

Homecoming Sign Rules Announced

"Bigger and better signs will be stressed for this year's Homecoming sign contest," said Ann Gerlinger and Ann Bankhead, co-chairmen of the contest. The co-chairmen also stated that the living organizations should be able to put more effort into their signs since there will be no decorations for the noise parade.

Signs will be judged on adherence to the central theme, effort, impressiveness and originality. Lights, moving parts and music will also be considered by the judging committee of townspeople and faculty members.

Awards for the contest will be given during intermission at the Homecoming dance. Men's and women's living organizations will be judged in separate classes. First place winners in each class will receive rotating trophies. The second and third prizes will be donated by downtown merchants. Delta Tau Delta and Delta Delta Delta won the first place trophies last year.

Rules and limitations for the contest are as follows:

1. A price limit of $35 is to be spent on the sign of each organization. This amount is not to be exceeded.

2. The signs must be constructed and finished by 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 20.

3. Judging will take place between 7 and 8:30 p.m. Nov. 20.

4. A financial statement must be turned into one of the sign contest co-chairmen by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 18.

5. A plan of the sign must be turned in by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 18, to one of the contest co-chairmen at Kappa Alpha Theta.

Members of the contest committee will meet Thursday at 4 p.m. in the Student Union.

TKE's, Not Fijis, Robbed of $120 Sunday Morning

Tau Kappa Epsilon was burglarized early Sunday, not Phi Gamma Delta as the police reported Sunday. The Teke's are residing in the old Fiji house which gave rise to the error. Teke president, Forrest Easton, said $120 in currency was taken from his house between 3 and 4 a.m.

Two additional houses were burglarized early Sunday morning according to reports received by the Emerald Monday evening. The Eugene police reported Sunday that Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Chi and Delta Zeta were entered over the weekend.

Newest on the list are Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Norman Cobb, Phi Delt house manager, reported that $65 in currency was removed from the house sometime between 4:30 and 8 a.m. Sunday. The report was not filed with the police until Sunday evening.

Also missing at Phi Delt were some tools which were believed to have been left in a car. Cobb said that all doors in the house were unlocked and that the money taken was left in the rooms. The rooms in which men were sleeping were not bothered.

The entrance at Sigma Alpha Epsilon was not reported to the police, Bob Brittain, president, related Monday. The house was entered sometime early Sunday morning and approximately $25 was stolen.

Eugene police are still investigating the burglaries, but no new developments have been reported on the cases, according to Ted Brown, Eugene police chief.

Events Urged

All campus living organizations have been urged to sponsor an open house following the Homecoming game with Oregon State college Saturday afternoon, Nov. 15.

Judges Name Six Finalists

Six finalists for Homecoming queen were selected last night by a committee of judges composed of students, faculty members and Eugene citizens. The queen will be selected from the six finalists in an all-campus election.

Finalists for the title, listed with their sponsoring organizations, are:

Ann Gerlinger, Kappa Alpha Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu, Susan Campbell hail and Kappa Sigma; Mary Cosart, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Phi Epsilon; Sylvia Wingard, Lambda Chi Alpha; Janet Miller, Alpha Tau Omega; Nancy Randolph, Chi Psi and Florence Wright, Beta Theta Pi.

Semi-finalists for titles also included Mary Jo Carlson, Beverly Kreick, Helen Gershanoff, Jean Paulus, Patty Weitzman and Anne Steiner.

HC Dance Attire Is Short Silks, Suits

Attire for the Homecoming dance, Nov. 21, will be short silks for women and suits for men, states Bob McCracken, dance committee chairman. Flowers will be optional.

The dance is scheduled for the Student Union ballroom and will feature Dick Schwary and his band.

Speech Squad Meets Tonight

The University speech squad will divide into two groups—symposium and debate, for its regular meeting tonight at 7:30 in Villard 205, according to Herman Cohen, instructor in speech and faculty coach for the squad.

