work in conjunction with this committee, and a chatter sheet is published monthly by committee members for distribution to all the dorms and houses on campus.
