

Ducks Invade California, Out For 4th Victory

The University of Oregon football team departed by train, Thursday evening, for Berkeley, California and their next to last game of the current season against California's Golden Bears.

The Ducks, who now boast the longest Oregon winning streak in many seasons, will be out to add their fourth straight victory when they tramp onto the turf of spacious Memorial Stadium, Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p. m.

The Webfoots will definitely have their hands full if they are to come out on top in their battle with Pappy Waldorf's talented eleven. The Bears, although their record this year is rather spotty, have shown flashes of greatness when they were clicking.

Bears Tough

Against Pennsylvania, one of the strongest teams in the East, Waldorf's lads romped to an easy 40-0 win. Even a better example of California strength was demonstrated last Saturday when the Bears walked all over a good Washington Husky squad by the lop-sided score of 53-25.

On the other hand when the Californians are having a bad day they just hit rock bottom. The Bears were anything but great when they fell to Baylor, 25-0, and to USC, 32-20.

From the looks of this record it appears that if the Bears are in the winning mood Oregon will have plenty of trouble coming out the victor.

Webfoots Improve

Coach Len Casanova's Ducks have been much more consistent than California in their past games and in their last three encounters have shown a marked improvement in their style of play. Last week the Oregons had little trouble in pasting Idaho, 25-6.

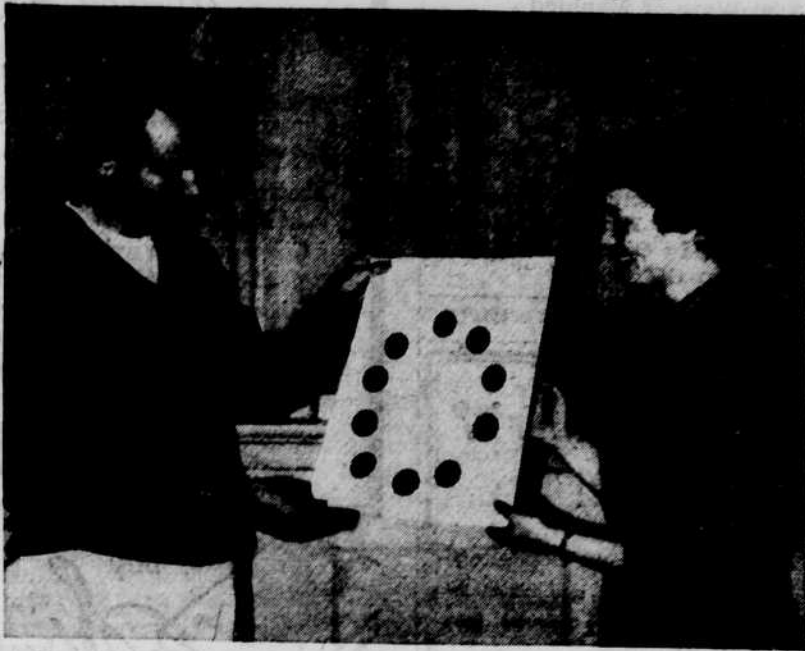

Saturday's tussle is rated as a toss-up. Many of the experts are giving the Bears a slight edge because of the fact that they are playing on their home field.

Larson vs. Shaw

The game should produce plenty of thrills for spectators with two of the best quarterbacks on the Pacific coast playing opposite each other. Paul Larson has broken just about every passing record in the books for California players and will probably continue to fill the air with footballs against the Ducks. Oregon's pass defense, best on the Pacific Coast, is sure to get a supreme test this

Button Sales

A display of Homecoming buttons has caught the attention of committee members Janet Wick, general secretary, and Bob Pollack, general co-chairman. In charge of button sales, which start on campus today, is Milan Foster, finance chairman.

Homecoming Button Sales Are Underway

Green - and - yellow "Beat the Beavers" buttons will go on sale today in the Co-op and the Student Union at the special student price of 10 cents. The Homecoming buttons will also be sold with flying speeches in the campus living organizations today and Monday.