The debate squad is currently preparing for its first competitive tournaments of the year. Two or three University debate teams will travel to Pullman, Wash., for the Northwest Regional Tournament Nov. 20 and 21. Another section of the team will be in Fresno, Calif., Nov. 23, 24, 25 and 26 for the annual Western Speech association tournament.

Symposium speakers, who tour the state speaking before fraternal, civic and educational groups during winter and spring term, will start work tonight on two discussion topics—improvement of Congressional investigations and the role of a university in a democratic society.

D. Maulding, Sanders Have 'Juno' Leads

Donna Maulding, junior in speech, and Phil Sanders, senior in speech, have been cast as Juno and Captain Boyle in the University theater's forthcoming production of "Juno and the Paycock," according to Frederick J. Hunter, instructor in speech, who will direct the Irish drama.

This sample of Sean O'Casey's work will open on campus Dec. 4 and play Dec. 5, 7, 8, 9 and 10.

Other members of the cast include Scott Lehner, sophomore in speech, as Joxer Daly, a buddy of Boyle's; Phyllis Johnson, freshman in liberal arts and Ken Olsen, graduate in education, who will portray Mary and Johnny, children of Juno and Boyle.

Jerry Devine and Charles Bentham, suitors of Mary, will be played by John Jensen, junior in speech, and Don Van Boskirk, senior in speech. Floy Louise von Groenewald, junior in speech, will portray Mrs. Maddigan, a neighbor.

Needle Nugent, a tailor, will be played by John Buchanan, freshman in liberal arts; Mrs. Tancred by Barbara Nyberg, freshman in liberal arts; two mobilizers by Bill Hazen, freshman in liberal arts and Samuel Frear, junior in liberal arts.

Two furniture movers will be portrayed by Don Finlay, freshman in liberal arts and Russell Cowell, sophomore in speech. Two neighbors will be played by Janie Moore, junior in speech, and Ula Mae Hostetler, freshman in liberal arts.

IR Club Meeting Features Dull

The International Relations club will hold its first meeting of the year tonight at 8 in the Student Union.

Co-sponsored this month by IRC and Pi Sigma Alpha, political science honorary, the meeting will feature a panel discussion by Paul S. Dull, associate professor of political science and history, and Ivan G. Nagy, assistant professor of political science.

They will speak on "America— as Europe and Asia Sees Us"; afterwards the discussion will be open to questions and comments from the audience.

Bob Maffin, IRC president, has urged all interested persons to attend. The meetings are open to any student or Eugene resident, Maffin stressed. Monthly meetings are planned featuring panels, debates, and speakers on world affairs.

Soph Honors Test Schedule Told

A schedule for students who are planning to take the fall term comprehensive examinations for sophomore honors has been announced by Hoyt Trowbridge, professor of English.

PLANTS, PLANTS . . .

Herbarium Has 100,000 Species

by Gordon Rice
Emerald Assistant News Editor

The largest collection of plant specimens in Oregon is within 150 yards of the Student Union, and only a handful of people know that it exists.

The University of Oregon herbarium contains some 100,000 mounted and unmounted plant specimens in its cabinets. Although not as large as the herbaria at Stanford, the University of California, or the University of Washington, it contains several thousand more specimens than those at either Oregon State college or Willamette university.

Five double rows of cabinets containing mounted specimens nearly fill the southern end of the architecture annex, where the herbarium is located. Another cabinet of unmounted specimens is placed along one wall.

The plant specimens, all dried and mounted in looseleaf fashion in large folders, are placed inside the cabinets. Each looseleaf sheet contains a plate with the name of the specimen, where it was found and by whom, and the date of collection.

Most of the specimens for the exchanges have been received through exchanges with other herbaria throughout the country. When the curator of one of the herbaria goes out on a collecting trip, he gathers more samples than his institution can use, and exchanges them. Others have been added on bequests from private collections.

The man in charge of this collection is LeRoy Detling, curator of the herbarium, who has been at Oregon since 1936. He did his undergraduate work here, receiving his bachelor's degree in languages in 1921. He then shifted his interest to botany and did his undergraduate and graduate work at Stanford, receiving his doctorate there in 1936.