A total sales goal of 5000 buttons has been set for the professionally-designed buttons. Of this number, 2,000 are to be sold on campus, 1500 downtown, 500 to service clubs, 400 to public schools and the remainder during alumnae registration.

In charge of the sales are Milan Foster, Homecoming finance chairman and Gary West, assistant chairman. Co-chairmen of the campus drive are Jean Piercy and Donna Anderson. In charge of downtown sales is Jane Bergstrom. Sales at the service clubs will be handled by the members of Druids, junior men's honorary, under the chairmanship of Pete

Rally Set Sunday

A snowball rally will welcome the Oregon Duck team on its return from the University of California game, according to Al Goldenberg, rally board chairman. The rally will start at 8:45 p. m. Sunday at the Southern Pacific depot.

Stovall Slates Slide Program

James C. Stovall, assistant professor of geography, will give a slide program, "Scenic Highlights of the Oregon Country," at this week's Friday evening coffee hour at 7:45 p. m. in the browsing room of the Student Union.

Following the slides, coffee will be served and a discussion period held.

Stovall, who has been at Oregon since 1934, believes in knowing at first hand the places he teaches about. He has spent many of his vacations during the past fifteen years on trips to many parts of Oregon and the Northwest.

He says he has no favorite spot, but takes his camera everywhere to add the value of immediacy to his classes in geography of the Pacific Northwest and introductory geography.

Friday at 4 Features Singers, Combo Today

Featured on today's Friday at 4 program will be Barbara Williams, last week's winner, the Sigma Nu combo and Audrey Mistretta, vocalist. Pat Koepfel will be the master of ceremonies.

Today's winner will appear on the next program. After a contestant has won twice, he does not appear again until the final program in the series. To date, only Pat Viles, vocalist, has won twice.

Williams. Sales in Springfield are under the direction of Phil Lynch. Bud Hinkson is responsible for public schools sales.

HC Queen Finalists Will Lead Parade

A car parade featuring the Homecoming queen finalists and Homecoming co-chairmen Dorothy Kopp and Bob Pollack, will be held downtown Saturday morning at 10:30 to promote next weekend's events.

The queen finalists will head the parade with cars advertising each event following. The parade will form at Fourth and Willamette streets proceeding down Willamette to Thirteenth then going out to the campus.

Students with cars are urged to participate in the parade and should be at Fourth and Willamette by 10 a. m. Saturday.

Dorm Pictures Set Monday

Alpha and Sigma halls will have Oregon living organization pictures taken Monday from 9 a. m. to 5:15 p. m. at Kennell-Ellis, Janet Bell, living organizations editor, announced. Dress is suits and ties.

Only Eugene freshman pledges of fraternities who are living in dormitories or off-campus may check their fraternity as their living organization. They will appear on the fraternity page as Eugene freshmen, the same policy which is used for sororities, Miss Bell said.

All other dormitory students and pledges of fraternities must check their dormitory page as their living organization, and will appear on this page, explained Miss Bell.

Fraternity makeups will continue all day today and also Saturday morning at Kennell-Ellis. Miss Bell urges all fraternity members to have pictures taken now, so the dormitory schedule will not be interrupted by excessive makeups.

Susan Campbell hall will have pictures taken Tuesday from 9 a. m. to 5:15 p. m.

ASUO Senate Hears Reports

Reports on Homecoming, the rally board, freshman elections, the Oregon "O," the Millrace and the coming Oregon Federation of College Leaders conference occupied the ASUO senate during its meeting Thursday night.

A Homecoming progress report was presented by Co-chairman Bob Pollack before the senate was officially called to order. Lack of a quorum prevented the group from convening until 6:50 p. m.

"O" To Be Fixed

The senate voted to favor a bonfire during Homecoming on the physical education field, following a motion by Hollis Ransom. Pollack had said that there was no place to hold the traditional bonfire. Pollack was instructed to talk with athletic department officials and possibly work out some solution.