Detling goes on at least one collecting trip every summer. He spent part of last summer in the Olympic Mountains of Washington.

In previous years he has visited the Siskiyou mountains, the Columbia Gorge area, and several areas in eastern Oregon. Several years ago he made an extensive field trip into the Rocky mountains.

The University herbarium got its start early in the 1910's when the private collection of Thomas Howell, an amateur Portland botanist, was bequeathed to the University. The collection was housed first in Deady hall, and then moved to Friendly hall in 1928. About 1932 it was moved again, this time to Condon hall, where it remained until 1952 when it was shifted to its present location in the architecture annex.

Much of the Howell collection, which is still available at the herbarium, was original material which had never been discovered or classified before.

the finalists on a basis of appearance and enthusiasm. Serving on the first panel were Tom Wrightson, ASUO president; Miss Virginia Kempston, counselor for women; J. Spencer Carlson, director of admissions; Mrs. Clyde Blackwell, vice president of Oregon Mothers and Edwin Harman, mayor of Eugene.

On the second panel were Bill Carey, a past ASUO president; Jim Duncan, sophomore class president; Ray Hawk, associate director of student affairs; Victor P. Morris, acting president of the University, Mrs. Bill Russell and Mrs. William Gamble of Eugene. Both boards of judges served last night.

While photographs were being taken of the six women, Emerald Reporter Liz Kubin obtained the following interviews:

MARY COSART

Mary Cosart, Kappa Kappa Gamma, also of Oswego, Ore., is the third Lincoln high graduate on the Homecoming court. Miss Cosart, a junior in business, is originally from Detroit, Mich.

She was a life guard at the Lake Oswego country club for two summers. Besides swimming, she enjoys roller skating and collects records.

Miss Cosart is working as a model in the art school and assists her stenography professor in grading papers.

ANN GERLINGER

Blonde Ann Gerlinger, Kappa Alpha Theta, appeared in an all black velvet dress for the final interviews. She stated that she felt it a great honor to be selected for the Homecoming court.

Miss Gerlinger is currently serving as co-chairman of the Homecoming sign contest and is scholarship chairman of her sorority.

Her home is in Dallas, Ore. She graduated from Dallas high school. Miss Gerlinger, a junior in business, is engaged to Ron Lyman, Alpha Tau Omega.

JANET MILLER

Janet Miller, charming brunette Kappa Kappa Gamma, is a junior in elementary education. She hopes to teach the third, fourth or fifth grade someday.

Miss Miller enjoys swimming and horseback riding and also draws and plays the piano. She is treasurer of her sorority, and has had experience with children as a counselor at Camp Namanu near Portland.

NANCY RANDOLPH

Tall, stately, red-haired Nancy Randolph, Kappa Kappa Gamma, is a graduate of Lincoln high school in Portland. She was a Rose Festival princess in 1951.

Miss Randolph is a junior in radio, and plans to do work in program co-ordination after graduation. She sings on her own radio show for KWAX, "The Nancy Randolph Show," and has sung in several exchange assemblies.

Her home is in Oswego, Ore., where she has ample opportunity to participate in her favorite sports—swimming and horseback riding.

SYLVIA WINGARD

Pert Sylvia Wingard, Alpha Phi, lives in Eugene. Miss Wingard, junior in business administration, is a graduate of Lakeview high school in Lakeview, Ore., and she wants to go abroad.

Miss Wingard is a member of the Student court, associate editor of the Oregonian, public affairs chairman of the YWCA, past president of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshmen women's scholastic honorary.

FLORENCE WRIGHT

Petite, dark haired Florence Wright Kappa Alpha Theta, dressed in dark red velvet, appeared very excited during her interview.

Miss Wright is also a graduate of Lincoln high school in Portland.

A junior in primary education, Miss Wright has worked on the Kiddy Carnival, sponsored by the Associated Women Students. She would like to teach the third or the fourth grade after graduation.