Freshman class Pres. Don Smith told of the plans for the fixing of the "O" Saturday morning. The freshmen will begin at 8 a. m. Saturday to build a new "O" and also tear up the old one with a jackhammer loaned from the physical plant.

Balance Reported

The rally board reported a balance of $200 for the remainder of the year and announced plans for a Sunday night welcoming rally. (Please turn to page two)

Weber Clarifies Position of Court

University authorities told J. Kelly Farris that he would not have his two-dollar traffic fine deducted from his breakage fee without being notified, but it is doubtful that they definitely said he will not have to pay his fine, Student Court Chairman Carl Weber said Thursday night.

Repeating his disagreement with Farris, originally stated in court session Wednesday night, Weber emphasized that there may be some misunderstanding, but that he doesn't think Farris was assured that the fine would be waived, as Farris stated Wednesday night.

Farris, senior in law, who disputed on Oct. 21 the court's legal right to fine him for a traffic offense, was that night fined two dollars, one for illegal parking in the Johnson hall lot, and one for not having a student parking sticker displayed on his car. He refused to pay the fine, and his case was referred to the office of student affairs as a disciplinary matter, as is the pattern for all cases appealed from the court.

Legality Defended

Wednesday night Farris, attempting to speak for 14 students who he said have asked him to represent them, was told that he could not do so, although students could have counsel in court, provided that they speak for themselves.

Weber also defended the legality of the court Wednesday night on the grounds that the court is acting on the power granted to it by the student-faculty discipline committee, a committee of the faculty, and by the ASUO Senate. The University discipline power is granted to the faculty by the state legislature, Weber stated, and is further delegated to the committee and then to the court.

Code Quoted

As such, Weber pointed out, the student court is not really a court but an administrative agent of the discipline committee, and, through that group, of the faculty. Farris challenged the legality of the court to act in place of the faculty on disciplinary matters.

Quoting the Oregon Code of Laws, Annotated, Farris said that the University's disciplinary power is delegated for "immediate" use to the Oregon faculty by the state legislature. Quoting decisions which he said referred to this use of the term "immediate" Farris said that the term meant "without intervention."

Position Clarified

In other words, he said, the faculty's disciplinary power cannot be further delegated; it must be exercised upon the student directly by the faculty.

After court session Wednesday night, Farris told the Emerald that the court, through the state board of higher education, could clarify its position by asking the opinion of the state attorney general as to the legality of its function, but that he, as a private citizen, could not do so.

He repeated that he would take no action regarding his own fine unless the University attempted to deduct it from his deposit; in that case, he said, he would attempt to obtain an injunction against the action.

Eight UO Students To Attend OFCL

Eight Oregon students were to have left this morning to attend the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders convention, which is being held today and Saturday at Reed college in Portland.

Delegates from Oregon include: Bob Ford, Oregon editor; Kitty Fraser, Emerald editorial assistant; and Janet Gustafson, Gary West, Ann Blackwell, Al Oppinger, Elsie Schiller and Bob Summers, ASUO senate members.

A total of 13 Oregon colleges will be represented at the convention. In addition, five representatives of colleges from Washington and Idaho will be present at the meeting to discuss the possibility of forming a Northwest federation of collegiate leaders.

Student Ballots Will Select 1953 Homecoming Queen

Voting for Homecoming queen will be held on campus Tuesday and Wednesday, according to Marcia Tamiesie, queen selection co-chairman. Name of the queen will not be announced until the variety show next Friday evening.

All-campus participation in the voting is stressed, Miss Tamiesie announced. Last year only 900 students voted in the elections for Homecoming queen, she said.

Voting booths will be placed outside of the Student Union and the Co-op and in Commonwealth square. Student body cards will be stamped at time of voting, and living organizations have been asked to make a check of voting at the noon meal both days, Miss Tamiesie added.

Members of the 1953 Homecoming court, one of whom will be selected to reign over the two day event next Friday and Saturday, are: Mary Cosart, Ann Gerlinger, Janet Miller, Nancy Randolph, Sylvia Wingard and Florence Wright.

Last year's Homecoming queen was Shirley Boner.
